

A Full Page of Wire-photo and Other Exclusive Pictures. Every day in The Post. See Page 6.

The Washington Post

Today: Cloudy with mild temperature, possible light rain this afternoon, colder tonight, Thursday rain and much colder, gentle south and southeast winds becoming moderate northwest or north.
Yesterday—High, 62, Low, 39.

NO. 21,447

Entered as Second Class Matter,
Postoffice, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1935

**

Copyright, 1935,
By The Washington Post.

THREE CENTS

Davidson Recalls Family Disputes On Eve of Death

'HoleCard' of Prosecutor Withheld as He Calls Several to Stand.

Husband Affirms Love for Heiress

Denies Interest in Her Wealth; Inquest Will Continue Today.

By Edward T. Follard.
A Staff Correspondent.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 5.—H. Bradley Davidson, Jr., tanned and athletic husband of Elva Statter Davidson, swore today that their brief married life was unmarred by quarrels and that her death is as much of a mystery to him as it is to the rest of the world. He told, however, of twice arguing with her on the night before her death and other witnesses testified to her melancholy moods at the otherwise gay party.

Solicitor Rowland Pruette opened the inquest in Pinehurst's Community Hall today and called seven witnesses to testify concerning the death of the Statter heiress, whose body was found last Wednesday on the running board of an automobile in her garage.

"I happened to be in love with my wife," Davidson said. "I never thought of the monetary side. I did not know she had made a will in my favor until I read it in the newspapers."

Falls to Play 'Hole Card.' Pruette, who has expressed strong suspicion that murder was committed, said he had "a hole card that I am going to play at the inquest." He did not play it today. No testimony was obtained from any witness that pointed to murder, and most of the evidence seemed to support the theories of accidental death or suicide.

Dr. C. C. Carpenter, pathologist from the Wake Forest Medical School who performed the autopsy and who has been conducting certain chemical analyses on the vital organs of Mrs. Davidson, was called as a witness tomorrow.

It was announced just after the tragedy that death had been due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dr. Taylor's Report. Dr. Heywood Taylor, of Duke University, who examined the vital organs, said Sunday night that there was sufficient carbon dioxide in Mrs. Davidson's stomach to cause death. He added, however, that there may have been "other contributing causes."

That was one of the things that made this famous health report think it had its first murder mystery in half a century.

Those who testified today were Herbert Vail and Mrs. Vail, members of the party that left a charity ball with the Davidsons early Wednesday morning to go to a spaghetti restaurant; Curtis Campaigne and Mrs. Campaigne, guests of the Davidsons, who were in the same party; Emanuel Birch, colored butler for the Davidsons; Pearl Watson, colored maid, and Davidson himself.

All those who were at the ball and at the spaghetti restaurant agreed Mrs. Davidson was despondent, that she wept and at one time said, "Nobody loves me."

Testifies to Arguments. Twice during the night, Davidson said, he and his wife had arguments. He said she purchased a picture at the inquest and asked him how he liked it, and when he said he didn't "think so much of it,"

Continued on Page 6, Column 1.

France Warns Money Tinkers

Ready to Defend Against 'Dumping,' Maintain, Franc, Flaudin Says.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, March 5.—Premier Pierre-Etienne Flaudin tonight warned the world that France stands ready to defend herself against "dumping" of the currencies of other nations. The statement that this nation is determined to take any necessary measures against such "dumping" came as the premier defended his modified NRA plan before the chamber, which voted its confidence in his financial and industrial policies, 323 against 154.

Flaudin vigorously reasserted his determination to keep the franc stable. Touching on the recent fluctuations of "a great foreign money," obviously a reference to the British pound—the premier said France has no intention of giving up its policy of defending the stability of the franc.

Investigates Mystery

Associated Press Wirephoto.
EDWIN P. JAEKLE, retained by the Statter heirs to investigate the mysterious death of Mrs. Elva Statter Davidson.

Hitler's 'Cold' Cancels Talks On Peace Pact

Simon Visit Off; British 'White Paper' Thought Cause of Move.

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.
Berlin, March 5.—A "slight cold" Adolf Hitler developed after publication of the British white paper criticizing German rearmament today caused him to postpone—perhaps forever—the visit of British statesmen in the interests of European peace and unity.

It split German public opinion sharply into two sections. One section charged that Der Fuehrer, in suddenly postponing his conference with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, set for Thursday, may have lost an historic opportunity for ensuring world co-operation.

The other section, which included Hitler's most ardent adherents, took the view that the new Germany, as personified in Hitler, once again showed the world that it won't stand for any belittling.

Later Talks, Hope. Hitler's followers seemed confident Great Britain would somehow excuse herself for the white paper and thereby pave the way for some later meeting.

Hitler and Simon were expected to discuss every phase of the Anglo-French proposals, drafted at London early in February, which included an air defense alliance for western Europe.

The British white paper, sent down with increased army estimates and preceding by one day submission of larger air estimates, said German rearmament, "if continued at the present rate, unabated and uncontrolled, will gravely endanger the peace of Europe."

Many quarters looked upon the proposed weekend meeting between Hitler and Simon—the first time leading statesmen of a first rate power would have come on a state visit since Hitler's advent to power.

Continued on Page 4, Column 4.

Girl, 10, Slowly Gaining After Operation to Right Stomach

Fall River, Mass., March 5.—Ten-year-old Alyce Jane McHenry, of Omaha, fighting bravely to gain strength after the operation which righted her inverted stomach, "feels good" and is not out of the woods yet, Dr. George C. King, of the Truetsdale Hospital staff, said tonight.

Dr. King, who will have charge of Alyce's convalescence, said the patient was "still definitely in danger" but that "the fact that she is making slow progress but is not out of the woods yet" was encouraging.

He said there was no definite crisis to be passed but that, as Dr. Philemon E. Truetsdale said after completing the intricate operation, "it will be a long, uphill climb."

Meantime Alyce's own confidence in her recovery radiated to her mother, Mrs. Lucille McHenry, prettily, prematurely gray Omaha saleswoman, who kept an all-night vigil at the bedside and after a few hours' rest was back to remain near the child throughout the day.

Law Ignored In 20 Trials Of Policemen

Stott Admits Officers Found Guilty Were Kept on Force.

Crime Probe Told of Leniency Practiced by D. C. Heads.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

Twenty instances in which the District Commissioners and the Police Trial Board excused convicted policemen from prescribed punishment were cited before the House District Crime Committee yesterday.

In each instance the policeman involved had been found guilty and the police regulations required he be dismissed. Sometimes the District Commissioners set aside the dismissal verdict of the trial board. Other times the trial board found the accused policeman guilty and cited the mandatory dismissal regulation, but recommended a heavy fine.

The record was developed through testimony of Inspector William G. Stott, now in his thirty-first year of service on the force. Inspector Stott was taken through the examples by John R. Fitzpatrick, committee counsel, with such rapidity that he had little chance and showed no disposition to go beyond the giving of categorical and monosyllabic answers when such would suffice.

Schulte Interrupts. Representative William T. Schulte (Democrat), of Indiana, committee member, broke into the examination before long, however, with an amazed "wait a minute."

"This seems to be getting to be a joke," Mr. Schulte said as Inspector Stott reeled off case after case in which the trial board had recommended dismissal of policemen only to have their decision set aside by the Commissioners. "Have the Commissioners ever sustained your judgment?"

"Yes, sir," replied Inspector Stott. "Mr. Schulte, if we made a recommendation for leniency they have, as a rule, sustained it."

Inspector Stott, serious, nervous, restrained, was trying to guard his words and wasn't trying to be funny. There was an outburst of laughter.

Representative Schulte's interruption had come after the inspector had cited the record of Private James P. Day before the trial board on charges of intoxication. Day had been convicted of intoxication off duty and sentenced to pay a $25 fine and receive a severe reprimand and warning. He was convicted of being intoxicated off duty the next day. The trial board recommended his removal.

Escapes Dismissal. The Commissioners softened this to a fine of $200 with a demand for a "good" certificate, resignation, incident on his future good conduct. Dismissal would have prohibited his reinstatement. Resignation would have permitted him to leave the police service minus the "dishonorable discharge" against him. A few months later Day again was reinstated.

Continued on Page 4, Column 2.

Siamese Prince, 11, To Ascend Throne

Nephew of Prajadhipok Accepts Offer of Crown.

By the Associated Press.

Bangkok, Siam, March 5.—Shy Prince Ananda, 11-year-old nephew of former King Prajadhipok, today accepted the invitation to mount the throne left vacant by the abdication of his uncle.

The official announcement said the boy was at Lausanne, Switzerland, where he is attending school. The throne of Siam was formally offered to Prince Ananda, son of Prajadhipok's late brother, Prince Mahidol, after news of the abdication was announced from England. The invitation was conveyed by the Siamese Minister to Paris.

By the Associated Press.

"Alyce Jane has a long, hard battle ahead of her, but I'm sure she's going to make it," Mrs. McHenry said in her first interview since the operation. "I feel deep in my heart that the worst is over."

One thing that must be done to insure Alyce's recovery is a blood transfusion to remedy an anemic condition. Already many have offered to give blood, but doctors said the professional donors regularly listed at Truetsdale Hospital will be used. If Alyce is strong enough, the transfusion will be made in about a week, although in an emergency it might be made sooner.

The "slow progress" spoken of by Dr. King was indicated by a drop in pulse from 138 this morning to 130 at mid-afternoon, and a slight drop in temperature from 101 to 100.6. Respiration remained at 24. Alyce continued to take helpful sips of water during the day. In the morning she asked for and was given a little milk.

Lent Message Of Pope Urges Nudism Fight

Pius Assails Practice as 'Blasphemous' and Paganistic.

By the Associated Press.

Vatican City, March 5.—Pope Pius today urged Rome's Lenten preachers to combat with all their strength and eloquence "the new cult of nudism."

Calling attention to the "paganized life of today," the pontiff said "its wantonness surpasses, on many occasions, that of ancient pagan life."

"It is called—with a horrible word and with horrible blasphemy—the cult of nudism," he said. "In an address to the preachers on the eve of Lent, his holiness declared: 'The paganized life of today afflicts all open and attentive ears, a life so specifically, so paganism dedicated to pleasure and to search for pleasure.'"

"In the olden times, nudism was in art, but one could not say that it was in life, neither in Rome nor in Greece."

"Another paganism tendency," the pontiff, in slow and measured words, said, is "the unconsciousness of the offense that is rendered continuously to virtue by placing in peril as one does through the mania of seeing everything, of enjoying everything."

Rebels Driven In Macedonia, Harried at Sea

Major Engagement Feared Today as Venizelos Seeks to Flee.

Developments yesterday in the situation growing out of the Greek revolution were:

The Athens government received reports that the rebels were on the run in Macedonia, while the minister of war declared the uprising would be crushed within two days. Former Premier Venizelos was said to be preparing to flee from Crete.

Vienna heard that Turkish troops were being based on the Greek frontier, while it was developed at Ankara that large forces of troops had been concentrated in Turkish Thrace for the last month.

Bulgaria expressed surprise and concern at reports that Turkey was mobilizing, expressing the hope the action was not "directed at Bulgaria." It confirmed reports that the Bulgarian guard along the Greek frontier had been strengthened.

By the United Press.

Athens, March 5.—Loyalist Greek armies appeared tonight to be driving rebel forces in Macedonia, and the naval situation in the Aegean Islands, including Crete, headquarters of the revolt, appeared desperate for the Venizelists.

Gen. George Condylis, commander in chief of the northern armies and minister of war, into whose hands the military suppression of the rebellion was given, wired details to Athens of several successes, but the main engagement is expected to take place tomorrow.

It was reported that troops under the command of the Venizelists.

Continued on Page 4, Column 5.

Eccles Dubs Bank Bill Lever To Force Private Loans Again

Reserve Board Governor Warns Financiers 'They Might Find That the Government Has Taken Over Their Business,' as Alternative.

By the Associated Press.

The omnibus banking bill was described by a Lever S. Eccles yesterday as a more fashioned to force banks to "resume lending" or "they might find that the Government has taken over their business."

Before the House Banking Committee, Eccles, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, bluntly said the failure of banks to lend has been troubling the Administration ever since the 1933 banking holiday and that so far the problem has not been solved.

Senate Waits Works, Voted In Committee

3 G. O. P. Senators to Shift From Support of Prevailing Pay.

Purported 'Earmark' of Funds Wins; Scored by Copeland.

By Robert C. Albright.

Dusted off and refurbished, but essentially unchanged from the original White House text, the President's $4,880,000 works and relief bill for the second time in a month was approved yesterday by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Confident of better luck this time, Administration leaders shoved the war-weary bill again on the calendar of the same Senate chamber that nearly a fortnight ago romped roughed over White House recommendations against the prevailing scale.

Ever since that vote, the bill has reposed in committee while fustled leaders attempted to work out a better Senate reception. Last night it appeared they had succeeded. At least three Republican Senators have been persuaded to change their votes, swayed by the promise of relief allocations. Some Democrats were reported wavering.

Purported "Earmark." Congressional clamor for a "breakdown" of the $4,880,000,000, ostensibly was met through an amendment, proffered by the White House, and adopted yesterday by the committee. But while purporting to "earmark" the money for certain broad purposes, the amendment gave the President a 20 per cent transfer privilege empowering him to shift $800,000,000 or one-fifth of the bill's total appropriation, at will in making allocations.

Labeling this "pure camouflage," that in no sense changed the original broad powers carried in the measure, Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, made a fierce committee effort to confine this power of transfer to 20 per cent of each item. His amendment was voted down.

The prevailing "age amendment" of Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Nevada, received a tie vote in committee, short one ballot of the poll needed to attach it to the bill. The vote was 12 to 12, four better than the last committee count on the amendment, but with no switches either way from the Senate's last ballot.

Austin, Gibson Switch. Break in Republican support of the anti-Administration amendment came with the outspoken admission by Senators Warren R. Austin and Ernest Gibson (Republicans), Vermont, that they would vote next time against the prevailing wage.

Gibson freely admitted "assurances" have been given him that Vermont will receive what it wants in the way of flood control projects and the huge sum asked by the President. He said Vermont's last flood cost residents of the State an average of $80, and the Administration proffer will guard against repetition of that.

Another Republican Senator is preparing to switch his vote on the basis of similar assurances. It was said, while at least one Democrat is known to be ready to do the same.

Faced with this change in prospects, friends of the amendment were nevertheless unwilling to concede defeat, and will again raise the issue.

Continued on Page 4, Column 1.

Williams Quits NIRA; Senate To Cut Codes Of Bonus Plan

Chairman Leaves in Month; NRA Rule May Be for Interstate Only.

By Leon Dure, Jr.

Early retirement of S. Clay Williams as chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board was announced at the White House late yesterday at the same time Senators on Capitol Hill were discussing plans for dropping a large number of NRA codes.

The North Carolina tobacco manufacturer, who has been the target of organized labor ever since he stepped into the ample shoes of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson last October 3, will leave the Recovery Administration within the next two or three weeks.

Plan Sweeping Reduction. This was announced in an exchange of letters between the NIRA head and the President, in which Mr. Roosevelt made clear that the burly Southerner was quitting at his own request and in accordance with an agreement under which he accepted the assignment.

First intimation that the broad scope of the NRA may be restricted drastically came, meantime, from Senator Pat Harrison, Democratic chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, after members of that group had considered plans for the

Continued on Page 2, Column 4.

Robinson Lashes Long In Bitter Senate Duel; 'Bodyguard' Searched

Williams to Retire From NRA Board

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, left, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which is probing activities of NRA, with S. Clay Williams, chairman of the NRA Board, as the committee met yesterday. Mr. Williams later revealed an exchange of letters with the President on his desire to retire from public office.

Williams Quits NIRA; Senate To Cut Codes Of Bonus Plan

Chairman Leaves in Month; NRA Rule May Be for Interstate Only.

By Douglas Warrenfels.

Senate and presidential approval of a compromise bonus proposal was the attraction dangled before a House committee yesterday by Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland.

Observers believed the Marylander's testimony served merely to complicate an already confused bonus picture, as House cash paymaster, Mr. Clegg, had hoped to have the plans championed by Representatives Patman (Democrat), Texas, and Vinson (Democrat), Kentucky.

The first real test on the troublesome issue will come shortly when the House Ways and Means Committee decides which scheme it shall approve. A vote on the floor unquestionably will be reached not later than next week and possibly in the next 72 hours.

Tydings and Vinson shared the limelight as public hearings were finished last night. Vinson lambasted the Patman bill and insisted his measure was the only one to assure full cash payment of the certificates at once, without inflation.

Meanwhile, there was widespread speculation over which plan would be passed by the House. Such bit-

48 Facing Charges of Murder For Cult's Riot in Court Room

Chicago, March 5.—Forty-eight Negro cultists who participated in a riot in women's court faced murder charges tonight for the death of a 73-year-old police official.

Judge Edward S. Scheffer, in whose courtroom the battle raged for 15 minutes, ordered evidence gathered preliminary to the seeking of murder indictments as a result of the death of Capt. Joseph Paczynski.

The possibility of another fatality loomed. Bluff Phillip Brankin, 29, was in critical condition at a hospital, a bullet in his right lung. Two members of the "Allah Temple of Islam" also suffered bullet wounds. A score of cultists suffered cracked heads and contusions at the hands of officers. A dozen officers and bailiffs were scratched, bitten, kicked and cuffed before they could toss the 31 women and 17 men rioters into cells.

Nine of the women members of the "Moorish Order," wearing red hats adorned with crescents, were haled into court for participating

Continued on Page 1, Column 2.

Political Ally of Huey's Taken for Protector, Has No Arms.

'Madman' Shouts Majority Leader

Kingfish Calls Foe Tool of Utility; Probe Again Delayed.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

Seldom, if ever, has the Senate witnessed the exchange of personal invective which occurred yesterday between Democratic Leader Joe Robinson and Senator Huey P. Long (Democrat), Louisiana, with Senator Josiah W. Bailey (Democrat), North Carolina, addressing a brief but exhorting remark to the "Kingfish."

Throughout virtually all the afternoon Senators Robinson and Long lashed each other in a renewal of their three-year-old feud, employing satire, ridicule and innuendoes to circumvent the rules, but at times using language that clearly violated the restriction against personal reflection.

Intervened by an attack of Senator Long on Senator M. Baruch, financier and adviser to President, the Democratic leader branded the Louisiana speech "a demonstration of egotism, arrogance and ignorance." Senators leaned forward as his words crackled through the chamber.

Senator Robinson, his face flushed with anger, called on the "manhood of the Senate" to assert itself and require the Louisiana "to know and take his proper place in a body composed for the most part of gentlemen." He likened Senator Long to a "mad man."

Hurl 'Power Trust' Charge. Senator Long came back hard. He intimated he had befriended the Democratic leader but that the leader did not appreciate it. He tossed the word "gentleman" back into Senator Robinson's face by recalling that the latter had once engaged in fistfights on the golf course of the Chevy Chase Country Club. He taunted Senator Robinson for putting relatives on the Arkansas State pay roll.

In effect, he accused Senator Robinson of serving the "power trust" and being responsive to Mr. Baruch's desires. Assaulting Senator Robinson as unsympathetic to the misery of the country, Senator Long asked the Senate to "take my word for it" that the people would not long tolerate his conduct.

"I am utterly unwilling to take

Continued on Page 7, Column 2.

Holmes' Death Is Due Hourly

Hope Abandoned as Former Justice of U. S. Lapses Into a Coma.

Former Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes clung to life with a thin thread last night. Death was expected hourly after his friend, Justice William H. Taft, of the United States Court of Appeals, emerged from the home to announce:

"He will live just an hour or two, if that long."

Stricken ten days ago with bronchial pneumonia, the former justice has been under an oxygen tent since Saturday and has been receiving intravenous injections of glucose to keep up his vigor.

Mr. Holmes would be 94 years old Friday. A visit by his physicians shortly before Justice Hile's announcement resulted in the verdict.

"Every symptom indicates that he is sinking."

Earlier in the day the patient had lapsed into a coma and for the first time physicians and friends abandoned hope of recovery.

Index of Today's Features.

	Pages.
Along the Potomac	9
Army and Navy Orders	22
Clapper's Between You and Me	2
Classified Advertisements	23, 24
Comics	63
Culbertson on Bridge	12
Editorials	8
Editorial Features	9
Federal Diary	22
Financial News, Markets	20, 21, 22
Local News	15
No End of Books	9
Phillips' Once Over	23
Obituaries	24
Pictures, a full page	14
Post Impressionist	16
Radio News, Programs	22
Skolsky in Hollywood	16
Society	10
Sports	17, 18, 19
Stage and Screen	19
Strange As It Seems	15
Sullivan on Broadway	15
This Morning With Povich	17
Three Men and Diana (fiction)	12
Vital Statistics	8
William Lyon Phelps	11
Women's Activities	11

'Hungry Mobs' Face Arkansas, Says Governor

Asks Legislature to Vote Emergency Aid; U. S. Cancels Relief.

By the Associated Press.
Little Rock, Ark., March 5.—Gov. J. Milton Futrell today asked the State Legislature to pass emergency relief taxes, saying, "Mobs will be running loose in this State" unless hungry mouths of those on relief rations are fed.
The Governor warned the Assembly "public disorders" threatened as a result of the withdrawal of all Federal relief March 1.
He listed two-score special items to be taxed to provide relief funds ranging from telephone poles to lipsticks.
The Governor estimated his emergency bill would raise $6,850,000 in the next two years and asked for its final passage without amendment "within the next three or four days" to relieve a tense situation.
Gov. Futrell promised to veto if the Legislature should adopt other revenue-raising measures. Sales tax and liquor bills have been pending since the start of the session in January.
He said the State needed to raise at least $1,500,000 a year for unemployed and $1,500,000 a year for work relief in order to interest Federal authorities in resumption of Federal relief in this State.
His proposed taxes ran the gamut of luxuries from radios and electric refrigerators to chewing gum, and included also special excise levies on bank checks, electrical energy, natural-gas pipelines, and virtually every form of amusement.
Federal relief was withdrawn from Arkansas five days ago apparently because the State had failed to make a relief appropriation.

In Congress

Senate, House Activities Summarized.

YESTERDAY.
Senate.
Met at noon and adjourned at 5 p. m.
Hearings on the nomination of Robinson as administrator of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.
Appropriations Committee approved President's works and relief bill without prevailing wage amendment, but with broad breakdown of funds to be allocated.
Received Nye bill for Central Bank of United States.
Finance Committee slated NRA investigation to open Thursday.
Confirmed nomination of John H. Russell as a permanent major general in Marine Corps.

House.
Met at noon and adjourned at 2 p. m.
Received petition to force a vote on Frazier-Lemke farm refinancing bill.
Representative Bertrand Snell (Republican), New York, minority leader, was presented with a commission as a Kentucky colonel.
Ways and Means Committee heard the merits of the conflicting Vinson and Tydings bonus bills extolled.
Banking and Currency Committee questioned witnesses on bank bill.
Interstate Commerce Committee considered Rayburn measure to ban holding companies.
Rules Committee considered HOLC investigation, but failed to vote on the issue.

TODAY.
Senate.
Meets at noon.
Takes up President's battered works and relief bill for the second time this session.
Postoffice Committee meets again to consider Long resolution for investigation of Postmaster General Farley.
Interstate Commerce sub-committee considers bus and coal bills.
House.
Meets at noon.
Rules Committee studies a rule to provide an early vote on bill to extend the life of the HOLC and increase its borrowing authority.
Ways and Means Committee considers bonus legislation in executive session.
Appropriations sub-committee questions witnesses on the Navy supply bill.
Banking and Currency and Interstate Commerce Committees resume hearings.

Between You and Me

The Storm Over Long Breaks; Manchukuo's Cotton Expansion; Veteran Roper.

By Raymond Clapper

The long-awaited battle with Huey Long has broken loose like a thunderstorm. Hugh Johnson opened it in New York Monday night with a cannonading of epithets such as has not been heard from an American political platform in these times.
Senator Joseph T. Robinson followed it with a Senate speech yesterday, which was as bitterly personal an attack as that sharp-tongued leader ever let loose. Huey answered Robinson in kind with extra measure on the spot. He will answer Johnson tomorrow night. Another free-for-all is scheduled in the Senate for today.

What will become of it nobody knows. It is a sudden and fierce battle which roars with explosive force rare in modern politics. Certainly there will be mighty temper coming out with the bonus riots, frayed nerves everywhere, and paralyzing fears which came to a climax in the panic at the end of the administration.
Roosevelt attempted to switch the national mood to one of brighter hope. He tried laughing off trouble, kept the band playing "Happy Days Are Here Again," and turned on his own good humor and charm to set the pace for the country. It had a steady effect for a time.
But the unemployed are still counted by the millions. Relief rolls are as long as ever. Hope deferred has made many discouraged again. The ugly mood is coming back. We have plunged suddenly into a slugging contest punctured with billingsgate.

The fact is that the silence treatment which was ordered for Long early in the Administration has failed to stop him. The original idea was to ignore him, let him scream and wear himself out—that, plus some silent footpaw work in an attempt to "get something on him." Long says the Administration was trying to keep him on him—so he would be so busy scratching that he wouldn't have time to make trouble.
Senators tried ostracism on him. They walked out on him when he spoke. They let him say anything and seldom bothered to answer him. Weaker men have been beaten down by these tactics.
Long thrives on it. His following in the country grew rapidly. He began to turn the heat on Farley. Day after day he piled the Senate with charges. During the works bill fight he teamed up with the Republicans and beat down the Administration on the prevailing wage amendment. Every day Administration leaders and friends became more concerned over the strength Long was gaining in the country.
So the time came to abandon the silent treatment, and send the flame-throwers into action.

The debate is pitched in such a key that it does not come under the head of public discussion. However, there are many others who can carry on dignified discussion of issues before the country. This is a battle to break Huey Long, and everything goes, even if it has to be a brawl. Johnson says nobody has tried to answer Long in language that people can understand.

Whatever public good or ill comes of this, it is good entertainment. Political vocabularies will be enriched, and Lord knows they need it. Politics has the dull jargon of any trade. Long and Johnson between them are giving it some new life.
Hugh Johnson on Huey Long: "Huey knows what part of the horse he can be."
Ruey Long on Hugh Johnson: "Just a screwdriver in Baruch's hand."
Hugh Johnson on Huey Long: "Magic financial hat, tonic put up by partnership of a priest and a Punchinello guaranteed to grow economic whiskers on a billiard ball overnight."

Huey Long on Hugh Johnson: "I've seen several people in the insane asylum down in Louisiana, but they all had better sense than to let Baruch and Johnson advise them."
Manchukuo expanded her cotton acreage 40 per cent last year over what it was in 1933. The Department of Agriculture has been looking into it. The program calls for a further increase of 15 per cent this year. They have a plan under way to become self-sufficient in cotton in 15 years. This cotton would be handy in case Japan needed it for explosives some time.

Two organizations have been set up to promote increased cotton production there. One is controlled jointly by the Manchukuo government and the South Manchurian Railway. Its active officials are Japanese. The purpose is to put on a cotton-growing propaganda drive. The other organization was set up to buy cotton at guaranteed minimum prices. It is controlled by the Manchukuo government, which puts up one-half of the capital. Japanese interests advanced the other half.
American experts report the climate is far from ideal and foresee hard going. If the plan succeeds, both American and Indian cotton will be displaced, but probably not more than 150,000 bales of American cotton would be affected—at most about half of Tennessee's crop, for instance. More interesting than important.

Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, who has been working around Washington since the beginning of the century, was reminiscing at a White House luncheon recently.
Suddenly President Roosevelt pointed to a picture of Lincoln on the wall.
"Dan," he said, "do you recall working under him?"
"Mr. President," replied Roper, "I am a veteran, but not of the Civil War."

Doctor's Test on Self Proves Milk and Honey Diet Adequate

May Solve Cost-of-Living Problem, 3 Months' Trial Shows.

By the Associated Press.
Minneapolis, March 5.—It's not only a competent long distance sustenance diet but may be the answer to the high cost of living. Dr. Mykola Haydak, who lived three months on milk and honey and a dash of orange juice, said tonight.

The 36-year-old entomologist, at the University of Minnesota, tabulated statistics of his "ideal" diet and found he had ended its three months' trial in perfect health at a cost of approximately $35. He consumed 73 gallons of milk and 70 pounds of honey.
Dr. Haydak, a former Ukrainian soldier, began his experiment November 28 to call the attention of the medical world to the desirability of his menu for patients unable to tackle solid foods and also to definitely establish honey as not just another sweet but as a food product containing elements necessary to the human body.

"Doctors," Dr. Haydak said, "but people on milk diets for ulcers and such things. Milk, however, is low in iron and copper content, both of which are necessary for the production of hemoglobin. It also contains little of the necessary vitamin C."
"I believed that a mixture of milk and honey would be a satisfactory diet for a long period. Honey contains iron, copper, manganese and vitamin C."

The minerals in honey, Dr. Haydak said, are utilized by the body in building up red blood corpuscles. During the test, the doctor drank a pint of honeyed milk every two hours of the day. Although he lost several pounds at the start of the experiment, he soon gained all back and doctors pronounced him in perfect health.

Since February 19 Dr. Haydak has been gradually adding solids to his menu to regain a normal diet.

Williams Quits NIRB; Senate To Slash Codes

Chairman Leaves in Month; NRA Rule May Be For Intrastate Industry.

Continued from Page 1.

forthcoming investigation of the NRA.
The Senator divulged that the committee is contemplating a sweeping reduction in the number of industries subject to codes. This was interpreted to mean that the law will be redrafted to eliminate businesses of purely intrastate character, which would include the service trades and a number of others.
"A great number of codes should be abolished," Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, added. "I am agreed on that in this meeting."

Quiet Reign at NRA.
Retirement of Williams as the active head of the NRA and the threat of radical changes in the recovery legislation virtually completed the paralysis at NRA headquarters. The President has given no thought to a successor, it was business interests required it. The possibility was advanced in one quarter that matters might be allowed to drift until the recovery act is written.
Mr. Williams has been warmly defended by the President as he has been hotly attacked by the American Federation of Labor ever since he was drafted to duty on the recovery board. Only recently, Mr. Roosevelt made public a letter to William Green, president of the A. F. of L., in which he upheld the Southern Railway, "devoted, impartial service" and rejected a plea for his head.

The correspondence between the President and Mr. Williams disclosed an agreement that the latter be allowed to retire whenever his business interests required it. The tobacco manufacturer, who is vice chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., said in his letter, dated yesterday, that this time has now arrived.

Liked Johnson's Speech.
Mr. Roosevelt replied immediately, addressing Williams as "My dear Clay." The President expressed "sincere regret," and asked that he hold up his resignation for "at least another two weeks."
This course Mr. Williams is prepared to follow, he said as he left the White House. He conferred at some length with Mr. Roosevelt before the letters were made public.
In all, it was a busy day for the NIRB chairman. First, he waited outside the Senate Finance Committee room, but never was called into the executive meeting. Later, he got off a wire of congratulations to Gen. Johnson, in New York, for the latter's speech castigating Huey Long and Father Coughlin.

Tall, heavy-set and deliberate, Williams brought a soft Southern drawl into the NRA in place of Johnson's rapier-like tongue. He has served as chairman of Secretary Roper's business advisory and planning council and was a member of NRA's industrial advisory board.
His retirement was not unexpected at NRA, since he previously had expressed a desire to be released, but it came with surprising suddenness. Other members of the NIRB, one of whom may be named chairman, are Walton H. Hamilton, Sidney Hillman, A. D. Whiteside, L. C. Marshall, and ex-officio members, Leon Henderson and Blackwell Smith. W. Averell Harriman, son of the railroad magnate, is administrative executive.

Richberg to Be Witness.
Senator Harrison announced, meantime, that Donald R. Richberg, head of the NRA policy committee and New Deal coordinator-in-chief, will be the first witness when hearings are opened on the NRA tomorrow. A number of others will be called later, including, possibly, Gen. Johnson.
"The committee will go thoroughly into an investigation," he declared. "We will use every report and such other information as is available."

Richberg will be asked to present charges he wants made in the law, as well as to be asked to account for the lack of enforcement of many codes. The committee is expected to go into the costs of NRA to industry and to Government, as well as code compliance.
The extent to which codes may be curbed by legislation was, at best, speculative, but one report was that as many as 80 per cent of the 600 fair-competition agreements may be abandoned.

Text of Williams Case Letters

The following correspondence between President Roosevelt and S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, in which the latter is released from the NRA, was made public yesterday at the White House:

March 5, 1935.
The President,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.
My dear Mr. President:

You will remember that when you asked me to become a member of the National Industrial Recovery Board last September I told you that the responsibilities and duties upon me in the business connections I regularly carry were such that any service I could render could only be for such a period of time as these other relationships could permit. You responded with an appreciated recognition of the obligations I felt in my regular relationships and suggested that when those requirements should no longer leave me able to continue in this special assignment you would release me from further service.

About Christmas time we spoke again of the necessity of my returning to my business and you asked me to stay on until the study of new legislation had been completed.

Now that the board has completed its study of proposals for new legislation and has also substantially accomplished those other essential tasks which were indicated for attention prior to new legislative determination, I feel that I can no longer disregard the increasingly urgent call to return to my regular work. While in the earlier stages of the board's work a change in its membership might have resulted in some delay in the handling of immediately important tasks, I feel sure that under the present status of the board's work there will be only a minimum of lost motion connected with my retirement.

I am, therefore, asking that you permit me to retire from the National Industrial Recovery Board just as soon as possible consistent with your convenience in the matter of making such arrangements as you may desire to make in connection with my retirement. I hope that you can name an early date at which I may expect to return to my business duties.

It has been a pleasure to me to serve under you on the recovery board and I have appreciated to the fullest the fine support that we of the board have had at your hands in the administration of our part of the task.
Yours very truly,
S. CLAY WILLIAMS.

The President's acknowledgment to the above letter read as follows:

March 5, 1935.
My dear Clay:
It is with sincere regret that I received today your letter stating that the increasing importance of your returning to your regular business duties leaves you unable to continue your service on the National Industrial Recovery Board.
But I was not surprised because I have in mind our several discussions of this possibility and particularly my letter to you under date of September 27, 1934, in which I said:

I am asking you to accept this appointment with a definite understanding that if you find yourself unable to serve as long as I hope may be possible, I shall, although reluctantly, release you from further service on your request.
In response to the request of your letter and in accordance with the understanding I had with you last September, I shall arrange to let you return to your regular work at an early date, but I am asking that you do not make your resignation effective or retire from the work of the board for at least another two weeks.

May I take this occasion to tell you of my deep appreciation for your selfless contribution to the work we are all trying to do, and the fine public service that you have rendered?

Very sincerely yours,
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.
Hon. Clay Williams,
Chairman, National Industrial Recovery Board,
Washington, D. C.

Roosevelt's Support Indicated For a Compromise on Bonus

Continued from Page 1.

ter feeling has developed on the question that members of the committee, irrespective of its decision, probably will carry their differences to the floor instead of working together as a unit—the ordinary practice of committees.

Several courses are open to the committee. It can recommend passage of a specific bill or merely propose favorable action on a measure and leave the choice to the House itself. The Tydings plan, incidentally, has been offered in the House by members of both parties, Representatives Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, and Andrews (Republican), New York.

Patman's bill would authorize immediate full cash payment through "controlled currency expansion." It would involve the printing of the $2,000,000,000 or more necessary.
Vinson also favors full payment immediately in cash. His measure would authorize the Treasury to finance the payment, probably through issuance of bonds.

Tydings would have the Government give the veterans negotiable Government bonds bearing 3 per cent interest and maturing in 1945. Save and restrain in manner, Tydings stuck to his guns when committee members interrupted his testimony with unfriendly questions.

After the Senator explained his measure would provide for payment of bonds representing 75 per cent of the face value of the certificates now and issuance of coupons for the remainder, payable in 1945, Representative Crowther (Republican), New York, interposed:
"Hell, if these veterans are only to get 75 per cent of it now that bill is killed right now. Hadn't they just as well keep the certificates they already have?"

Camalier & Buckley

OSHKOSH
Hanger Luggage
For Men and Women

Like the Hanger Trunk of 35 years ago, Hanger Hand Luggage is here to stay.
Why spend money, time, wear and tear having garments pressed? Clothes properly packed may be carried indefinitely without pressing.
$20 and up
Let our expert packer do your luggage packing.
Camalier & Buckley
The Customers
1141 Connecticut Ave.
6 doors above The Mayflower
Expert Repairing

Millikan Warns Of U. S. Dangers

Says Subversive Forces May Destroy Nation.

By the Associated Press.
Los Angeles, March 5.—Subversive forces "from within" will kill either liberty or civilization, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, scientist and educator, warned today "unless the American people create an educated and intelligent electorate."
Dr. Millikan, Nobel prize winner and chairman of the executive council of the California Institute of Technology, branded paid forces of revolution in America as "Huns and Vandals," and cautioned "we must realize that our human problems can not be solved by the magic-makers who prey upon an ignorant and uneducated electorate with grotesque and impossible promises."
The principal forces subversive of the American ideals were listed by Dr. Millikan as "the stupendous bonus racket by which selfish minorities seek to raid the Federal Treasury; the American spoils system; demagoguery, such as that which prevailed in California last summer and now is in control of

4 Sent to Prison In Theft of Cars

2 Capital Men Sentenced for Aid to 'Ring.'

By the Associated Press.
Trenton, N. J., March 5.—Four members of what Department of Justice agents called an automobile stealing ring operating between Paterson, N. J., and Washington, were sentenced to Federal penitentiary terms today when they pleaded guilty.
Police and Federal agents recovered 29 passenger cars the men were charged with stealing before their arrest last November.
The men, each sentenced to a year and a day and placed on one to two years probation, were John H. Coker, of Clifton; Philip W. Kadel, of East Falls Church, Va., and Harding Dameron and William E. Edwards, of Washington.

Louisiana: the relaxing American standards of honesty, fidelity, faith and thrift, and revolutionary persons and groups, mostly from abroad."

Hickey-Freeman

CUSTOMIZED CLOTHES

PLANT THE SEED

Your first HICKEY-FREEMAN suit will be planting the seed of a fine wardrobe. You will add others in following seasons, while the fine quality of the first suit keeps you looking your best each time you wear it, even after several years' use.

$50 to $90

Goldheim's

Apparel for Gentlemen . . . Established 1875

1409 H Street N.W. NAional 1409

Throat feel sore... does it hurt to swallow

Get it back quickly, and safely, with LA LASINE ... the DOUBLE-ACTION Antiseptic

Your throat feels raw. It hurts you to swallow. Two things have happened. Germs have the upper hand, and the salivary glands, those glands that secrete Nature's antiseptics, are below par. The bacterial count of your mouth is out of balance. Bronchitis, or worse, may follow.

Do this... feel Relief in 20 Seconds

Gargle with La Lasine mixed with water—half-and-half, or if you prefer, use it full strength. Immediately a double-action takes place. First, the antiseptic foam of La Lasine surrounds and kills bacteria present. Simultaneously, the special La Lasine membrane-restoratives bring back to par the salivary glands. Quickened to action, these glands release once more their antiseptic enzymes and ferments. The bacterial count of your mouth and throat returns to balance.

La Lasine is safe—even if you should swallow it. Get a bottle from your druggist today. La Lasine is economical. $1 size makes 2½ pints. La Lasine International Inc., N. Y.

Gargle with La Lasine every day... Keep sore throat, bad breath and smoker's throat away!

LA LASINE

THE DOUBLE-ACTION ANTISEPTIC

1 Its antiseptic foam flushes germs out of the mouth.

2 Its membrane-restoratives stimulate the salivary glands.

Dein Maryland
Blended Whiskey
A SUPER WHISKEY SPONSORED BY NATIONAL DISTILLERS
For sale at all good bars and Liquor Stores
Dein-Maryland Co., New York, N. Y.

DAILY SPECIALS
THURSDAY, MARCH 7TH
PURE CANDIES
Old Fashioned Gum Drops 15¢
Chocolate Covered Raisins 17¢
Clusters 40¢ Value—full priced 17¢
Chocolate Covered Thyminals 24¢
Tutti Frutti Coconut 17¢
Cream Kisses 17¢
Famous Dundee Cake 19¢
40¢ Value—full priced 19¢
AT THE FOUNTAINS
Sliced Chicken Sandwich 15¢
Hot Fudge Sundae 10¢
Coffee or Tea and Cake 10¢
FREE Cup of Hot Soup with any Sandwich
185 STORES—One near you
1107 P St. N.W.
2125 14th St. N.W.
3118 M St. N.W.
1100 St. N.E.

Camalier & Buckley
The Customers
1141 Connecticut Ave.
6 doors above The Mayflower
Expert Repairing

EDITORIAL CLERK
Saturday Afternoon Class
In response to numerous requests by applicants for Editorial Clerk Examination, a special Saturday afternoon class has been arranged, beginning March 9, at 3 o'clock. The course includes instruction in the examination. The instructor was formerly a member of the Editorial Commission of the Civil Service Commission. The class is limited; register before 3 p. m. Saturday, March 9.
MOUNT PLEASANT SCHOOL FOR SECRETARIES
1414 Street and Park Road
Telephone Columbia 3000.
CIVIL SERVICE EXAM
Ass't. Statistical Clerk
$1,620 Year—Application in by March 18th. Exams. Later
Intensive preparatory course, including mental tests, elementary computations, tabulation and graphing. Printed lessons given out at each class for study. Classes under supervision of a government statistician. $10 for course—1-8 Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. First class Tuesday, March 5. Register early. Last statistical class, 623 enrolled and many made from 80 to 90% on their Gov. exam.
The BEST is the cheapest.
BOYD SCHOOL
Civil Service Specialists
1333 P St. (Et. 16 Yrs.) RA. 2334.

Tompkins Held In Motor Death Of Mrs. Storey

Contractor's Son to Face Grand Jury as Result of Fatal Crash.

A coroner's jury yesterday held Francis M. Tompkins, 27, of the 1800 block of H street northwest, son of Charles H. Tompkins, contractor, for the grand jury in the death of Mrs. Ruth Storey, 30, district building employee, who was injured fatally when struck by an automobile driven by Tompkins at Fourteenth and E streets early Saturday.

Tompkins was at the wheel of an automobile owned by Mrs. Olay Bayne Sturtevant, of Oxon Hill, Md., at the time of the accident, which occurred at a loading platform, the inquest jury was told. He was returning to his home, having taken Mrs. Sturtevant to her residence after visiting a night club.

Body Dragged 73 Feet

Struck by the automobile, Mrs. Storey's body was dragged 73 feet, police said. At Emergency Hospital it was found she had suffered fractures of an arm, both legs, her skull and pelvis. She died a few hours later.

The inquiry developed conflicting testimony. Principal disagreement centered around where Mrs. Storey was standing when she was struck, and who was the first person to reach her side.

Louis E. Hodge, of the 2100 block of H street, an employee of the circulation department of The Washington Post, was a witness.

"I was in front of an E street restaurant," said Mr. Hodge, "when Mrs. Storey walked out of the restaurant, crossed the street and stepped on the platform."

"An instant later the car came into my line of vision and struck the woman," he asserted.

Mr. Hodge said he was the first person to reach the injured woman. She was lying half on, half off the platform, he said. He turned her over on her back, he said, and she was not moved again until the ambulance arrived.

Testifying he was an eyewitness of the accident, another man said he watched Mrs. Storey walk toward the platform. She stepped on it, he asserted, then off again. A moment later the car crashed into her, he stated.

The witness, R. Hale Cooper, a cab driver, of the 100 block of E street southeast, also said he was the first person to reach Mrs. Storey and carried her from the platform.

Although Cooper said Mrs. Storey was knocked only about 15 or 20 feet, Detective William J. Liverman, of the homicide squad, who had testified he found a pool of blood 73 feet from the east end of the platform, said he was told she was hurled there by the force of the collision.

Another witness, Louis R. Bell, of the 1300 block of Columbia road, testified he saw Mrs. Sturtevant's coup run over a sidewalk in the Capitol Plaza shortly before the accident.

In this he was supported by James T. Thompson, of the 100 block of South Carolina avenue southeast.

Mother Attends Youth

His mother, Mrs. Charles H. Tompkins, accompanied Tompkins to the inquest, and he was represented by Attorney James Sherier. Through most of the trial the young man sat with one hand clasped over his eyes, and the other clasping the hand of his mother.

The youth contended that he swerved and struck the street car platform deliberately to avoid striking Mrs. Storey. He said he stepped from the stand and started back across the street in the opposite direction from the District Building, where she was employed.

Former United States Attorney Leo Rosten represented Robert Storey, husband of the dead woman, at the hearing.

Jail Sentence Given Hit-Run Driver

Accused of striking a pedestrian, carrying him nearly a block on the front bumper of his automobile and then running over him, Bill M. Jones, of the 700 block of Fifty-fifth street northeast, was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail and pay a $100 fine or serve 30 days additional, when arraigned in Traffic Court yesterday on charges of leaving the scene of an accident.

On February 17, it was testified, Jones was driving across Union Station Plaza. His car struck James R. Bailey, colored, of the 300 block of B street northeast. Bailey, the court was told, fell across the front of Jones' machine which continued on.

Nearly half a block away, witnesses said, Bailey fell to the street and front wheels of the car passed over his body. Emanuel and Henry Norris, brothers, passengers in the Jones car, said they pleaded with the driver to stop, but he refused. He was soon arrested.

Bailey said he was attempting to cross the street and failed to see the approaching car. He suffered a fractured jaw, injured shoulder and painful lacerations.

CASH FOR OLD GOLD

Like watches—diamonds—gold teeth and old diamonds—bring them here for $200 to $500. We have the best buyers and the best prices. Write for our free catalog.

SELINGER'S

BLACKHEADS

And freckles can be permanently removed by a new scientific treatment. A container sufficient for a full treatment will be sent you on receipt of 25c in coin. Money back if not satisfied. THORNTON CO., INC. 1320 P. St. N.W. New York, N.Y.

Accused Driver and His Mother

Francis M. Tompkins and Mrs. Charles H. Tompkins.

Age Pensions, Work Insurance Advocated by Virginia Group

Committee of State Job Service Also Calls for Stronger Child Labor Laws in Program to Stabilize Purchase Power, Employment.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Richmond, Va., March 5.—Eight recommendations, including favor of old-age pensions, stronger and more adequate child labor laws and the adoption of unemployment insurance, are made in a report of the employment planning committee of the State advisory council of the Virginia State Employment Service, released today.

The committee, headed by Dr. Raymond B. Pischbeck, dean at the University of Richmond, includes

William A. Harley Dies at Frederick

Was Employee of Postoffice for 39 Years.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Frederick, Md., March 5.—William Arthur Harley, 67, retired, 39 years in the postoffice service, died at the City Hospital today after a long illness.

He served under seven postmaster generals and at the time of his retirement four years ago, was in charge of the money order and registered letter department. A member of Calvary Methodist Church, he was for 30 years a steward of the church. He also was a member of the Independent Hose Company, Frederick's oldest volunteer fire organization.

His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Heinlein Harley, survives. Funeral services will be held Thursday with interment in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

48 Cultists Face Charges of Murder

Continued from Page 1.

They surged forward and Bullitt Higgins tried to hold them off with his gun. They came on anyway. He had to fire. Capt. Palczynski was slugged. I saw several men around him with clubs."

The captain, a veteran of 50 years' service, had been sitting beside the judge. Coroner's Physician S. A. Levinson said he found no marks of violence on the body.

Bullitt Theodore Mazola said the attack was apparently started by a prearranged signal. He stated he saw Annabelle Pasha, 19, rise and snap her fingers a moment before the riot began.

Held on Theft Charge.

Thurmont, Md., March 5 (AP).—The finding of a watch identified as belonging to Estee B. Zentz resulted in the arrest of Raymond Baxter on a charge of burglary at Zentz's home Sunday night. Baxter was stopped the following morning on the Thurmont-Frederick highway by Sheriff Charles W. Smith and searched.

Um-m-m Caramels

—one of the 27 Varieties in

Kann's Kapitol Kandy

60c lb. 2 lbs.—95c

Take Home a Box tonight

Made Fresh Daily at

Kann's

Maryland Talk Of Bankruptcy Declared Bunk

Sascer, in Talk at Prince Georges, Cites Recent Bond Sale.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 5.—Branding as "bunk" all statements that Maryland is in a bankrupt condition, State Senator Lansdale G. Sascer, president of the Maryland Senate, asserted last night the State budget soon would be balanced. He spoke at a dinner tendered the Prince Georges County legislative delegation at Carvel Hall by the Young Men's Democratic Club of Prince Georges County.

Senator Sascer explained the $2,250,000 deficit in the State treasury by a falling off in anticipated revenues. Expenditures have not exceeded budget allowances, he stated.

Evidence of the State's solvency is found in the recent sale of Maryland bonds at 118, Sascer said, as compared with sales a few months ago at 109.

Smith W. Purdum, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, sounded the call for "greater responsibility" for Senator Sascer. He said Senator Sascer was eminently qualified for the position of Governor of Maryland.

A desk set was given Senator Sascer, the presentation being made by Irving G. Owings, chairman of the arrangements committee. Owings, termed the Senator as the club's "most distinguished member."

Other speakers included Emanuel Gorfine, Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates; Kent R. Mullikin, majority leader of the House of Delegates; Charles C. Marbury, chairman of the Prince Georges County delegation in the House; Egbert F. Tingley, L. Harold Soth-land, and John S. White, members of the Prince Georges delegation; M. Hampton Magruder, Democratic leader in the county; W. R. Hubbard, of the Kent County House delegation; Willis R. Jones, former assistant attorney general of Maryland; and John McNulty, State commander of the American Legion.

H. Winslow Wheatley, Jr., president of the Young Men's Democra-

Stability Aim.

It calls for "the adoption of unemployment insurance or reserves which would guarantee a greater stability of purchasing power and a larger degree of permanency and regularity of employment."

"Unemployment insurance," it continues, "would require its efficient administration an effective and permanent State-wide system of public employment offices. The records of these offices would furnish information for determining current and long-range occupations and employment trends."

"The committee also thinks it wise to urge upon the United States Census Bureau the continuance of periodical censuses of trade and service industries similar to those which are now made for manufacturing industries. This information would supply much-needed data for intelligent planning in these industries."

"Home Work" Scored.

"The creation of employment and the increase of labor purchasing power through the abolition of home work from the industrial plants by State law, Federal law and by codes of fair competition is desirable."

"Stronger and more adequate child-labor laws are needed. The conducting of employer and employee groups for concrete suggestions as to means and methods whereby employment opportunities may be increased is needed in Virginia."

"It is also urged that the State FERA and other organizations require all employable people on relief rolls to register in an employment office as a requisite for securing relief."

Man Stricken Fatally While Plowing Field

George Braithwaite, 62, Collapses on Farm in West Virginia.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5.—Seized with an attack of angina pectoris while plowing in a field on a farm in this county yesterday, George Braithwaite, 62, a life-long resident of the Gettysburg section, died before medical aid could be summoned.

Mr. Braithwaite called to a fellow worker that he was ill, then collapsed behind the plow. Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Edie Rutton; a son, Clifford, and two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Clark and Miss Hazel Braithwaite, at home; two brothers, John and David Braithwaite, Martinsburg, and two sisters, Mrs. A. M. Shirley, Darksville, W. Va., and Mrs. Howard Shirley, of Green Springs.

B. B. Mitchell.

Brandy, Va., March 5 (Sp).—Funeral services were held here for B. B. Mitchell, 76, former principal of Brandy High School and for nearly 30 years connected with the educational work of this section, who died at his home from a heart attack.

He is survived by his wife, four children, George W. Mitchell, treasurer of Culpeper County; Prof. D. B. Mitchell, of Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. P. A. Maccone, of Washington, and Miss Eula Mitchell, of Brandy; two brothers and a grandchild.

Mrs. F. Bernard Frantz.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Waynesboro, Pa., March 5.—Funeral services will be held in the Reformed Monroeville Church here tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Ada M. Frantz, 51, wife of F. Bernard Frantz, who died Sunday.

Surviving are nine children, eight at home, two sisters and four brothers.

tic Club, who is secretary to Senator Sascer, was toastmaster. Capt. Richard H. Mansfield gave a chalk talk and singing and dancing completed the entertainment. R. Earle Sheriff and John A. Johnson were on the arrangements committee.

FERA Work Proves Great Aid To Needy Students at V. M. I.

Jobs Assigned Helping Cadets to Meet Cost of Education.

By the Associated Press.

Lexington, Va., March 5.—The Virginia Military Institute is finding FERA student work of great aid to 78 of the 560 cadets.

This is FERA's second year at V. M. I. and the indications so far promise excellent results, the Administration said today.

Between 65 and 75 per cent of the cadets aided last year used the money to defray direct college expenses either by turning their checks over to the institute or by paying off loans made to them for educational purposes.

Some of the cadets used part of the money to buy textbooks, others uniforms; one bought a microscope, and another sent half of his income to a sister attending Vassar on a scholarship.

The work is directed by a faculty committee, which established an eligibility list and rated the applicants. Job assignments were based on actual need and qualifications. There is a long waiting list. Some of the jobs were split between two cadets.

Most of those on the FERA payroll at V. M. I. are working on technical or semitechnical projects. Some of them are skilled mechanics—plumbers and pipefitters, while others never have used tools of any kind. These are employed in secretarial work, model building, cabinet making, accounting, research work and other such jobs.

Hundreds of dollars worth of permanent improvements have been made at the institute by the workers. Academic requirements must be met and a close watch is made upon the grades.

Lieut. Col. R. A. Marr, chairman of the faculty committee, said in no case has the FERA here been a disappointment.

"We had a tremendous amount of work waiting to be done," he said.

Meeting Is Postponed By Young Democrats

Postponement of the meeting of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Takoma Park, Md., scheduled for tomorrow night, was announced last night by J. Bond Smith, president of the club.

The postponement was made in order that the legislative program can be reported on at the meeting. President Smith will notify members when the meeting time has been decided upon.

Orders Commission Paid.

Cumberland, Md., March 5 (AP).—Chief Judge D. Lindsey Sloan, in granting a writ of mandamus, ordered the county commissioners to pay certain commissions to Mary C. Lammett, tax collector of Frostburg, for collection of taxes in 1927 and 1928.

Bristol Awards Debaters.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Bristol, Va., March 5.—More than 200 debaters, orators and their coaches will come from all parts of the Nation to attend the seventh national convention of Phi Rho Psi, national forensic society for junior colleges, which will meet in Bristol, April 16, 17 and 18, with the Virginia Alpha chapter of Virginia Intermont College as host, according to advance reports from national headquarters.

Corns Lift Right Out!

FREEZONE does it! Puts the corn to sleep—deadens all pain—and soon makes it so loose in its bed of flesh that it lifts right out! Hard corns or soft—all are quickly ended by FREEZONE. Calluses, too. Get a bottle at any drug store and walk in comfort!

FREEZONE

AFTER-INVENTORY

Odds & Ends SALE

Today and Tomorrow at Washington's Finest Men's Wear Store
Final Clearance of Fall and Winter Left-Overs—All Sales Final

A Group of Nearly 200

$30 AND $35

Hart Schaffner & Marx

AND FINE RALEIGH

SUITS

TOPCOATS and

OVERCOATS

$23.85

No Charge for Alterations

The balance of our Fall and Winter stocks from the world's most famous creators of men's fine clothing. Our stocks have been extensive—hence there are hundreds of fine suits, overcoats and topcoats in this clearance.

The styles are advanced! The quality is the best! The savings are the greatest of the whole season. There are weeks of cold weather yet! The reductions are worthwhile for next season as well.

$35 and $40
Suits, Topcoats
and Overcoats

$28.85

$40 and $45
Suits, Topcoats
and Overcoats

$33.85

$50 to $60
Suits, Topcoats
and Overcoats

$38.85

131 PAIRS OF RALEIGH "B" SHOES

$4.95

137 SHIRTS
Were $1.65
and $1.95

$1.39

• CHARGE ACCOUNTS INVITED •

RALEIGH HABERDASHER

WASHINGTON'S FINEST MEN'S WEAR STORE—1310 F STREET

Dulin & Martin

GIFTS & HOME FURNISHINGS SINCE 1847

New Address—1106 G STREET National 1293

New Shipment of the

"Old Britain Castles"

English Porcelain Service

32-pc. Service for Six—

$7.50

53-pc. Service
for Eight—

$13.95

Carried in open stock. Decoration comprises historic castles in permanent pink or blue under glass. (Fourth Floor.)

The same sweet cream
YOU USE IN YOUR COFFEE

in LAND O'LAKE'S

SWEET CREAM BUTTER

SANITARY PIGGLY WIGGLY FOOD STORES

Senate Awaits Works, Voted By Committee

3 Republican Senators to Switch Support From Prevailing Pay.

Continued from Page 1.

the city of "pork" against "principle" when the bill comes up in the Senate, probably today.

A Rocky Pathway

A rocky pathway still lay ahead of the measure. Not the least of the hurdles is the resolution by Senator Harry Flood Byrd (Democrat), Virginia, to require the Treasury to account for every dollar of the $2,000,000,000 recovery appropriation voted two years ago. If the resolution is adopted, conservative Democrats and Republicans alike insist they can show that only a $1,000,000,000 additional appropriation is needed.

Two attempts were made in committee yesterday to cut the bill down, but both lost on a voice vote. Senator Frederick Hale (Republican), Maine, moved an amendment for only $1,000,000,000, and Senator Alva B. Adams (Democrat), Colorado, reoffered his $2,800,000,000 proposal. Adams will try again in the Senate.

Terms of "Breakdown"

The "breakdown" proposed in the Administration's latest amendment, laid before the committee by Chairman Carter Glass, and approved by a 14 to 8 vote, provided:

For highways, roads, streets and grade crossing elimination—$800,000,000.

For rural rehabilitation, $500,000,000.

For rural electrification, $100,000,000.

For housing, $450,000,000.

For projects for professional and clerical persons, $300,000,000.

For Civilian Conservation Corps, $200,000,000.

For State and local projects, $300,000,000.

For sanitation and prevention of soil erosion, reforestation, forestation and miscellaneous projects, $350,000,000.

The clause giving the President power to transfer up to one-fifth of the total of the bill between items stipulated:

"That not to exceed 20 per cent of the amount so allocated and herein appropriated may be used by the President to increase any one or more of the foregoing limitations if he finds it necessary to do so in order to effectuate the purpose of this joint resolution."

A Point of Attack

This proviso is expected to prove a vulnerable point of attack on the Senate floor, second only to the prevailing wage issue and the grand total of the bill, as a point of controversy.

The committee authorized an explanation of the amendment, which stated in part:

"The proposed amendment distributes the appropriation of $4,580,000,000 according to eight general purposes and classes of projects. Inasmuch as it is impossible to list separately all of the individual projects necessary to utilize the divergent skills and occupational background of the workers now on the relief rolls, these classes are meant to be only indicative of the activities to be performed under each heading.

"It is not intended that the projects be restricted to those specifically mentioned in each class. The announced purpose of this joint resolution is to give employment to the workers on the relief rolls, and this purpose must be kept paramount."

"Part of this appropriation is to be used for gradually tapering off the relief activities of the Federal Government. The amount necessary for this purpose depends upon the speed with which employment can be furnished by the class of work projects listed."

"As often stated by the President, the need for latitude in the transfer of funds to meet project conditions as they develop, is adequately provided for."

Against the Amendment

The six Senators voting against the President's amendment were Senators Copeland (Democrat), and Hale, Keyes, Dickinson, Townsend and Carey (Republicans).

Coincident with the committee's action, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins frankly admitted he is behind the drive to force larger contributions from States. His administration yesterday granted relief money to six more States, leaving Arkansas alone without funds for the first 15 days of March. Both Hopkins and Secretary of Interior Ickes conferred with the President.

Although the McCarran prevailing wage amendment was again defeated in committee, the Nevada

'Let's Look at the Record'

Inspector William G. Stott, police trial board chairman, pictured as he told the House District Crime Committee the Commissioners "cooperate when we recommend leniency."

Stott Admits 20 Policemen, Convicted, Escaped Dismissal

Continued from Page 1.

convicted of intoxication off duty. The board recommended dismissal. The Commissioners set aside the board verdict and restored Day to duty. Inspector Stott testified. He said the trial board had considered Day "impossible" as a police officer. "What," asked Representative Jennings Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia, chairman of the committee, "do you think of the action of the Commissioners?"

"Well, I-I-I," began the inspector. He hesitated. "The trial board felt very strongly he should be removed from the force."

Responding to questions from Fitzpatrick, Stott said he had not meant his response to Mr. Schulte about the Commissioners' cooperating with the trial board when the latter recommended leniency, to be as broad as it sounded.

"Never Found Fault"

Representative Randolph asked whether the trial board itself had followed the manual provisions prescribing dismissal for certain offenses.

"It has, so far as calling attention to the mandatory dismissal provisions of the manual are concerned," Inspector Stott said.

"Do the Commissioners cooperate with the trial board?" persisted Mr. Randolph.

"Well, they've never found fault with the board. That question could be answered in two ways. If the board recommended dismissal and the Commissioners reduced that sentence they would be doing what Congress gave them the power to do. The Commissioners can't increase penalties."

He and other members of the trial board had recommended to Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, that the police manual be amended so as to remove all mandatory dismissal sentences, Inspector Stott disclosed in answer to Mr. Randolph.

"I believe the trial board should be given the right to judge in each individual case," he said. "Each case ought to be decided on its merits. No two cases are alike. Circumstances might govern; cases if a man has been a good officer for years and is found guilty of intoxication he shouldn't be classed with a policeman found guilty, say, gained approval for an amendment sponsored by master plumbers, providing that all mechanical sanitary work in the interest of public health should be performed by contract, and let to the lowest bidder.

Sensors voting for the McCarran prevailing wage amendment were Copeland, Thomas, Adams, McCarran, Overton, O'Mahoney, and Truman (Democrats), and Nye, Steiwer, Dickinson, Townsend and Carey (Republicans).

Against the amendment were Senators Copeland (Democrat), and Hale, Keyes, Dickinson, Townsend and Carey (Republicans).

Coincident with the committee's action, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins frankly admitted he is behind the drive to force larger contributions from States. His administration yesterday granted relief money to six more States, leaving Arkansas alone without funds for the first 15 days of March. Both Hopkins and Secretary of Interior Ickes conferred with the President.

Although the McCarran prevailing wage amendment was again defeated in committee, the Nevada

Hitler Pleads 'Cold,' Cancels Talks on Peace

Simon Visit Off; British 'White Paper' Thought Cause of Move.

Continued from Page 1.

power—as an opportunity likely never to return.

They fear Der Fuehrer, who impulsively had his foreign minister, Konstantin von Neurath, summon the British Ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, at 11:30 a. m. to inform him about Der Fuehrer's reported illness, did not fully grasp the historic significance of his step.

Even should Hitler find some way to extend a new invitation, they say, they believe the British statesmen will not find themselves able to accept.

Gen. Condylis declared the government troops would be mobilized in Thessaly, central Greece, Peloponnesus and west Macedonia, and urged the rebels to return to the fold before he begins his real offensive.

100,000 Loyal Troops. Gen. Condylis promised amnesty to "all soldiers and petty officers" returning to the government troops.

"Your commanding officers alone are responsible," he declared. Condylis tonight revealed the strength of the government forces and the weakness of the rebel cause, in a proclamation, which said:

"We have mobilized four classes and have 100,000 troops ready to fight. Venizelos possesses five warships which, owing to aerial attacks, need repairs, while we have four warships of which two are of the latest type. And we have 60 airplanes while Venizelos has none."

The plight of Gen. Camenos, rebel commander in Macedonia, appeared navy, due tomorrow, also are expected to show increases.

The government, setting air defense expenditures this year at $119,255,500, announced plans to add 11 squadrons (of 12 planes each) to bring the home defense force up to 54 squadrons, 41 composing the regular air force and the rest auxiliary aircraft. In addition, 19 first line aircraft will be added.

These new formations will raise the total strength of the royal air force to 108 squadrons, of which 93 will be in regular service. The estimates constitute the first step in the expansion program, approved by Parliament last summer, which contemplates adding 41 squadrons by the end of 1938, when the royal air force's first line strength will total 1,330 airplanes.

The British white paper, defending Britain's armaments increases and criticizing German rearmament, either stirred Hitler's resentment or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talking to Sir John about armaments.

Paper View as Cause

As the cabinet awaited the report of Sir Eric Phipps, British envoy to Berlin, it was apparent that officials inclined to the belief that the white paper was the cause, even though official condolences on his illness were sent Hitler.

Some diplomatic quarters freely expressed the view that Britain's security proposals—their German phase at any rate—were seriously set back, or even ruined, by the appearance of the white paper.

Some circles termed the white paper ill-timed, even though it was designed primarily for internal consumption as defense of the government's increased expenditures in the armed forces.

Declaring in so many words that Britain's policy of unilateral disarmament could no longer be adopted with safety, the white paper came down with estimates for the army yesterday which increased expenditures $12,750,000.

The air estimates, handed down today, provided an increase of $14,427,500, even more proportionally above 1934, while estimates for the

Services will be conducted here tomorrow afternoon for Howard Franklin Bender, 25, who died Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bender, this city.

Mr. Bender lived all his life in Martinsburg. Surviving are his parents, a sister, Mrs. Laura Bell Bender, of this city, and his grandmother, Mrs. Bell Davis, of Martinsburg.

The hearings are to be resumed at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Police captains are expected to be examined then.

Howard F. Bender.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5.—

Services will be conducted here tomorrow afternoon for Howard Franklin Bender, 25, who died Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bender, this city.

Mr. Bender lived all his life in Martinsburg. Surviving are his parents, a sister, Mrs. Laura Bell Bender, of this city, and his grandmother, Mrs. Bell Davis, of Martinsburg.

The hearings are to be resumed at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Police captains are expected to be examined then.

Howard F. Bender.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5.—

Services will be conducted here tomorrow afternoon for Howard Franklin Bender, 25, who died Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bender, this city.

Mr. Bender lived all his life in Martinsburg. Surviving are his parents, a sister, Mrs. Laura Bell Bender, of this city, and his grandmother, Mrs. Bell Davis, of Martinsburg.

The hearings are to be resumed at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Police captains are expected to be examined then.

Howard F. Bender.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5.—

Services will be conducted here tomorrow afternoon for Howard Franklin Bender, 25, who died Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bender, this city.

Mr. Bender lived all his life in Martinsburg. Surviving are his parents, a sister, Mrs. Laura Bell Bender, of this city, and his grandmother, Mrs. Bell Davis, of Martinsburg.

The hearings are to be resumed at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Police captains are expected to be examined then.

Howard F. Bender.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5.—

Services will be conducted here tomorrow afternoon for Howard Franklin Bender, 25, who died Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bender, this city.

Mr. Bender lived all his life in Martinsburg. Surviving are his parents, a sister, Mrs. Laura Bell Bender, of this city, and his grandmother, Mrs. Bell Davis, of Martinsburg.

The hearings are to be resumed at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Police captains are expected to be examined then.

Howard F. Bender.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5.—

Services will be conducted here tomorrow afternoon for Howard Franklin Bender, 25, who died Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bender, this city.

Mr. Bender lived all his life in Martinsburg. Surviving are his parents, a sister, Mrs. Laura Bell Bender, of this city, and his grandmother, Mrs. Bell Davis, of Martinsburg.

Loyalist Army Drives Rebels In Sharp Battle in Macedonia

Command of Gen. Ioannides had defeated a strong force of rebels, scattering them to the eastward of Macedonia.

In a "last-minute warning to the rebels" before undertaking a major drive to disperse them, Gen. Condylis admitted that Venizelos, a mad criminal, is dominant in Crete and east Macedonia, but we possess the whole of the remaining country.

(Venizelos, rumors—in Athens stated, was making ready to quit the revolt and had attempted to leave his refuge on the island of Crete and flee to Alexandria, according to the Associated Press—Editor's note.)

Gen. Condylis declared the government troops would be mobilized in Thessaly, central Greece, Peloponnesus and west Macedonia, and urged the rebels to return to the fold before he begins his real offensive.

100,000 Loyal Troops. Gen. Condylis promised amnesty to "all soldiers and petty officers" returning to the government troops.

"Your commanding officers alone are responsible," he declared. Condylis tonight revealed the strength of the government forces and the weakness of the rebel cause, in a proclamation, which said:

"We have mobilized four classes and have 100,000 troops ready to fight. Venizelos possesses five warships which, owing to aerial attacks, need repairs, while we have four warships of which two are of the latest type. And we have 60 airplanes while Venizelos has none."

The plight of Gen. Camenos, rebel commander in Macedonia, appeared navy, due tomorrow, also are expected to show increases.

The government, setting air defense expenditures this year at $119,255,500, announced plans to add 11 squadrons (of 12 planes each) to bring the home defense force up to 54 squadrons, 41 composing the regular air force and the rest auxiliary aircraft. In addition, 19 first line aircraft will be added.

These new formations will raise the total strength of the royal air force to 108 squadrons, of which 93 will be in regular service. The estimates constitute the first step in the expansion program, approved by Parliament last summer, which contemplates adding 41 squadrons by the end of 1938, when the royal air force's first line strength will total 1,330 airplanes.

The British white paper, defending Britain's armaments increases and criticizing German rearmament, either stirred Hitler's resentment or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talking to Sir John about armaments.

Gen. Condylis declared the government troops would be mobilized in Thessaly, central Greece, Peloponnesus and west Macedonia, and urged the rebels to return to the fold before he begins his real offensive.

100,000 Loyal Troops. Gen. Condylis promised amnesty to "all soldiers and petty officers" returning to the government troops.

"Your commanding officers alone are responsible," he declared. Condylis tonight revealed the strength of the government forces and the weakness of the rebel cause, in a proclamation, which said:

"We have mobilized four classes and have 100,000 troops ready to fight. Venizelos possesses five warships which, owing to aerial attacks, need repairs, while we have four warships of which two are of the latest type. And we have 60 airplanes while Venizelos has none."

The plight of Gen. Camenos, rebel commander in Macedonia, appeared navy, due tomorrow, also are expected to show increases.

The government, setting air defense expenditures this year at $119,255,500, announced plans to add 11 squadrons (of 12 planes each) to bring the home defense force up to 54 squadrons, 41 composing the regular air force and the rest auxiliary aircraft. In addition, 19 first line aircraft will be added.

These new formations will raise the total strength of the royal air force to 108 squadrons, of which 93 will be in regular service. The estimates constitute the first step in the expansion program, approved by Parliament last summer, which contemplates adding 41 squadrons by the end of 1938, when the royal air force's first line strength will total 1,330 airplanes.

The British white paper, defending Britain's armaments increases and criticizing German rearmament, either stirred Hitler's resentment or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talking to Sir John about armaments.

Gen. Condylis declared the government troops would be mobilized in Thessaly, central Greece, Peloponnesus and west Macedonia, and urged the rebels to return to the fold before he begins his real offensive.

100,000 Loyal Troops. Gen. Condylis promised amnesty to "all soldiers and petty officers" returning to the government troops.

"Your commanding officers alone are responsible," he declared. Condylis tonight revealed the strength of the government forces and the weakness of the rebel cause, in a proclamation, which said:

"We have mobilized four classes and have 100,000 troops ready to fight. Venizelos possesses five warships which, owing to aerial attacks, need repairs, while we have four warships of which two are of the latest type. And we have 60 airplanes while Venizelos has none."

The plight of Gen. Camenos, rebel commander in Macedonia, appeared navy, due tomorrow, also are expected to show increases.

The government, setting air defense expenditures this year at $119,255,500, announced plans to add 11 squadrons (of 12 planes each) to bring the home defense force up to 54 squadrons, 41 composing the regular air force and the rest auxiliary aircraft. In addition, 19 first line aircraft will be added.

These new formations will raise the total strength of the royal air force to 108 squadrons, of which 93 will be in regular service. The estimates constitute the first step in the expansion program, approved by Parliament last summer, which contemplates adding 41 squadrons by the end of 1938, when the royal air force's first line strength will total 1,330 airplanes.

The British white paper, defending Britain's armaments increases and criticizing German rearmament, either stirred Hitler's resentment or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talking to Sir John about armaments.

Gen. Condylis declared the government troops would be mobilized in Thessaly, central Greece, Peloponnesus and west Macedonia, and urged the rebels to return to the fold before he begins his real offensive.

100,000 Loyal Troops. Gen. Condylis promised amnesty to "all soldiers and petty officers" returning to the government troops.

"Your commanding officers alone are responsible," he declared. Condylis tonight revealed the strength of the government forces and the weakness of the rebel cause, in a proclamation, which said:

"We have mobilized four classes and have 100,000 troops ready to fight. Venizelos possesses five warships which, owing to aerial attacks, need repairs, while we have four warships of which two are of the latest type. And we have 60 airplanes while Venizelos has none."

The plight of Gen. Camenos, rebel commander in Macedonia, appeared navy, due tomorrow, also are expected to show increases.

The government, setting air defense expenditures this year at $119,255,500, announced plans to add 11 squadrons (of 12 planes each) to bring the home defense force up to 54 squadrons, 41 composing the regular air force and the rest auxiliary aircraft. In addition, 19 first line aircraft will be added.

These new formations will raise the total strength of the royal air force to 108 squadrons, of which 93 will be in regular service. The estimates constitute the first step in the expansion program, approved by Parliament last summer, which contemplates adding 41 squadrons by the end of 1938, when the royal air force's first line strength will total 1,330 airplanes.

The British white paper, defending Britain's armaments increases and criticizing German rearmament, either stirred Hitler's resentment or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talking to Sir John about armaments.

Gen. Condylis declared the government troops would be mobilized in Thessaly, central Greece, Peloponnesus and west Macedonia, and urged the rebels to return to the fold before he begins his real offensive.

100,000 Loyal Troops. Gen. Condylis promised amnesty to "all soldiers and petty officers" returning to the government troops.

"Your commanding officers alone are responsible," he declared. Condylis tonight revealed the strength of the government forces and the weakness of the rebel cause, in a proclamation, which said:

"We have mobilized four classes and have 100,000 troops ready to fight. Venizelos possesses five warships which, owing to aerial attacks, need repairs, while we have four warships of which two are of the latest type. And we have 60 airplanes while Venizelos has none."

The plight of Gen. Camenos, rebel commander in Macedonia, appeared navy, due tomorrow, also are expected to show increases.

The government, setting air defense expenditures this year at $119,255,500, announced plans to add 11 squadrons (of 12 planes each) to bring the home defense force up to 54 squadrons, 41 composing the regular air force and the rest auxiliary aircraft. In addition, 19 first line aircraft will be added.

These new formations will raise the total strength of the royal air force to 108 squadrons, of which 93 will be in regular service. The estimates constitute the first step in the expansion program, approved by Parliament last summer, which contemplates adding 41 squadrons by the end of 1938, when the royal air force's first line strength will total 1,330 airplanes.

The British white paper, defending Britain's armaments increases and criticizing German rearmament, either stirred Hitler's resentment or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talking to Sir John about armaments.

Gen. Condylis declared the government troops would be mobilized in Thessaly, central Greece, Peloponnesus and west Macedonia, and urged the rebels to return to the fold before he begins his real offensive.

100,000 Loyal Troops. Gen. Condylis promised amnesty to "all soldiers and petty officers" returning to the government troops.

"Your commanding officers alone are responsible," he declared. Condylis tonight revealed the strength of the government forces and the weakness of the rebel cause, in a proclamation, which said:

"We have mobilized four classes and have 100,000 troops ready to fight. Venizelos possesses five warships which, owing to aerial attacks, need repairs, while we have four warships of which two are of the latest type. And we have 60 airplanes while Venizelos has none."

tica, where numerous Venizelists also are in exile—providing the Macedonian rebels are able to hold out long enough.

On the other side of the picture, however, the government pointed to Gen. Camenos' requests for urgent assistance from Crete, and announced that Col. Evripidis Bakiridis, Col. Constantine Ventiris, and Col. Elias Diamantis, all rebels, had surrendered to the loyalists after a disagreement with Camenos.

It appeared from these facts, according to high government sources, that Camenos either was losing ground or that he had been unable to coordinate the rebel forces which are scattered throughout Macedonia.

Anthony Flx, former deputy and wealthy brewer, will be one of the major figures court-martialed. He was captured at Salonika where, it was said, he had helped to finance the revolution. He was transferred to Athens for military trial.

The Greek-Bulgarian frontier and the Turco-Greek frontier were reported heavily reinforced to prevent possible international incidents.

Four airplanes, sent out to reconnoiter the rebel fleet, returned to report that they saw two rebel destroyers at sea, but that they could not find the cruiser Averoff, which reportedly has been bombed from the air.

IS THERE A CURE? A booklet containing the opinions of famous doctors on this interesting subject will be sent FREE, while they last, to any reader willing to the Educational Division, Dept. M-50, 545 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y.

What's Greater than Great?

For the perfect DRY MARTINI

MARTINI & ROSSI DRY VERMOUTH

Imported by W. A. TAYLOR & CO., N. Y.

BEITZELL & CO. Distributors

What's Greater than Great?

For the perfect DRY MARTINI

MARTINI & ROSSI DRY VERMOUTH

Imported by W. A. TAYLOR & CO., N. Y.

BEITZELL & CO. Distributors

What's Greater than Great?

For the perfect DRY MARTINI

MARTINI & ROSSI DRY VERMOUTH

Imported by W. A. TAYLOR & CO., N. Y.

BEITZELL & CO. Distributors

What's Greater than Great?

For the perfect DRY MARTINI

MARTINI & ROSSI DRY VERMOUTH

Imported by W. A. TAYLOR & CO., N. Y.

BEITZELL & CO. Distributors

What's Greater than Great?

For the perfect DRY MARTINI

MARTINI & ROSSI DRY VERMOUTH

Coal Mine Halt Likely April 1, Asserts Lewis

Workers Can't Go on Duty Without Wage Contracts, Senators Told.

By the Associated Press.

The United Mine Workers yesterday, put up to Congress a Nation-wide cessation of work in the mines on April 1 as a possible alternative to failure to provide Federal regulation of the bituminous coal industry.

Testifying before a Senate Interstate Commerce sub-committee at the final session of hearings on the Guffey coal bill, John H. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, reminded the committee that existing wage contracts in soft coal industry expire at midnight, March 31.

"Unless new contracts are negotiated in the meantime," he said, "there will be no work in the mines on April 1."

Avoids "Strikes."

The bushy-browed union leader avoided any reference to strikes, explaining the half million miners in the industry would have no right to enter the mines without consent of the operators unless wage contracts are signed.

Lewis asserted the "voluntary reduction of realization" by coal operators was "minimizing the changes of negotiating new wage agreements and expressed the opinion enactment of Federal legislation would be necessary to alter conditions."

He declared the operators probably would return to the joint wage conference here on March 11 and contend they can not support even the present wage scale, much less grant the 50-hour week and 10 per cent wage increase, which Lewis demanded, when the conference convened on February 18.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, added his support to Lewis' endorsement of the Guffey bill.

The American Federation of Labor is in thorough accord with the bill, Green said, "and is standing fairly and squarely behind the United Mine Workers in support of the measure."

Assaults Carriers.

Lewis opened his testimony with an attack on the Nation's large railroads, accusing them of having for years used "their vast purchasing power to prey upon the coal industry."

He declared railroads beat down the price of coal by various methods in order to obtain their fuel below cost. He cited one instance of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad buying coal in northern West Virginia for 32 cents a ton, a price which he said eventually forced the producer into receivership.

Steel companies and others of so called "captive" mines came in for a share of his attack.

"The effort of the railroads is only equalled by the effort of the lobby of the steel companies and other owners of captive mines against the Guffey bill," Lewis asserted.

Representatives of major steel companies filed briefs with the committee protesting against inclusion of "captive" mines under the provisions of the bill but Lewis' answer to such opposition was that exemption of the captive mine would result in considerable expansion of such operation.

Ickes Move Eases Contracts on Gas

Allows Stations to Void

Pacts With Companies.

Secretary Ickes yesterday authorized filling station operators to cancel on 30 days' notice contracts requiring them to deal exclusively in the products of one company.

Meanwhile, Ickes has asked the Federal Trade Commission whether such contracts are not in violation of antitrust laws. He estimated that between 130,000 and 150,000 filling stations have such contracts.

The order, it was explained, was to protect small independent dealers in petroleum products. It was said usually filling station operators with exclusive contracts are given price advantages.

At the same time Ickes prohibited any further exclusive contracts for sale of lubricating oil.

Farm Products Prices Show Index Advance

Advances of four points in the index of prices of farm products and two points in purchasing power during the month which ended February 15 were reported yesterday by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The farm price index was 111, and purchasing power 87, calculated on the five-year pre-war average of 100.

The bureau said the February 13 purchasing power of all products was the highest since June, 1930.

EDUCATIONAL

Shenandoah Valley Academy

A Military School, as recognized by all Universities and Colleges. West Point, Annapolis, Naval Academy, etc. Experienced teachers, individual attention, Latin, Greek, French, Spanish, etc. For catalogue write to:

COL. R. M. ROSS, PH. D., D. O. & C. Roy, Winchester, Va.

STATISTICAL CLERK

Prepare for Examination. New Classes Starting March 11, 1935. Apply Early for Reservations as Classes Will Be Limited.

Poteet's Business College

14th and Eye Sts. N.W. NAL. 4717.

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY SCHOOLS OF LAW AND OF ECONOMICS AND GOVERNMENT

Spring Term Begins March 11, 1935. Summer Term Begins June 1, 1935. Registrar's Office. 818 13th St. N.W. Phone NAL. 6611. Open for registration 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

University Beauty Finalists

Four Washington cords at the University of Maryland who have been voted among the most beautiful on the campus are, above, Miss Mary Stallings, Dupont Circle Apartments, left, and Miss Virginia Webb, 4828 Linnean avenue northwest. Lower—Miss Barbara Judd, 2807 Connecticut avenue, left, and Miss Dorothy Miller, 523 Kentucky avenue southeast. Among these and six others will be selected the campus beauty queen.

Arizona Senate Weighing Bill Creating 'Ambassador' to D. C.

Proposal Branded 'Direct Slap' at Congressmen; Likely to Pass.

By the Associated Press.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 5.—Arizona proposes to send an "ambassador" to Washington to obtain this State's share of any favors the National Government passes out.

The increasing relationship between the State and the Federal Government was cited by Gov. B. B. Moeur in requesting the Legislature to appropriate $7,500 to send a representative of his office to the National Capital.

"It is a direct slap at our elected officers," said Senator E. H. McEachren when the proposal was received. "It is gross extravagance."

Simultaneously with the recommendation in the Senate committee to pass the bill creating the job, Howard S. Reed, State PWA engineer, announced the State's portion of the proposed work relief fund was approximately $128,000.

"I need a man there every day," Gov. Moeur asserted. "We have many interests there now. Our Senators and Representatives in Congress don't have time to look after it."

"I had to go back there twice last year myself because I didn't have anyone to send. I spent $1,500 of my own money, but I got $22,000 for the State. That's good business, isn't it?"

Several members of the Senate didn't think so.

"There are a lot of favors being

Infantile Paralysis in Alaska.

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, March 5 (AP).—Two new cases of infantile paralysis at Sandpoint, in the Shumagin Islands, near here, resulted today in a strict quarantine as health officers sought to prevent spread of the disease. The nearest hospital is at Unalakleet.

Experienced Travelers prefer these SAFE BUSES

Speed-Controlled Expresses Heated by Hot Water. LOW FARES. NEW YORK (via New Expresses) 5.50. BOSTON (via New Expresses) 4.20. MIAMI 16.40. PITTSBURGH 5.00. PHOENIX 5.00. ST. LOUIS 12.00. ST. PAUL 5.00. CLEVELAND 8.50. PHILA. 2.50. LOS ANGELES 39.50. —Savings to all points U. S. or Canada. Phone District 5600. ANNAPOLIS HOTEL 1115 7th St. N.W.

GREAT EASTERN system

Lower Heating Costs With

RINALDI COAL

Before you give your next order for COAL investigate the superior quality of Famous Reading Anthracite—nature's finest fuel! SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!

RINALDI COAL

Phone NORTH 1600. COAL CO. INC. 642 E. 1st Ave. N.E.

WOODWARD & LOTHROP

10th, 11th, F and G Streets Phone District 5300

Spring comes apace with a whole crop of bright, new fashions. And what woman is not agog to see them—and mark some of them for her own. So we have arranged—

Three Showings of Spring Fashions

on our Third Floor Tomorrow At 11, 2:30 and 4:30

For sportswear, you will want particularly to note the Regency influence in a Munro tweed topcoat, a suit of imported woolsens with three-quarter length topcoat, a clever dress you can wear inside out. As for Coats and Suits—watch for the pencil silhouette, Regency influence, Sandringham blue, and capes, separate ones or integral parts of suits. You will see Dresses that look like suits, Milgrim frocks, tucked Palmetto cloth, quilted taffeta street coats, and, prints, of course, lovely ones. And as for Hats—but you will want to see everything for yourself.

WOODWARD & LOTHROP

10TH 11TH F AND G STREETS

PHONE DISTRICT 5300

How Large is Your Dining Room

Rooms of All Sizes Can be Furnished with This Solid Mahogany Furniture

Sketched Above

- A—66-inch Heppelwhite Round-front Buffet $65
- B—66-inch Heppelwhite Serpentine-front Buffet $40
- C—Small size Swell-front Buffet $40

Sketched, Left

- A—Duncan Phyfe Side Chair $12.50
- B—Heppelwhite Side Chair $12.50
- C—Smaller size Duncan Phyfe Side Chair $8.50

Not Sketched

- Duncan Phyfe and Heppelwhite Armchairs, $18.
- Small size Armchairs, $13.50.

You Can Furnish Any Size Dining Room from this

18th Century Design Solid Mahogany Furniture

Let that dining room of yours start life with as few or as many pieces of this 18th Century English design group as you see fit. Then, add additional pieces to it as you desire. The entire group is made throughout of solid mahogany with the Old World finish—in a simple, dignified design that glorifies its surroundings.

The entire group embraces pieces correctly adaptable to practically every type of dining room—large or small corner cabinets, small dinette table with buffet to match, large banquet table, apartment-size table, three styles of buffets, three styles of servers, and three styles of chairs.

- Apartment Suite, 6 pieces, $108.50
- Average-size Suite, 10 pieces, $202.50
- Large-size Suite, 10 pieces, $363

See Our G Street Window Displays

—also the displays in our Sixth Floor Galleries—showing this furniture in settings for large, average-size and apartment-size dining rooms. FURNITURE, SIXTH FLOOR.

Sketched

- A—Duncan Phyfe Extension Table $45
- B—18th Century, 8-leg Extension Table $40.50

Not Sketched

- 3-piece Banquet Tables, $60 and $90.
- Small size Table, $34.50.

Sketched

- A—Chest Server, with swell front; four drawers $37.50
- B—Heppelwhite Flip-top Server $20
- C—Small Round-front Server; 18th Century design $12.50

Sketched

- A—Corner Cabinet, with 2-door base $40.50
- B—Three-drawer China broken pediment top $54

Not Sketched

- Large Corner Cabinet, drawer and closet space, $100.
- Breakfront China; English design, $90.

Davidson Tells of Disputes With Bride on Eve of Her Death

Solicitor Fails To Show Court His 'Hole Card'

Several Called to Stand to Recount Events Prior to Tragedy.

Continued from Page 1.

she turned to somebody nearby and said, "Brad doesn't seem to approve of me, does he?" They argued again, he testified, when they got home from the spaghetti restaurant over which one of them should put the car into the garage.

Davidson and the Campaignes said they went to sleep immediately. The last time he saw his wife, Davidson said, she was taking off the green evening dress she wore to the ball. When the butler found her body at 9:05 a. m. Wednesday, Mrs. Davidson had on a brown skirt, white sweater and brown suede shoes.

No one heard the garage doors open between the time the Davidsons got home and when the butler found the body. No one heard Mrs. Davidson leave the house.

Says Wife Took Drugs.

Davidson said his wife frequently took drugs to help her to get to sleep and that sometimes she got up and went for long drives in the car when suffering from insomnia.

Pearl Watson and Mrs. Vail, who visited the house the next day, agreed that Mrs. Davidson's bed was disarranged and that her nightgown was wrinkled, indicating she might have tried to sleep and been unsuccessful.

Pruette asked Davidson whether it was true that he had said before his marriage that he intended to live on his wife's income.

"I did not," Davidson replied, and added that he gave up a good job because Elva wanted him to come to Pinehurst and live with her. He said he had a small income of his own and was contributing to the support of three children by a previous marriage. His first wife was Jessica Alward, of Berryville, Va., he said. They were divorced.

Inquest to Continue.

Tomorrow the inquest will be resumed and may run two or three more days.

The inquest was held in a square frame building that once was the town hall, and the audience was one that only a Pinehurst could provide. Millionaires attired in sport clothes mingled with field hands who had quit work for the day.

Davidson arrived, accompanied by his brother, Richard Davidson, of Washington, D. C., and the latter's wife, the former Betty Hanna, granddaughter of Mark Hanna. Davidson was the first witness called. He looked taut and harassed, but managed a smile when he said he discovered that there was no Bible on which he could take the oath.

Questioned on Drinking.

Davidson was asked whether he had drunk any liquor on the afternoon preceding his wife's death.

"Yes, one highball before dinner," he said.

"What time did you leave for the dance that night?"

"We left the house for the Pinehurst Country Club between 10:45 and 11."

"Did you and Mrs. Davidson drink at the club?"

"We had perhaps one or two drinks."

"Did you dance with Mrs. Davidson?"

"Yes, twice."

"Where did you go then?"

"We went to Montesanti's spaghetti house between Pinehurst and Southern Pines."

Davidson said there were about 20 in the party.

"There was considerable drinking there, wasn't there?"

"No, I was never under the influence of liquor."

"How many drinks did your wife have?"

"I think she had a drink in front of her, but it lasted her all evening."

Party at Restaurant.

He said the party remained at the spaghetti place about two or two and a half hours, listening to the accordion player. Then he and Mrs. Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. Campaigne started for home, arriving there about 4:30 Wednesday morning.

"When we arrived at the door of the house," Davidson resumed, "Mrs. Davidson said, 'I'll put the car in the garage, no I'll put it away'; we argued about that back and forth. Mr. and Mrs. Campaigne asked to be excused."

"I said, 'now please let me put the car away. You are awfully tired.'"

Finally, he said they agreed to leave the car outside. Mr. and Mrs.

As Davidson Told of Events Before Bride's Death

H. Bradley Davidson, Jr., is sworn in at inquest of his wife. He later gave a graphic description of events preceding the tragedy.

Campaigne went into the house and to their room.

Davidson said he helped his wife off with her coat, kissed her goodnight and told her to let him know if she wanted anything.

Went to Separate Rooms.

They then went to their separate bedrooms, he said.

"Had you been using separate rooms?" he was asked.

"I would say about half and half, sometimes I would go to her room and some times she would use mine."

"Do you remember the last thing she said that night?"

"Yes, she called from her room, 'good-night, darling.'"

Davidson said he went to sleep within five minutes.

"When did you wake up?"

He said "My God, Mr. Davidson, Mrs. Davidson is dead."

"Did you hear any sound in the night?"

"No."

Rushed to Garage.

Davidson explained how he pulled on a pair of trousers and a sweater and rushed to the garage.

He described how he found his wife on the running board, one arm on the seat of the car and her head on the floor.

"Did you examine the car?"

"I just noticed that the switch was on."

"You didn't try to determine whether the motor was hot?"

"No, I was too excited."

"Did you know she was dead?"

"I had no idea. I felt her pulse, but could detect no heat."

Campaigne, Davidson said, warned him not to touch the body.

Later in the day, Campaigne explained that the reason he did this was because he had "read somewhere that a body shouldn't be touched under such circumstances if there was a chance of murder."

Marriage to Heiress.

After Solicitor Pruette had brought out the details of the finding of Mrs. Davidson's body, the calling of a doctor, and the rush to the hospital, the questioning turned to the marriage of Davidson and the Statler heiress.

"How long had you known Elva Statler before you were married?" he was asked.

"I met her in Pinehurst last spring. We became engaged in December."

After their marriage on January 3 last, he said, they went on a honeymoon to Sea Island, Ga. In the course of that trip, he said, they figured in an automobile collision which resulted in injuries to Mrs. Davidson's shoulder.

He said that when he married Miss Statler he was not working,

having resigned a job with a Baltimore oil company just before Christmas. His new wife, he said, did not want him to work. Davidson bristled when Pruette asked him if he had once told somebody he was going to "live on Elva's money."

"No," he said, "that's wrong. I did not say that."

He denied, too, that he was familiar with the size of his bride's estate.

Questioned about his wife's trip to Boston in February to make out her will, he said he told her that it "was too ridiculous."

"I happened to be in love with my wife," he said, "and I was not interested in the monetary side."

Pruette asked Davidson whether his wife had been expecting a baby. Davidson said for a time it was believed that she was "to have a child, but the condition passed."

Denies Quarrelling.

Davidson denied that he quarreled with his wife.

"I ask you," said Pruette, "if it isn't a fact that you have a dominating personality?"

"No, I think not."

"Weren't you sometimes abusive to your wife?"

"No, I would say that the contrary was the case."

Questioned about bruises found on his wife's body, Davidson said, "Mrs. Davidson showed some bruises to us Saturday before she died, just after we had been playing tennis."

Davidson said his wife suffered from insomnia and on such occasions got out of bed and took a drive.

He said he did not notice that his

Where coroner's jury is meeting to consider events surrounding death of the 22-year-old bride.

Associated Press Photos.

Davidson said he helped his wife off with her coat, kissed her goodnight and told her to let him know if she wanted anything.

Went to Separate Rooms.

They then went to their separate bedrooms, he said.

"Had you been using separate rooms?" he was asked.

"I would say about half and half, sometimes I would go to her room and some times she would use mine."

"Do you remember the last thing she said that night?"

"Yes, she called from her room, 'good-night, darling.'"

Davidson said he went to sleep within five minutes.

"When did you wake up?"

He said "My God, Mr. Davidson, Mrs. Davidson is dead."

"Did you hear any sound in the night?"

"No."

Rushed to Garage.

Davidson explained how he pulled on a pair of trousers and a sweater and rushed to the garage.

He described how he found his wife on the running board, one arm on the seat of the car and her head on the floor.

"Did you examine the car?"

"I just noticed that the switch was on."

"You didn't try to determine whether the motor was hot?"

"No, I was too excited."

"Did you know she was dead?"

"I had no idea. I felt her pulse, but could detect no heat."

Campaigne, Davidson said, warned him not to touch the body.

Later in the day, Campaigne explained that the reason he did this was because he had "read somewhere that a body shouldn't be touched under such circumstances if there was a chance of murder."

Marriage to Heiress.

After Solicitor Pruette had brought out the details of the finding of Mrs. Davidson's body, the calling of a doctor, and the rush to the hospital, the questioning turned to the marriage of Davidson and the Statler heiress.

"How long had you known Elva Statler before you were married?" he was asked.

"I met her in Pinehurst last spring. We became engaged in December."

After their marriage on January 3 last, he said, they went on a honeymoon to Sea Island, Ga. In the course of that trip, he said, they figured in an automobile collision which resulted in injuries to Mrs. Davidson's shoulder.

He said that when he married Miss Statler he was not working,

having resigned a job with a Baltimore oil company just before Christmas. His new wife, he said, did not want him to work. Davidson bristled when Pruette asked him if he had once told somebody he was going to "live on Elva's money."

"No," he said, "that's wrong. I did not say that."

He denied, too, that he was familiar with the size of his bride's estate.

Questioned about his wife's trip to Boston in February to make out her will, he said he told her that it "was too ridiculous."

"I happened to be in love with my wife," he said, "and I was not interested in the monetary side."

Pruette asked Davidson whether his wife had been expecting a baby. Davidson said for a time it was believed that she was "to have a child, but the condition passed."

Denies Quarrelling.

Davidson denied that he quarreled with his wife.

"I ask you," said Pruette, "if it isn't a fact that you have a dominating personality?"

"No, I think not."

"Weren't you sometimes abusive to your wife?"

"No, I would say that the contrary was the case."

Questioned about bruises found on his wife's body, Davidson said, "Mrs. Davidson showed some bruises to us Saturday before she died, just after we had been playing tennis."

Davidson said his wife suffered from insomnia and on such occasions got out of bed and took a drive.

He said he did not notice that his wife was particularly unhappy the night before she died.

Subsequent witnesses, however, described Mrs. Davidson as "moody."

One of them said she was in tears. Emanuel Birch, the Davidson butler, followed his employer to the stand.

He told how, after doing various chores around the house, he went to the garage to clean the 12-cylinder car.

As he opened the door, he said, he smelled gas "like it had burned."

A moment later he discovered Mrs. Davidson's body slumped on the running board.

He told how he rushed into the house and notified Mr. Davidson.

Neither he nor the occupants of the house who were questioned could say they heard the garage doors being opened during the night.

The next witness was Pearl Watson, colored cook, whose task on Wednesday morning was to tell Mrs. Campaigne that Mrs. Davidson was lying dead in the garage.

She said when she went to Mrs. Davidson's bedroom she found the latter's clothes scattered on the floor and her bed rumpled.

Curtis Campaigne, of Montclair, N. J., was the first witness called in the afternoon.

Campaigne said he arrived late last month with his wife to become Mrs. Davidson's house guest. They met Mrs. Davidson here in February, 1934.

What happened the afternoon before Mrs. Davidson's body was found? Pruette asked.

"Late in the afternoon Davidson called and asked us how about a game of bridge?"

"We played until about 6 o'clock, had tea while playing and drank highballs afterwards before dinner. Mrs. Campaigne did not drink, and though Mrs. Davidson poured one, I don't think she finished it. After dinner late that night we went to the Country Club. Davidson danced with his wife once. I don't think she danced with anyone else. He did."

Mrs. Davidson was gay and happy when the pictures were auctioned off, buying two, which she said she would hang in the hall," Campaigne said.

He told of going to Montesanti's spaghetti place and said he saw some red wine passed. "I saw Mrs. Davidson pour some, but I can not swear she drank it. We left there and got home about 4:30 in the morning."

"What happened there?"

"Mrs. Davidson suggested that she take the car around to the garage. Davidson said 'Let me do it' and he got out and opened the door and ushered Mrs. Campaigne and I into the hall."

"When I got to the door I said 'I'm going to turn in, Brad; I'm tired.'"

He described the Davidsons' argument as "friendly" and said he did not believe he had made a previous statement that the three of them had waited for Mrs. Davidson to put the car up and then parted company and said "goodnight."

The solicitor had asked the question.

Went to Their Rooms.

"Mrs. Campaigne and I went to our rooms and I did not hear the car drive around. The next morning the maid came to the door and told us 'something has happened to Mrs. Davidson in the garage.'"

Campaigne said he ascertained Davidson was up, but he hadn't heard the butler, Emanuel, calling him (Davidson).

"Davidson and I ran out to the garage, and when he started to pick her up I told him not to. I had read somewhere or recalled it being better not to pick up a body."

"Did you think she was dead?" Pruette asked.

"I didn't think she was dead."

"But you told Davidson not to pick her up?"

"I didn't know whether she was or not."

Failed to Detect Gas.

Campaigne swore he did not detect gas or carbon monoxide fumes when he entered the garage and saw Mrs. Davidson's body slumped across the running board.

"Did Davidson hold her on his lap on the running board?" a jurymen asked.

"He sort of held her head and supported her with his arm when the doctor arrived."

Mrs. Campaigne corroborated much of her husband's testimony. She told of playing bridge, having the highballs and sitting around and talking after dinner.

"None of the guests at the country club were under the influence of whisky that I recall, that is, at our table."

When they had gone to Montesanti's, Mrs. Campaigne said the accordionist played gypsy tunes.

Mrs. Davidson insisted that he play one number again. When the player had finished, Mrs. Davidson leaned over to me and said, "that was my father's favorite tune."

Mrs. Campaigne said Mrs. Davidson was melancholy and sad, but she had not been crying then.

Her testimony was about the same as her husband's with regard to their arrival later at the Davidson home, the difference over putting the car up and their being called next morning when Mrs. Davidson was found in the garage.

"I didn't go upstairs to Mrs. Davidson's room that day and I didn't go out of the house," she said.

Position of Body.

Describing the position of Mrs. Davidson's body, she said, "if you were stepping out of a car backward and suddenly fainted, that would be the position her body was in."

Herbert Vail, of Glen Cove, L. I., and Pinehurst, who was on the party that night, was the next witness.

"Was Mrs. Davidson despondent at the spaghetti camp?"

"I wouldn't say she was exactly crying, but she was sad and melancholy."

He said he played golf with Davidson here Sunday, the day after Mrs. Davidson was buried in New York State.

Mrs. Vail was the last witness.

"I saw the Davidsons at the Country Club and I saw them dancing together more than once. Later at the spaghetti camp she was sad and leaned over and said, 'Nobody loves me.'"

"Was she crying?" Pruette asked.

"She wept. I had often seen her despondent as she was then."

Canadian Legislator Dies.

Ottawa, March 5 (AP)—Deputy Speaker Armand Renaud Lavergne, 55, of the House of Commons, died in a hospital today.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

Don't let them get a strange hold. Fight them quickly. Creomulsion combines 7 helps in one. Powerful but harmless. Pleasant to take. No narcotics. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion.—Adv.

COAL
Phone North 3609
J. EDW. CHAPMAN
37 N. St. N.W.

LANSBURGH'S
7th, 8th and E
Blackheads and Open Pores fade away
Because Dioxogen Cream contains Oxygen, nature's prescription—coarse pores yield to its application. Do try
DIOXOGEN CREAM 50c
TOILETRIES—STREET FLOOR

1860 1935
LANSBURGH'S
DIAMOND JUBILEE
7th, 8th and E Streets District 7575

FRIDAY IS THE LAST DAY TO ENTER THE GREAT SILVER PRIZE "TREASURE HUNT"

At 10:30 on Saturday morning, we are awarding 15 valuable prizes to the families owning the greatest number of pieces of the oldest patterns of 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate. It's an exciting part of the great $50,000 International Silver Show; and you must be sure to enter our fascinating prize search.

Look in your buffet, poke round in odd corners, collect every old piece of silverware that has stamped on the back: 1847 Rogers Bros. Bring them to us and register on official entry blank. First Prize, 104-Piece Set, "Sylvia," value $127.65. Second Prize, 78-Piece Set "Sylvia," value $96.75. Third Prize, 34-Piece Set "Sylvia," value $44.00. Twelve other prizes—"Sylvia" Serving Spoons or Serving Forks.

Last 3 Days to See the $50,000 INTERNATIONAL SILVER SHOW

Such excitement! You're evidently enjoying our great Silver Show! Bring your friends down, too. On the Sixth Floor don't overlook the table settings. Informal chats on each table at 3 o'clock every afternoon. And to answer your questions, Mrs. Perry T. Hawkins, International Style authority, awaits you.

—and don't miss this treasure!

26-Piece Service for Eight

1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate In Treasure Chest $33.50

A real treasure chest, packed with 26 most-needed pieces of these distinguished 1847 patterns: Sylvia, Legacy or Silhouette. (34-piece set, $44.00.)

Club Plan: Pay $1, and then each week $1. Small service charge when you budget your payment this way.

LANSBURGH'S—STREET FLOOR—SILVERWARE

WHAT'S GREATER THAN GREAT?

"I wonder if they're ready to close the deal?"

TELEPHONE and find out!

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company ME. 4900

Kidney Trouble

Headache, backache, unusual thirst are symptoms that point to kidney trouble. For over 30 years physicians have endorsed Mountain Valley Mineral Water direct from famous Hot Springs, Arkansas. A natural restorative. Phone for free booklet today.

Mountain Valley Mineral Water Mfg. Co. 1405 E. St. N.W.

Before Selling

INVESTIGATE the Prices We Pay for OLD GOLD

SHAH & SHAH

921 F St. N.W.

Phone NA. 5543—and we will call.

</

Virginians Pick Rev. A.S. Peeler Head of Classis

Lovettsville Clergyman Is Chosen President of Reformed Group.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Woodstock, Va., March 5.—The Rev. A. S. Peeler, of Lovettsville, Va., was elected president of the Virginia classis of the Evangelical Reformed Church at the opening session of the ninety-seventh annual meeting in St. Paul's Reformed Church last night.

The meeting opened with devotional services conducted by the Rev. Joseph E. Guy, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., retiring president. Holy Communion was conducted by the Rev. Guy, the Rev. Dr. Aaron Gluck, Martinsburg, W. Va., and the Rev. John B. Prantz, pastor loci. Preparatory services were in charge of Dr. Gluck. The choir was under the direction of Maj. Guy A. Benchoff, minister of music.

Ceremonies were preceded by a dinner given by Col. and Mrs. Howard J. Benchoff at Massanutten Academy, Col. Benchoff is headmaster of the academy, established by the classis in 1898.

This morning's session opened with devotional service by the Rev. A. W. Barley, which was followed by election of other classis officers as follows:

Elder Harry Myers, Martinsburg, W. Va., vice president; the Rev. Horace R. Lequear, Bridge-water, Va., reading clerk; the Rev. H. A. Walker, Mount Crawford, Va., corresponding secretary; Elder N. H. Cornman, Woodstock, treasurer, and the Rev. J. Silor Garrison, Harrisonburg, stated clerk.

At the closing session this afternoon committee reports and business were considered. A spiritual retreat, in the form of a Lenten challenge, was the concluding thought. The retreat was in charge of Mr. Peeler. Meditation was given by the Rev. J. P. Derrick, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church. The Lenten period will begin tomorrow.

The classis was organized here in 1825, and in celebration of this 110th anniversary an informal program was held today following the report of the historical committee, which was read by the Rev. J. Silor Garrison, Harrisonburg, chairman.

Better Tomato Price Likely.

Rock Hall, Md., March 5 (AP).—Better prices are anticipated this year for tomatoes in this section. The first buyer has made an offer to growers in the county of 25 cents a bushel, a big increase over the initial contract prices of a year ago.

Robinson Lashes Long; 'Bodyguard' Searched

Huey's Political Ally, Taken for Protector, Has No Arms.

Continued from Page 1.

the Senator's word for that or anything else," ejaculated Senator Bailey.

Twitted About Bodyguard.

"You won't come back here either!" shouted the Kingfish, wheeling around angrily on the tall North Carolinian, and he literally snarled as he added the words: "Unnecessary insult."

Previously he predicted Senator Robinson was serving his last term in the Senate and indicated that he would bring about the leader's defeat if he sought reelection. In reply to Senator Long's shouts that he was "not afraid of anything," Senator Robinson chided him about the armed bodyguard he keeps constantly around him.

Senator Kenneth McKellar wanted to know whether the armed guards of Senator Long sat in the Senate galleries. Senator Long ridiculed such an idea. As the Senate adjourned, Sergeant at Arms Chesley W. Jurney seized and searched Robert Brothers as he left the gallery. Mr. Brothers is a political associate of Senator Long and Mr. Jurney thought he was one of the armed bodyguards. He found no arms on the man.

The report has been widely circulated that Senator Long has constantly in attendance on him a bodyguard of three members of the Louisiana State police, heavily armed. One of these men is reported to carry an unusual firearm, resembling a sawed-off shotgun, but with the handle of an automatic pistol, wrapped in a paper bag, with the paper broken opposite the trigger. These men occasionally have been seen in the Senate galleries, it is said.

Senator Long when questioned about this bodyguard first said it was necessary because of threats "to murder me" and he contended that "a would-be murderer had been given a job as a Capital policeman after the plot became known. Later Senator Long pointed out that President Roosevelt and Postmaster General James A. Farley had bodyguards.

"Big As Farley," He Says.

"I am just as big a man as Farley," he shouted.

As the debate surged and grew heated in the Senate, the Post-office and Post Roads Committee met to consider the Long resolution calling for an investigation of Postmaster General Farley. The committee reported it had found nothing reflecting on Mr. Farley in the report sent Monday to the Senate by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. The committee postponed a decision on the resolution until today.

Senator Long started yesterday's controversy when he arose to reply to the caustic Monday speech of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator. The later assailed Senator Long and Father Charles E. Coughlin for "dangerous demagoguery" and termed the pair "pied pipers of politics."

The "Kingfish" contended that Mr. Farley was grooming Gen. Johnson as a Democratic candidate for the Senate next year and intimated that Monday night's speech was the opening of the Johnson campaign.

The Louisiana assailed Gen. Johnson as "Baruch's hired man." He termed the financier "a market rigger" whose advice, he said, had "ruined three administrations." He said that Mr. Baruch had first conceived the idea of the NRA in 1929 but could not get former President Hoover to accept it. When President Roosevelt adopted the plan, Mr. Baruch sent Gen. Johnson to Washington with the words:

"Here, boy, this is your part of the Government." The "Kingfish" assailed Mr. Baruch as responsible for the losses of Americans in German bonds and marks, asserting he devised the German reparations settlement. The country thought in 1932 that it was "exchanging Hoover for Roosevelt," but it was only exchanging Baruch for Baruch," Senator Long asserted.

Beware! Robinson Warned.

He took a few thrusts at President Roosevelt and Mr. Farley, finally denouncing the "New Deal" as "Farleyism, Baruchism and Johnsonism." In parting he warned Senator Robinson to mend his ways, lest he be defeated in Arkansas. Ever since Senator Long helped elect Mrs. Hattie Caraway to the Senate in 1932 he has assumed a proprietary air in regard to Arkansas.

As soon as he finished speaking, Senator Long left the chamber, apparently headed for the Postoffice and Post Roads Committee meeting on the Farley inquiry resolution. Consequently the "Kingfish" did not hear the severe drubbing given to him by the Democratic leader.

"The Senate and the galleries have just witnessed a demonstration of egotism, of arrogance and of ignorance that is seldom displayed in the Senate and which requires a measure of talent possessed only by the Senator from Louisiana," Senator Robinson began.

He said it was a matter of little concern to the country, its future and its welfare whether either he or Senator Long remained in the Senate. He said he wondered how the "Kingfish" reached the conclusion he had the right to tell members of Congress they could serve only by his leave.

Why Not by Fists?

Senator Robinson contended that, unable to answer Gen. Johnson, the Louisiana had turned on Mr. Baruch. He contended that in the former NRA administrator Senator Long had "found his superior in the use of irony, sarcasm and in the employment of queer appellations."

"So instead of making a reply, he rants and rages and attacks somebody else," the Democratic leader said.

Senator Robinson eulogized Mr. Baruch for his services to the Government and the country and challenged the right of Senator Long to assail the President as he has done. He said he would be content if the "Kingfish" and Gen. Johnson "have their fight out in any forum they may choose"—except the Senate. In view of what each has said about the other, he added, it might be fitting for them "to use the good old-fashioned way of settling their quarrel without bringing it into the Senate and imposing on us the disagreeable task of hearing things best left unsaid."

Huey Told to Learn Place.

"Month after month the Senator from Louisiana has disgusted this body with repeated attacks upon men who are superior to him, with repeated efforts to discredit the President and humiliate him," Senator Robinson asserted, driving home his words with his clenched fists. "And now it is about time that the manhood in the Senate asserts itself."

Applause broke out in the galleries but was quickly stopped by the Vice President's gavel. "It is about time," the Democratic leader continued, "that he should be made to know and take his proper place in a body composed for the most part of gentlemen."

"In a u e n d o e s, insinuations and threats can not prevail in the Senate of the United States unless we have descended to the level of mediocre degenerates."

Rushes Back to Reply.

"I have spoken earnestly and I realize that there are those who are listening who will say: 'Why pay any attention to the ravings of one who anywhere else than the Senate would be called a madman?'"

Several minutes after Senator Robinson concluded, Senator Long rushed into the chamber. He impatiently sat down and got up as he waited to get the floor. Meanwhile a secretary brought him a stenographic copy of the Democratic leader's speech.

When the "Kingfish" got the floor, Senator Robinson had left the chamber. Senator Long refused to speak until the Arkansas had been summoned. He said he understood that while Senator Robinson had advocated decorum within the chamber, he had suggested that the Louisianan settle his score with Gen. Johnson in "a fist fight."

Robinson Restless.

Senator Robinson flushed and squirmed in his chair. He drew from his pocket a cut of chewing tobacco and bit off a bit, rolling it around in his mouth. Any mention of the physical altercation Senator Robinson had some years ago with a prominent physician at the Chevy Chase Club is distasteful to him. He withdrew from the club as a result of it.

Sitting immediately behind Senator Long was Senator Bennett C. Clark (Democrat), of Missouri, a Senate rule book open before him. Apparently he was ready to call the "Kingfish" to order at the first transgression of the rules. Senator Long seemed to sense that and he said he had never violated the rules in anything he said about Senator Robinson. But the latter, he said, had violated the rules in speaking of him.

He said he would not take offense, that he had heard such things before. He expected to suffer for his convictions, had "suffered more than any here." But he indicated he could not understand how the Arkansas could say such things and launched into an account of a conversation he had with President Roosevelt in 1932.

Pledges Arkansas "Shedown."

Explaining that his part in the pre-Chicago Roosevelt campaign was to "keep down favorite sons"—and that he had kept down one in Arkansas—Senator Long said that after the election the President had commissioned him to harass Senator Robinson. But later he found out that the President had commissioned others to keep him busy with the Overton election contest.

Sell your furniture with a Post Classified Ad. Just phone National 4200 and ask for a Post Ad-Writer.

Booster Group Will Be Guests Of Boyce Unit

Fraternal Americans Will Convene With Millwood Council Friday.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Boyce, Va., March 5.—Millwood Council, No. 76, Order of Fraternal Americans, will be host to the first meeting of the year of the Four State Booster Association of the order in the parish house here Friday evening. The association is composed of members of the order in Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia.

A number of prominent members of the order are expected to attend the meeting, including William S. Howe, councillor of the Junior Order United Mechanics; James L. Wilmet, national secretary; members of the national board of officers; the councillors of the four States, with their board of officers. The State councillor and his board of directors of the District of Columbia will be honored guests of the session.

A motorcade of Fraternal Americans from the District of Columbia is expected to attend the meeting. Other motorcades are expected from various districts of Virginia, the Valley district, with 16 councils and 1,000 members, having already made extensive plans for representation here.

The session will be open to the public, and swelling the number of Fraternal Americans expected will be a number of laymen interested in the work of the order, according to Ernest L. Alger, Millwood, district manager.

Officers of the Four State Boosters Association include Alvin W. Shade, Winchester, past councillor; C. Harry Thomas, Martinsburg, W. Va., councillor; John E. Franks, Hagerstown, Md., vice councillor; H. J. Scrivenir, Martinsburg, secretary, and E. L. Alger, treasurer. Each State is also represented by a vice president and four committeemen. The order has 3,200 councils in 34 States with a membership of about 380,000.

Engine Is Derailed.

Chestertown, Md., March 5 (AP).—Considerable difficulty was experienced by railroad workmen Monday in putting a derailed freight locomotive back on the tracks. The engine was derailed near the spot of a similar derailment a year ago.

Ice Storm Fells Wires In 6 Great Lake Towns

St. Paul, Minn., March 5 (AP).—An ice storm—product of sleet, a 50-mile wind and freezing temperatures—left the head of the lakes area disabled today. Communication wires, telephone poles and trees fell under the weight of the ice.

Six cities—Duluth and its neighbor, Superior, Wis., Virginia and Hibbing in northern Minnesota, and Jamestown and Valley City, N. D., were isolated most of the day. Some wires were established in mid-afternoon.

Suit Charges Painting Damaged by Hotel Aid

Charging that a portrait of one of her ancestors that had great artistic and intrinsic value was damaged by an employee of the Fairfax Hotel, Minnie Louise Steele, of Bethesda, Md., yesterday in the District Supreme Court instituted suit against the American Security & Trust Co., trustee under a deed involving the property.

The suit, filed by A. M. Schwartz and M. A. Ostrow, lawyers, claimed the portrait was damaged beyond repair. Holes were poked in it and it was otherwise injured, according to the action.

The whisky you drink should be of known origin and unquestionable quality

Haig & Haig

SCOTCH WHISKY

is Scotch Whisky at its Best

BOMERSET (IMPORTERS) LTD., NEW YORK CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO

Anything else Sir?

Cigarettes are made for your pleasure and for your enjoyment... nothing else.

And when a cigarette gives you the enjoyment that Chesterfields do there are no "ifs" "ands" or "buts" about it...

They Satisfy

Nothing else — they Satisfy!

The Washington Post

Eugene Meyer, Publisher.

Eugene MacLean, General Manager. Floyd R. Harrison, Comptroller.

The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and local news of spontaneous origin published herein. Rights of reproduction of all other matter herein are also reserved.

OFFICES OF THE WASHINGTON POST.
New York, N. Y. 270 Madison Avenue
Chicago, Ill. 360 North Michigan Avenue
Detroit, Mich. 200 General Motors Building
St. Louis, Mo. 200 Globe-Democrat Building
San Francisco, Calif. 742 Market Street

DELIVERED IN WASHINGTON.
Daily, Sunday, 1 yr. $7.50. Daily, Sunday, 1 week, 15c.
Daily only, 1 yr. 2.50. Daily only, 1 week, 10c.
Sunday only, 1 yr. 2.50. Sunday only, per copy 5c.

BY MAIL—MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA.
Daily and Sunday, 1 yr. $7.50. Daily only, 1 week, 15c.
One year, 1 yr. $5.00. One year, 1 week, 10c.
Six months, 50c. Six months, 50c.
One month, 45c. One month, 45c.

OTHER STATES, MEXICO AND CANADA.
Daily and Sunday, 1 yr. $10.00. Daily only, 1 week, 15c.
One year, 1 yr. $7.50. One year, 1 week, 10c.
Six months, 50c. Six months, 50c.
One month, 45c. One month, 45c.

All Subscriptions by Mail Payable in Advance.

Entered at the Postoffice, Washington, D. C., as second-class mail matter.

TELEPHONE NATIONAL 4200.

Wednesday, March 6, 1935.

Thank You, General!

Gen. Johnson said of his radio speech on Monday night that all of his friends, "without one single exception," advised him not to make it. The country can not be too grateful to the former head of the NRA for totally disregarding that advice and speaking out as, when and how he did. That speech deserves to, and will, go down in American history along with the most notable utterances of our statesmen.

In behalf of his country Gen. Johnson clearly joined the issue with the two most blatant demagogues on the national stage—Senator Long and Father Coughlin. He did it with the more force because he took his stand with palpable reluctance. But the job needed doing and Hugh Johnson did it to the queen's taste. The United States has not yet reached the depths of misfortune where the weapon of ridicule is no longer ineffective. And if ridicule has ever been more effectively exercised in the annals of oratory, it will take much research to show the instance.

The trend to which Gen. Johnson addressed himself has gone a long way—much further than most Americans realize. But it has not gone so far as to be uncontrollable, and a fair guess is that this radio speech will set it in reverse. It is pretty difficult to laugh off an accusation of "political bumbling." And it is impossible successfully to impeach the sincerity, honesty and disinterestedness of the man who feathered his targets with that and many other stinging jibes.

Millions of Germans must in their hearts regret that they could find no Gen. Johnson to show up Hitler when he was on his climb to power.

The Thin Partition.

A newswheel company has offered $25,000 for exclusive camera privileges at a trap to be set for the Southwest's No. 1 public enemy, who recently escaped from the death cell of a Texas prison. Twice in recent weeks police have cornered the fugitive, but each time he has battled his way out through a barrage of bullets. The cameramen are anxious to record the next encounter.

Sickening as the whole proposition is, there can be no question as to the acumen of the film company. The risk of an investment of $25,000 plus production expenses (and the possible incidentals of compensation awards to families of employees) would naturally have been carefully weighed against the indisputable fact that literally hundreds of thousands of persons would gladly pay to see a man—or, better still, men—ridicled with bullets.

In extension, it may be argued that the detached objectivity of the screen differentiates such a film from the repulsive bear pits and gladiatorial shows of bygone days. But it is not so. In each instance it is blood—and blood alone—that draws the crowd. And movie producers shrewdly calculate that the real thing would be much more potent than any faking.

Psychologists may explain this lust in terms of releases and ductless glands. Whatever the diagnosis, it betokens an atavism, a reversion to the primitive. The thinness of the partition between such barbarian instincts and civilization, as brought out in the newswheel proposal, may be easily obscured by the distractions of the highly integrated culture of today. Yet it is only by constantly referring to this paper-width wall that any accurate appraisal is possible of the advances of the present, and hopes for the future, in what Richard Hovey called "God's battle upward from the beast."

Reading Made Easy.

Premier experimentalists in most matters, the French are the world's staunchest conservatives in the art and trade of fiction. Their novel has so long been "daring" that today it often approaches dullness. And their system of selling novels has not greatly altered since the Second Empire. Now, however, an alien element has entered Gaul. The circulating library is added to the perils of the boulevards.

In France, until the other day—as once in America—a novelist's profits could be policed by his popularity. This comfortable condition the invader has disrupted. Authors are pestering the Chamber of Deputies for some sort of remedial legislation. They say the book-lender reduces their legitimate royalties, at best none too great under the system of cheap, paper-back editions.

This problem will be regarded with apathy from across the Channel and with mixed interest from these shores of the Atlantic. Under the gardening of the late Mr. Mudie, England long ago succumbed to the lending library. In America, though the parasite has fastened tightly on the book trade's trunk, there are still authors who protest against it. The libraries argue that they promote sales because their low rates make readers of thousands of people who would otherwise not read at all. The intellectual among the army of authors—for, here and there, an intellectual still lingers—retorts that these rates force into popularity books not worth the reading and that, to the detriment of his sales, such reading corrupts the general taste.

Time is not likely to tell where right resides in this controversy. The sole evident fact is that the lending library, once it strikes root, is both tenacious and hardy. The French novelists are unlikely to get rid of it unless they can simultaneously get rid of public education. That is, assuming the motion picture and the radio do not succeed in obliterating the habit of reading altogether.

The New Ship Subsidy Policy.

Few messages sent to Capitol Hill by President Roosevelt deserve more wholehearted endorsement than that dealing with the American merchant marine. With judicious restraint, the President has pointed out abuses that have developed under the policy of camouflaging subsidies in excessive compensation for carrying mail. And without seeking to penalize the whole shipping industry because some concerns have taken advantage of legislative deficiencies, he has outlined the guiding principles of a new policy.

Two reports accompanied the President's message. The study of ocean mail contracts, signed by Postmaster General Farley, contains some valuable information and a plethora of political eye wash. It appears that the President relied chiefly upon the more comprehensive report of the Interdepartmental Committee on Shipping Policy for his recommendations. Congress would do well to accept this study as the basis of its own deliberations.

The existing law has proved unsatisfactory for several reasons. It sets up no direct relationship between the benefits paid American shipping lines and the difference between domestic and foreign costs of constructing and operating merchant vessels. It provides no safeguard against the use of shipping subsidies for other purposes, and it seems to encourage the payment of excessive salaries, commissions, and bonuses. Indications are that existing subsidies more than offset the lower costs of foreign competitors. Moreover, the policy now in vogue has not brought about the contemplated development in the merchant marine.

To overcome these various abuses and deficiencies the President has outlined a simple policy. Subsidies would no longer be disguised. American shipping companies would be allowed grants to cover construction and operating differentials and to equalize subsidies paid by foreign governments to their shipping lines. Anything less than that would put American ships at a disadvantage in competition with those of other countries. Anything more would be an unwarranted contribution to private operators.

Carrying his reform proposal one step further, the President seeks reorganization of administrative machinery to insure proper expenditure of subsidies. Quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative duties of the present Shipping Board Bureau of the Department of Commerce would be transferred to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Does this carry an intimation that the I. C. C. should also be authorized to designate trade routes, specify the type of vessels to be used and fix the subsidies for each shipping company? The Committee on Shipping Policy would assign these duties to a Federal maritime authority. The President does not indorse this proposal, and his message fails to bridge the gap between his own view and that of the committee.

It is extremely important, of course, that some reliable and impartial agency be made responsible for the determination of rates and the tenure of subsidies. The President merely suggests that Congress "provide annual appropriations for subsidies sufficiently large to cover the differentials that I have described." But it is questionable whether any consistent merchant marine policy can be carried out if the companies constructing and operating vessels have to depend upon year-to-year appropriations by Congress.

The committee properly suggests that "the amount of aid to be granted should be the subject of frequent study and periodic adjustments." That task can not safely be left to Congress or any other political body. If the idea of a maritime authority is considered undesirable, the control of subsidies may well fall upon the I. C. C.

Glimpses Of The Moon.

With a trip to the moon as their eventual goal, Soviet scientists and aeronautical experts met in congress this week and agreed that experiments prove they are working in the right direction. At this meeting in Moscow, it was decided that rocket planes already offer the possibility of carrying passengers into the stratosphere some 20 or 30 miles above the earth. Readers of Jules Verne will recall that those first miles were the hardest.

There was a decidedly optimistic note to this congress, making interplanetary communication, the boldest idea yet advanced by mankind, seem but a matter of time. There will, of course, be the inevitable toll of human life which tallies every progressive step in science. But there would seem to be another, more intangible, hazard accompanying this particular venture. And that is—which of the poor old earth's conflicting social and political philosophies should be transmitted to the various planets?

Naturally, if the U. S. S. R. reaches the moon first, seeds of communism will be left to flourish on its cheesy surface. If Belgium's Piccard could win by a balloon, undoubtedly Jupiter will be influenced toward liberal monarchy. From some peak in Abyssinia, Mussolini may seek to speed Fascism to Mars. And modern imagination is not staggered by the thought that Mrs. Roosevelt might waft New Deal philosophy as far as Venus.

So far, stratosphere flights have proved little, except that there is a lot of chill in the upper regions. The temperature will doubtless rise as conflicting dogmas shoot their way through interplanetary space. But it is a sobering thought that the Bolsheviks are ahead of everyone else on this project. Even ordinary bourgeois moonlight has always been insidious for the race. If the rays come filtered through a red network, the game, boys, will be up.

Barking Up The Wrong Tree.

Postmaster General Farley has had no difficulty in disposing of the ridiculous charges against his personal integrity filed with the Senate Postoffice Committee. His emphatic denial that he has assisted corporations in their dealings with the United States, that he has used Government facilities to pursue a gambling business, and that he has used the power and prestige of his office for personal financial gain, would of themselves have satisfied the overwhelming majority of citizens. No thoughtful critic of Mr. Farley's activities has ever given credence to such defamatory accusations.

A fair-minded person can not read Mr. Farley's letter to the Postoffice Committee without a feeling of disgust over the mudslinging in which Senator Long has indulged. Attacks of this character will ultimately recoil upon those who launch them. But in the meantime there is danger that Mr. Farley's dignified refutation of canards as to his official conduct may obscure the real issue which arises from his dual service as Postmaster General and chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

In an Administration devoted to the ideal of planned economy the association of political patronage with the Government's largest business organization can not be successfully defended. Mr. Farley himself recognized the necessity of resigning as president of a building supply company when he accepted a place in the Cabinet. Since then, he told the committee, he has taken no part in the management of that company. Moreover, he gives assurance that he has "conducted no private business" since he became Postmaster General. In his heart he must realize that between the use of office for the conduct of private business and the conduct of party business there is, for a responsible Government official, a distinction without much difference.

Having taken precautions against confusion of public interests with his own, why does Mr. Farley cling to his political jobs so stubbornly? Is it this question which the Postmaster General ought to be called upon to answer. It is in this respect, and this respect only, that he has become a liability to the Roosevelt Administration. Trampled-up charges which tend to befog that clear issue are as much deplored by Mr. Farley's responsible critics as by his devoted henchmen.

A Missed Opportunity.

The melancholy atmosphere pervading the haunts of the Old Guard yesterday seems to have had no connection with the linguistic barbs unloosed by Gen. Johnson. Its origin goes even deeper than that. Out in California, where the G. O. P. has been kicking up its heels in celebration of Upton Sinclair's defeat, Gov. Merriam—heretofore regarded as the essence of sober conservatism—has indorsed the Townsend plan.

Novelist Sinclair's scheme to end poverty in California differs from Dr. Townsend's monthly pensions of $200 for everyone over 60 years of age only in method and the extent of territory covered. It is possible that Gov. Merriam fought the EPIC plan so ferociously because its beneficent promises did not reach far enough? Or has he now been taken into the Townsend camp because of a patriotic conviction that he should boost every California product?

Regardless of the mental processes which led to the governor's EPIC decision, it leaves us with a pang of regret. What a show the country missed when the Republicans of California chose for their candidate a lukewarm Townsendite, when they might have brought about a clash between two real knights of political errantry.

Well-Wielded Gavel.

According to spectators, the Speaker was forced to all but break his gavel during the House debate on a proposal to grant each member an additional clerk. If it had been necessary to have completely smashed that parliamentary instrument, so long as the defeat of such a measure was attained, a fund to purchase a new one could easily have been raised.

The sponsor of the bill, Representative White, of Idaho, believes that the job of a Congressman is "getting bigger all the time." Its increased importance is attested by the flood of inquiries from constituents whose letters remain unanswered because clerks and stenographers are swamped with work. Mr. White, as a result, asked legislation giving each Congressman an additional allowance of $1,000 per year for clerk hire, so that the "folks back home" will not feel they were being neglected.

A healthy negative has been given to the question as to whether it is worth $440,000 to propitiate letter writers who make excessive demands upon the time and energy of their representatives in Congress. So far as the "neglected" constituents are concerned, they would probably be better served if a larger proportion of letters remained unanswered. That would give members of Congress more time to reflect upon the problems of government, instead of employing their working hours replying to correspondence which to a large extent is based on the vicious idea that the majority party runs a national employment agency.

"That California Climate."

Letters To The Editor

Reds And Red Herrings.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Don't you think it is about time this eternal search for the Red menace should cease and allow our political sessions to be conducted in a manner that appears more serious than the present clowning that makes our Government a farce conducted by little overgrown boys, finding jack-o' lanterns in every corner and sedition ticked to every flag that borders an excavation, a plow pit or the abode of a cable splicer?

It seems to me that this Red hunting is so much hokey to drag the proverbial red herring over a crisis and, more important, over the inefficient and expensive conduct of alleged "leaders" who turn out to be so many political buffoons trying to keep their seat on the gravy train by concocting Red scares for the populace.

How does it happen that so much time is spent in investigating so-called Communist activities while very little time is spent on investigating Fascist activities? If one is to believe the absurd statement that the Ku Klux Klan gets its funds from Canada, or the Silver Shirts get their funds from Italy, or the Brown Shirts (Die Braune Pest) get their funds from Nazi Germany? Why investigate Communism only?

I think America is populated mostly by hypocrites who are always trying to cover up their own crimes by shouting about the other fellow. Clean up your own back yard before you start howling about how your neighbor is acting. Russia and Mexico have just as much culture as we have and probably are superior in many respects. Why not howl about American crime and slums for a while, or lynching?

The Post welcomes letters from its readers. All communications must be signed with the writer's name and address. Upon publication initials or pen names will be used if requested. Letters are subject to condensation, and in no case should they exceed 250 words.

Yard before you start howling about how your neighbor is acting. Russia and Mexico have just as much culture as we have and probably are superior in many respects. Why not howl about American crime and slums for a while, or lynching?

JAMES HARRISON.
Alexandria, Va., March 1.

Musicians Without Honor?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Two rather interesting musical events presented recently deserve, in my opinion, more than passing comment.

The first, presented on the evening of February 26 by Lieut. Charles Benter and the Navy Band Symphony Orchestra, was a program of compositions by Washington composers. On February 28 Dr. Kindler and the National Symphony Orchestra presented a program of compositions by American composers. Both were interesting, but the program presented by the Navy Orchestra deserves a greater meed of praise and recognition than it has received.

It seems a great pity that an event of this importance should be given scant recognition. Surely, all patriots, all those who wish their Nation's Capital to take rank as a center of creative art, should encourage this group of artists who, alone and quietly, strive to give of their best and who do achieve beauty.

It would be a great thing if the press of Washington should lead in a movement to shatter the truth of the adage that "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country." and give the honor which is their just due to the group of Washington composers.

AN APPRECIATIVE LISTENER.
Washington, March 3.

Blimp A Nuisance?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I write to voice a strenuous protest against the continued flight of the Goodyear blimp over the City of Washington. For weeks almost without end I have listened to the drone of its motors, and I keep asking myself "Cui bono?" If they are experimenting with it, then why not fly over the river and up and down the bay. Why must they continue always the same course round and round the city?

I work at night and must sleep by day. This constant and incessant noise is becoming more than I can stand. It is nearing the nuisance stage. I am voicing the opinions of many another citizen of Washington when I make a motion that they fly henceforth outside the city limits. Do I hear it seconded?

ANTI-BLIMP.
Washington, March 4.

Right Makes Might.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am deeply grateful to you for your courageous stand on peace (also antilynching). I recall that David overcame a giant, let us say, of ignorance, by fearless accuracy. In the same way, I believe right thought more powerful than a thousand times its amount of wrong thought.

A SUBSCRIBER.
Washington, March 3.

Straws In The Wind.

Recovery notes: Two masked bandits held up a foursome at the Miami Country Club Monday, and collected $146. A Chicago financial journal warns of the reappearance of bucket shops. The Automobile Club of Michigan reports more requests for routes to Florida than in any winter in years.

A first baseman for the eighth place White Sox, after a year in the majors, demands $14,500 a year to continue. The members of a students' club at Harvard were presented a quart of champagne apiece following an initiation, Saturday. Sally Rand has found some clothes and is addressing business groups on advertising appeal. New York is spending $300 a week to feed the birds in the parks.

No one calls at the door any more for a job of snow-shoveling. The Detroit Film Board of Trade reports five theaters reopened in Michigan in the last week. Frank Parker, tenor, has bought a bicycle to jump from radio studio to radio studio. Italy is willing to invest $600,000,000 in a war. In the Carolinas a school teacher dropped $24,000 in a proposition in dry oil wells. A lion in a Los Angeles zoo is on the alling list, following over-indulgence in cake. A New York sandwich man, deluged with rewards for returning a wallet found on the street, went out of his mind. Damages asked in heart balm shakedowns are again in six figures.

Detroit News.

The Post Impressionist

Quantity vs. Quality.

Post Office, Wednesday.
IS the problem of population a problem of arithmetic? Merely a matter of numbers?

A good many of the specialists that try to answer it, from whatever angle, seem still to think so: both those advocating large populations and those advocating small. Hitler seems to think so. Enid Charles seems to think so when, in her new book, "The Twilight of Parenthood," she raises a thundering alarm about the decrease of the world's population. Dr. William F. Ogburn, of the University of Chicago, seems to think so when he says (as this column recently quoted him) that Nature will adjust itself to the trouble which disturbs Enid Charles. And the head of the Scripps Foundation for Research in Population, Dr. Warren S. Thompson, seems to think so when he says he's surprised there hasn't long ago been an outcry against the allegedly inevitable, imminent and dangerous drop of America's birthrate.

A question of quantity!

But now a column correspondent demands: "Why isn't it exclusively a question of quality?"

Not that some other people haven't so considered it, but that such others are relatively few—and that the present consideration is from Alexandria—and that he at least states his case with some gusto.

He writes—

(We wish he'd let us give his real name. But he won't! He persists, with mock modesty, in signing himself just "Clerk.")

He writes:

"At least one of the doctors you've quoted is pretty dismal about the future of America's population—because he studies it numerically. Dear, dear—another Herr Doktor at this melancholy business of making curved lines on squared paper, statistical analyses, factors, quotas, indices, trends!

"Counting and averaging doubtless have many useful purposes. But they have also certain weaknesses and limitations which are inherent.

"Tobias Dantzig is my authority for the statement that the science of mathematics was born when some forgotten genius realized how a brace of pheasants and a couple of days are both personifications of the number two. They are indeed; but it has not been sufficiently marked that the fact of being two is the only quality which a yoke of oxen and a pair of aces possess in common. A. S. Eddington points out that this is the basic limitation of science: It explains by numbering and measuring, and so confines itself to the relatively narrow domain of the numerable and measurable.

"Now, I submit that, though peoples have waxed and waned from the dawn of time, their numbers have been minor effects, not causes, of their rises and their falls. Italy, I should judge—Mussolini to the contrary notwithstanding—still boasts about as many people as she can comfortably feed, but none of them builds a Forum or writes a Divine Comedy. Czechoslovak peasants stumble in furrows of the same earth that was tilled by the carvers of the west facade of Prague's cathedral—but they build no cathedrals.

"If the future of populations must be worried about—and I suppose it must—quantity is a fitter subject than quantity. This leaven should be tracked to its lair. Was it a special breed of men that flourished in Troy and passed to Rome? The question has been raised before. Mr. Gibbon undertook it, but, in I don't know how many volumes, succeeded merely in showing that Rome did decline and did fall: a fact he had already intimated upon the title page of Volume I."

Whereupon, adds our Alexandrine correspondent, becoming reminiscent: "As a minor subject for speculation, I offer the present rarity of women like my own grandmother; she gave birth to my youngest uncle while alone in the house one morning, and she had the dinner on the table for the men when they returned from the field."

The Clerk asks us postscriptally: "Will you pardon the Chaucerian spelling exhibited by my typewriter today?" Why, the typewriter of such a grandson of such a grandmother ought to spell in Doric—write pure Spartan!

To return, however, to our mutations, and to conclude them:

There is something to be said for "Clerk's" point: Even something more than "Clerk" has well said. But it would never do to start regulating population exclusively from a rage of quality. For then the State would soon take control of it and appoint boards of doctors and psychologists to determine a standard of quality. And what they would determine would make a merry world, wouldn't it?

Far better to balance quantity and quality, we think!

Dean Of Westminster Faces Grave Problem

Illustrious Dead So Fill Abbey That More Monuments Are Impossible.

By Edward Acheson.
Special Correspondence of The Post.

FOR years without number the traditional English story has concluded: "And then, children, as you all know, he was laid to rest in Westminster Abbey." Not only in fact, but in fact, so many life histories have actually ended in just this fashion that the Abbey, for some time, has been faced with a serious overcrowding problem. Even the recent stipulation that all "prospects" must first submit to cremation only begs the question: there are still monuments to be erected over the ashes. And there simply is no more room for monuments.

The problem is chronic, but the public has only just now awakened with a start to its full implications. Presumably, England will go right on producing illustrious dead—but what to do with them?

Logically, the alternatives are simple. Either they are buried in the Abbey, or they aren't. If they aren't, relatives and friends are going to be unpleasant about it. If they are, then some present incumbent is going to be ousted and the relatives, descendants and friends of that present incumbent are going to be very unpleasant about it.

Hence the dean, in whom is vested the whole authority for decision, is quite obviously and uncomfortably "on the spot."

FURTHERMORE, there doesn't seem to be much chance of easing any of the gentlemen out of their present abode. In replacing a monument recently, workmen discovered a plaque which had been covered up for a few hundred years. No one had ever inquired for it, no one seemed to know exactly who the worthy had been, and since the name was not clear it was sent off for a "bit of a wash." Whereupon, and immediately, eight Americans showed up demanding reasons why their ancestor had been thus dishonored.

Nor have the newspaper suggestions been very helpful; enlarge the Abbey, distribute the monuments to the city churches, build a Pantheon such as the one in Paris. But twentieth century additions to thirteenth century edifices are not, as a rule, happy; the city churches simply, in effect, "Thank you, but we have enough Victorian marble monstrosities as it is;" and the theory of the Pantheon doesn't appeal at all. It is the Abbey and the Abbey alone that confers the right type of distinction on a dead Englishman.

No, the issue has to be faced—and squarely. For each new and successful applicant, somebody's got to go. It's just a question of deciding who.

Unless—and here is one possibility—the style of burial accorded Ben Jonson could be made universal—and retroactive. Ben Jonson was buried standing up. He died in great poverty, and, it is said, begged 18 inches of square ground from Charles I. That's all he got. But it sufficed, and it might be made to suffice for others. "Standing room only" is, really, a very practical suggestion.

OR certainly the rare Ben Jonson deserves as much of the Abbey earth as a gentleman named George Tierney (d. 1830), who is buried, lying down, under the Belfry Tower, and whose chief claim to distinction seems to be that he fought a duel with Pitt in 1793—and missed him.

There are, in fact, several inmates who might very well stand up to provide a few more inches for the Abbey because of his son's post. For instance, Zachary Macaulay, merchant, enshrined in the father. And Theodore Philadelphus (d. 1644), whose distinction is even more remote, resting on the fact that his father claimed descent from John Paleologus, the last Christian Emperor of Constantinople; and please notice that his father died claiming; apparently Theodore himself took little stock in the rumor.

Then there is Miss Beaufoy—just that Miss Beaufoy died 1708. No other accomplishment is recorded. Certainly few of her direct descendants would come forward to object to her removal. And the same advantage applies to Richard Harwood, a monk, d. 1490, of whom it is said, "nothing remarkable happened in his time except the most solemn burial of Henry V."

There are also seven ladies, for whose elevation to space among England's famed dead, the reasons are somewhat obscure. Take Mrs. Martha Price (died 1678), for instance; she is recorded as the virtuous wife of a trumpeter. And Mrs. Hervart (died 1697) seemed to be distinguished only as "the widow of a French banker." Anne Mowbray's claim may be that she married the Duke of York in 1447; the bridegroom having just attained the age of 5. But Dame Grace Gethin, who departed this world in 1697 at the age of 21, would have some difficulty today in defending her title to a niche since her "Book of Devotions," published posthumously, "devotions," noted down with a pencil at spare hours or when she was dressing," turned out to be a compilation of extracts from Bacon and other writers.

LADY GIFFORD (died 1722) possibly gets by as the holder of a record, being preserved to posterity as "maid, wife and widow in a day," her unlucky husband expiring on the evening of the wedding. About Lady Elizabeth Nightingale (died 1731) there is all the evidence that can be found to say that she was "barbarously murdered" is not only written out, but graphically depicted on the side of his two-ton tomb—coach, horse, highwayman.

Which, when one thinks about it, is really more of a service to the country than being shot by a highwayman. But that is all the evidence that can be found to say that she was "barbarously murdered" is not only written out, but graphically depicted on the side of his two-ton tomb—coach, horse, highwayman.

"I see her—you don't have to point!"

Along The Potomac

With Carlisle Bargerion

Effie.
(In One Act.)

SCENE 1—Bedroom of Miss Caroline, spoiled and yet not spoiled daughter of a small Southern town. She is just beginning to stir from her sleep. She stretches in the warm flow of sunlight that bathes the bed just as Effie warbles in. Effie weighs about 300 pounds and because of her color she is known in Dark town generally as Charcoal.

"Get up, child," she calls, "you are the laziest white woman I have ever seen. Get up, get up, get up."

"On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

The New Congress

By Wm. Lyon Phelps

Effie.
(In One Act.)

SCENE 1—Bedroom of Miss Caroline, spoiled and yet not spoiled daughter of a small Southern town. She is just beginning to stir from her sleep. She stretches in the warm flow of sunlight that bathes the bed just as Effie warbles in. Effie weighs about 300 pounds and because of her color she is known in Dark town generally as Charcoal.

"Get up, child," she calls, "you are the laziest white woman I have ever seen. Get up, get up, get up."

"On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

Dust And Ashes

By Wm. Lyon Phelps

Effie.
(In One Act.)

SCENE 1—Bedroom of Miss Caroline, spoiled and yet not spoiled daughter of a small Southern town. She is just beginning to stir from her sleep. She stretches in the warm flow of sunlight that bathes the bed just as Effie warbles in. Effie weighs about 300 pounds and because of her color she is known in Dark town generally as Charcoal.

"Get up, child," she calls, "you are the laziest white woman I have ever seen. Get up, get up, get up."

"On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

"Aw, now, ain't dat somethin'?"

"What's wurrin' yer, child, come on tell me what's on your mind."

"Effie, there's plenty on my mind. Listen, Effie (Miss Caroline reaches forward and takes the darkey's arm and lowers her voice to a confidential tone). I have got to have $25 by tomorrow. I've got to have it, that's all. Effie, if you can let me have it I'll pay you back this week. I'll be able to get the money from Dad later in the week."

"Aw, aw, poor child—my poor child. That's all right, dat's all right. On your way, Effie, on your way. I've got trouble, plenty of trouble. Effie, I'm worried to death."

Briton Sees American Recovery As Assured

Former Minister Of Labor Warns Against Inflation; Credit And Confidence Vital.

By Elliott Thurston.

SO much American comment on the New Deal is biased or partisan that it is refreshing to hear from outsiders who are not open to suspicion of having personal axes to grind. In a book issued as the New Deal ends its first two years, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, one-time British minister of labor, now a member of Parliament, long active in efforts to secure recovery in Great Britain, offers a sober, balanced view of what still needs to be done to achieve recovery in the United States.

He came over at the suggestion of the Rockefeller Foundation of New York to study the American scene, and his opinion is worth noting as that of an experienced, competent authority who is free from partisan bias. He reaches this conclusion:

"For further progress in the United States... two requirements are essential. Federal credit is the sheet anchor and it must not be allowed to drag. Confidence is the prerequisite of further recovery and it must be allowed to grow. If these two requirements are observed there is no reason why the budget of 1936-37 should not be balanced, the reforms desired by the Administration be accomplished, and recovery proceed apace."

He argues that the "financial position of the United States up to the present time is not a cause for serious anxiety." The total of expenditures, he notes, "has indeed greatly exceeded any figure hitherto reached in times of peace and deficits in the budget and the growth of the Federal debt have created general apprehension. This alarm, though natural, is exaggerated. The burden of the Federal debt in relation to the wealth of the Nation, is less than one-quarter of the British National debt, and the burden of taxation, which seems so heavy to American taxpayers, is one which Englishmen would thank fully exchange for their own."

However, he is at pains to emphasize that the "outlook for the future is a cause for legitimate anxiety." The New Deal, he says, "has definitely removed fears of budgetary collapse and of uncontrolled inflation."

He remarks on "a tendency in the United States to see the specter of socialism or of communism in any measure or reform of an unaccustomed type," and observes that in England, "the fear of the New Deal, thus criticized, could be regarded as embodying principles long accepted and adapted to meet the new conditions of a later day." He sees no real danger from the left, but he does see the perils in the failure of the center or the right to think in terms of recovery, to work out a degree of stability which is the necessary forerunner of a revival of private business.

"In the sphere of domestic policy," he writes, "the rate of progress will be prejudiced by any further conflict between the forces which would reform and recovery. The introduction of further reforms, similar to the securities act and the securities exchange act, would certainly retard recovery... Unless the reasons for introducing such measures of reform are clear and compelling, it is better that they should be postponed until the tide of trade flows so strongly that confidence will not be impaired."

"The reason for insistence upon the need for confidence is clear," he continues. "Confidence is the breath of life to the heavy industries, and a revival of the heavy industries, which produce durable goods, is the key to trade recovery. The primary aim of the Government is recovery, different policies and proposals—whether measures of inflation, schemes of public works, or housing programs—should be judged primarily in terms of their effect upon recovery. As long as the heavy industries, and their value should be rated accordingly."

"Inflationary proposals of various kinds are advanced on the ground that they will cheapen rates of interest and promote investment. It is not more correct, however, that confidence is needed, but the confidence which causes money to circulate. Excess reserves of the banks already exceed $2,000,000,000 and further inflation will do no good and may do great harm."

He has no faith in pump-priming expenditure because, as he says, the "stimulus applied by the execution of public works produces an effect only so long as the expenditure of public money continues, and no longer." He looks upon a housing program as the most promising and the one needing most urgently to be pushed.

IN GENERAL, he points out, the New Deal is an "experiment" which "challenges" all the cardinal principles of the existing economic system—competition, profit-making, the gold standard—it does not make a final break with any of them save one—the principle of leaving the trade cycle to work its own cure. He remarks that the experiments, made on the grand scale, in industry, agriculture, currency, finance and public works, have been far from successful and have often been conducted with disregard for the effect "upon neighbor nations."

"Is America going to recover?" he asks, and answers, "America is bound to recover, but it has a word of warning against inflationary dangers and stresses the need for precautions 'before the situation gets out of hand.'"

For some months the New Deal has appeared to be moving in the general direction to which this detached observer points, though it is still short of the mark—and the President is still wedded to the idea of pump-priming, as embodied in the pending relief bill.

While the views expressed on this current volume, published by the Macmillan Co. are not altogether new, they seem particularly worthy of attention because they come from an able, experienced authority who views the scene as dispassionately and as free from partisan prejudice as is humanly possible.

Colby to Be Speaker At Jefferson Event Teachers Open Battle For Pay Restoration

Special Dispatch to The Post. University, Va., March 5.—Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State in the cabinet of President Woodrow Wilson, is to deliver the chief address at the Jefferson Day celebration at the University of Virginia, Saturday, April 13.

The exercises commemorating the birth anniversary of the father of the University of Virginia, Thomas Jefferson, will be held in Cabell Hall at 11 a. m. They will be preceded by an academic procession down the lawn from the historic rotunda.

It's A Good Trick—It He Does It. J. Sidney Bernstein, attorney for R. A. Freed & Co., is scheduled to appear in full in these columns tomorrow.—Women's Wear.

Do you remember away back when about the worst thing you could say about a public man was that he was a horse thief? Add similes: As rare as a dangerous prison inmate without a gun. Copyright, 1935, by Associated Newspapers.

Colby to Be Speaker At Jefferson Event Teachers Open Battle For Pay Restoration

Special Dispatch to The Post. University, Va., March 5.—Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State in the cabinet of President Woodrow Wilson, is to deliver the chief address at the Jefferson Day celebration at the University of Virginia, Saturday, April 13.

The exercises commemorating the birth anniversary of the father of the University of Virginia, Thomas Jefferson, will be held in Cabell Hall at 11 a. m. They will be preceded by an academic procession down the lawn from the historic rotunda.

Hagerstown, Md., March 5.—A restoration of the 10 and 15 percent pay cut to school teachers is being sought by teachers of Washington County. A delegation waited upon State Senator Ernest W. Miller, of Washington County, urging him to support the movement.

A bill in the Legislature now would restore half of the salary cut made two years ago. Teachers here have not been paid for two months.

REPRESENTATIVE CHARLES R. ECKERT (Democrat), of Pennsylvania's Twenty-sixth District... has been a reformer all his life... stands 5 feet 10 inches, weighs 160 pounds and is 66 years old... is now holding his first public office and enjoys the experience... "Did anything unusual happen in your campaign, Mr. Eckert?" "People used to tell me I was the poorest politician in the country because I forgot about finding jobs for people and thought in terms of social betterment. Anyhow, my district went for Coolidge by 40,000 a few years ago and I carried it by 20,000."... is championing a graduated tax on District of Columbia real estate... chagrined because he didn't make the District Committee... He confided: "I take my politics seriously. Our progress and hope for the future lies in wise political action. We must study and think about our economic problems."... is a lawyer by profession... married Clara Erbeck in 1908.

Such a large proportion of those who have been pictured by Mr. Robt. have asked for the originals that The Washington Post is saving all these drawings to honor the requests of any future members of "The National Gallery."

No End of Books

Joseph Verner Reed, Coproducer With Macgowan, Recites His Brief Broadway Career.

By Theodore Hall.

"MARRIED, rich, idle and restless at 26"—there, Joseph Verner Reed tells us, he was in 1928. Something had to be done. He listened to family and friends urging him this way and that, until the Wall Street won out and Mr. Reed perceived the virtues of business training as a preparation for life. "I was persuaded of the necessity but not the irony of learning how—as Philip Barry says in 'Holiday'—to live on the income of my income."

And Wall Street did not suit him in the slightest. Months of popping up with errands from the message runners' bench, months of routine in the "cage" (work was finished by 2; there were three hours to fill with cross-word puzzles) left him dulled, mentally starved and rather frenzied. Then he chucked it.

Ten months later a room in the Chanin Building bore the sign: "Macgowan & Reed, Inc., Theatrical Producers," and Dorothy Gish was standing before Kenneth Macgowan and our narrator and pleading with them to produce a play called "Lysistrata." "Not commercial," they said, and turned it down flat.

THE Genesis, Chronicles and Exodus of Joseph Verner Reed as an amateur Broadway producer make a lively and absorbing book. "The Curtain Falls" (Harcourt, Brace, 72 cents) up scenes like a stage manager and writes dialogue as spiritedly as a playwright. There are, to be sure, touches of flamboyance—perhaps not outside the picture, either. "As I sat staring into the night," he writes, "a dim understanding came to me of the tragedy of their lives. The impossibility for them of ever knowing the joys of family life, children, leisure and, possibly, even love—all the things that most poignantly make up life for the rest of us. No, for actors, I saw, there could only be work and a ceaseless striving to perfect their art."

That sort of rhetoric needs cooling from the other direction. Acting is no more than a particularly exhausting way of earning a living. But then Mr. Reed has just been through an hysterical first-night—Mary Ellis, star of "Children of Darkness," had shrieked, "You fiend!" at him and fainted (he had in the doldrums of the painful opening, remarked that her acting was "terrible"—and there had been a pretty how-do-all around. The tragedy of actors—well, here is a book to show you what the people back-stage, high and low, go through.

It was Winthrop Ames, in Mr. Reed's ten weary months of trudging around for a theatrical job, who told him he might as well make use of his fortune, produce plays, and find in short order if he were fitted or not for the theater.

A happy meeting with Kenneth Macgowan, and the partnership began. And the confusion as well: dozens of manuscripts piling in—dozens of hopeful actors in the anteroom—endless conferences with writers—phone calls to Dayton and trips to Milwaukee to engage some desired star—shortage of directors—bills and more bills—the cast's first reading of the play, and the flare-ups of temperament—and all the hubbub and merriment of doing 140 things at once with 140 excitable people. No place for a peace-loving man, I can tell you.

There was the time that the lovely and infinitely capable Jane Cowell faltered in one of the last rehearsals of "Art and Mrs. Bottle," lost her lines completely, and halted dead-silent in mid-stage. Raising her head, she cried: "There's someone here who wishes me evil... I'm fighting an unseen foe... Who is it among you who wishes to destroy me? Let him come forth now!" She drew herself up and stared across the stage. "It is you, my girl, who all the way through 'Twelfth Night' through Boston, Baltimore, and even now, have been wishing me evil!"

"I've only been here a week," replied Katharine Hepburn mildly, fresh on the doorstep of her career

Large Group Entertained By First Lady

Recital in East Room Follows White House Luncheon.

Miss Florence Locke and Reinald Werrenrath Give Program.

Mrs. Roosevelt was hostess at luncheon in the White House yesterday. After the luncheon, the guests adjourned to the East Room, where a recital was given. Miss Florence Locke, daughter of the late Senator Charles McNary, gave as her selection Amy Lowell's delightful "Hedge Island." Mr. Reinald Werrenrath sang several songs, including "The Two Grenadiers," "Lone Dog," and chose as his final number Kipling's well-known "Daddy Deever."

The luncheon table was artistically decorated with centerpieces of yellow roses, jonquils, stocks and maidenhair fern. The guests included Mrs. Munir, wife of the Ambassador of Turkey; Mrs. Hull, wife of the Secretary of State; Mrs. de Bevoise, wife of the Minister of Guatemala; Mrs. Veverka, wife of the Minister of Czechoslovakia; Mrs. Herridge, wife of the Minister of Canada; Senora de Brodovane, wife of the Minister of Paraguay; Mrs. de Bianchi, wife of the Minister of Portugal; Mrs. Closs, wife of the Minister of the Union of South Africa; Mrs. Cummings, wife of the Attorney General; Mrs. Jakes, wife of the Secretary of the Interior; Mrs. William H. King, Mrs. Wallace White, Jr., Mrs. Warren R. Austin, Mrs. F. Ryan Duffy, Mrs. Peter Goelitz, and Mrs. A. Harry Moore.

Also Mrs. A. Harry Moore, Mrs. George L. Radcliffe, Mrs. Harry S. Truman, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. Allard H. Gasque, Mrs. Luther A. Johnson, Mrs. Clarence J. McLeod, Mrs. Lister Hill, Mrs. Samuel B. Hill, Mrs. Earl C. Michener, Senora de Gonzalez-Fernandez, Judge Florence Allen, Miss Mary Anderson, Miss Emma Bugbee, Mrs. C. R. Chambers, Mrs. Vinton Chapin, Mrs. Joseph W. Folk, Mrs. Herbert E. Gaston, Dean Esther Allen Gaw, Mrs. C. D. Hersen, Mrs. Calvary Hoover, Mrs. Sarah Hoppin, Mrs. Louis McHenry Howe, Mrs. Louis Litter, Mrs. Frederick Longfellow, Mrs. Clarence C. McDonough, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Mrs. Francis G. Newland, Mrs. John New Philby, Mrs. George B. Pillsbury, Mrs. Richard Southgate, Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Mrs. Jesse W. Tapp, Mrs. Clark H. Woodward, Mrs. Eileen S. Woodward, Mrs. James Roosevelt, Miss Margaret LeHand and Mrs. Malvina T. Scheider.

South Carolina Party to Honor The Johnstons

State Society Will Hold Governor's Night at the Shoreham.

Gov. Olin D. Johnston, of South Carolina, and Mrs. Johnston will arrive this afternoon to be guests of honor at the Governor's Night party to be given by the South Carolina State Society at the Shoreham Hotel tonight.

The Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Daniel C. Roper and the Postmaster General and Mrs. James A. Farley will be in the receiving line with Gov. and Mrs. Johnston and the president of the South Carolina State Society, Representative James P. Richards. Also receiving will be Senator and Mrs. Ellison D. Smith and Senator and Mrs. James F. Byrnes, as well as the entire delegation in the House of Representatives.

Army and Navy officials from South Carolina also will be in the receiving line, also other officers of the society—Mr. Hugh Phillips, vice president; Mr. Edgar Morris, second vice president; Mr. Ben Fishburne, treasurer; and Mr. Charles E. Jackson, vice president in charge of entertainment.

The receiving line will form at 7 p. m. and supper will be served at 11 p. m.

Sponsors Named For Bal Masque

Partial List for Russian Festival Saturday Is Announced.

Mrs. Mischow, chairman of the sponsors for the Russian Bal Masque to be given Saturday at the Shoreham Hotel, announces a partial list of patronesses: Admiral and Mrs. Mark Bristol, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, Prince and Princess Oupsoff, Mrs. Charles McNary, Mrs. George T. Maye, Mrs. Cantelaine Grant, Mrs. J. J. Mack, and Mrs. Walter A. Tuckerman.

Prizes for the two costumes which best typify characters from the old Russian fairy tales will be awarded by Mr. Eben F. Comins, Mrs. Frederick F. Colby and Mr. Wolcott Wagman.

Mrs. Boris Timchenko, chairman of the Bal Masque committee, sent to New York for a Russian samovar which will be the first prize. The second will be one of characteristic wooden jewel boxes with colorful decorations of the Russian peasants. Russian entertainment, dances, songs and gypsy choruses will feature the program. All proceeds from the carnival will go to the St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox Church of Washington.

Author and His Bride in Capital

MR. AND MRS. CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, Jr., who passed several days at the Shoreham Hotel. This was Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt's first visit since their recent marriage in Arizona. Mr. Vanderbilt is the author of the recently published "Farewell to Fifth Avenue."

OFFICIAL and RESIDENT Society Notes

The Ambassador of Peru, Senor Don Manuel de Freyre Santander, was the ranking guest at the dinner given in the legation last night by the Minister of The Netherlands and Mme. Van Haeften de Wit.

The Ambassador of Poland, Mr. Stanislaw Patek, was the guest in whose honor the Minister of Hungary and Mme. Pelenyi entertained at dinner last night in the legation. Covers were laid for 16 guests.

The Ambassador of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Mme. Trotsky will entertain at the embassy tonight on the occasion of a violin recital by Mr. Efreim Zimbalist.

The Minister of Sweden and Mme. Bostrom entertained at dinner last night in the legation in honor of the Ambassador of Belgium and Countess Van der Straten-Ponthoz and the Undersecretary of State and Mrs. William Phillips. The guests numbered 22.

The Attorney General and Mrs. Homer S. Cummings have as their guest Mrs. Bartow S. Weeks. Mrs. Weeks attended the Women's Press Club dinner last night at the Willard Hotel. She will be here until Friday.

Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, was the ranking guest at the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Karl F.

Baldwin in honor of Mrs. Charles Beach, of Vail, Ariz. The other guests were Mme. Fujii, wife of the consul of the Japanese embassy; Mrs. Ollie James, Mrs. Frederick J. Horne, Mrs. Allen F. McLean, Mrs. Randolph Dickens, Mrs. Frank Bunker, Mrs. Charles Hendley, Mrs. D. H. Buchanan and Mrs. Frank Rutter.

Governor General Frank Murphy of the Philippine Islands, who has been in New York City, will arrive today to pass the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Kimball, of New York, are stopping at the Shoreham Hotel.

Mrs. James R. Deering and Mrs. Vincent Hubbell left yesterday for New York after a short stay at the Shoreham.

Kohlers, of Long Island, Here on Wedding Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Kohler, of Ridgewood Plateau, Long Island, N. Y., are at the Shoreham for a few days while on their wedding trip. Their wedding was solemnized Saturday at Glendale, N. Y. They will go to Virginia from the Capital.

Capt. David R. Nimmer, acting naval attaché at Moscow, and Mrs.

Nimmer, who arrived in New York Sunday aboard the S. S. President Harding, have come to Washington and will make their home at the Martineau for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Carens, of Boston, Mass., are at the Willard.

Capt. Edward V. Freeman has arrived at the Martineau from New York for a stay of several weeks.

Miss Eleanor Carroll, associate editor of the Delineator, who came here to attend the annual dinner of the Women's National Press Club, is staying at the Mayflower for several days before returning to New York.

Miss Irma K. Sipple and Miss Frances Hall, both of Miami, Fla., are at the Willard.

Mr. and Mrs. Bellemere, of Reading, Pa., are at the Willard.

Maj. and Mrs. K. D. Frisby, of Ridgewood, N. J., will spend several weeks at the Martineau.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hamann, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., are at the Willard for a short visit.

Lieut. Henry G. Fisher and Mrs. Fisher are spending a few days at the Martineau before going to their new station at Fort Benning, Ga.

Mr. Alexander Printz, of Cleveland, Ohio, is stopping at the Willard for a few days.

Arrivals from Washington at the St. Regis Hotel in New York include Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hawks, Mrs. Chauncey B. Wightman and Capt. Jack Hodgson.

Miss Gene Ellis Bride of Donelson M. Lake

Word has just been received of the marriage of Miss Gene Isidora Ellis, daughter of Mrs. Edgar Watson Ellis, of Humboldt, Tenn., to Mr. Donelson Martin Lake, of Memphis, Tenn., February 23. After a short wedding trip Mr. Lake and his bride will make their home at 534 South McLean boulevard, Memphis.

TIOGA YARN SHOP
Everything for the Knitter
A complete line of Good Shepherd products. All types of wools, cottons, silks and mixtures, in domestic and imported yarns.
Free instruction. Newest patterns.
401 Kresge Bldg. G St. at 11th

RELIEVE PERIODIC PAIN
THIS medicine eases periodic pain and discomfort. It makes trying days endurable. Mrs. Garvin Burnett of Scott City, Kansas, says: "I had such cramps I could hardly stand on my feet. I had severe headaches, dizziness and blue spells. Your Tablets helped me wonderfully." Sold at all drug stores. Chocolate coated. Trial size only 25 cents.

Lillian E. Polk

Elizabeth Polk Will Be Bride Of Mr. Guest

Daughter of Former U. S. Official Engaged to Polo Star.

An engagement of interest recently announced was that of Miss Elizabeth Sturgis Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyon Polk, to Mr. Raymond Guest, son of Capt. Frederick E. Guest and Mrs. Guest, of Long Island and London, England.

Miss Polk is a graduate of the Brearley School of New York and attended school in Washington when her father was Undersecretary of State and in Paris when he was head of the American delegation to the peace conference. Mr. Polk is a member of the law firm of Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardiner and Reed. He was counselor for the State Department from 1915 to 1919, Acting Secretary of State from 1919 to 1921 and Undersecretary of State during the following year.

Mr. Guest, a leading polo player, was educated at St. George's School in Rhode Island, McGill University, Montreal and Yale University, where he was a member of the Scroll and Key. At Yale he played indoor polo and since then has been an outstanding player with the Optimists, Templeton and other Long Island teams. Two years ago he spent some time in Africa with his brother, Mr. Winston C. Guest, and with his sister, who is now Mrs. Marc Sevastopoulou, of Paris.

Mr. Guest is the grandson of the late Henry Phipps, partner of Andrew Carnegie in the steel industry, and the late Mrs. Phipps. During the Spanish-American War Mr. Guest's mother, the former Miss Amy Phipps, served as a Red Cross nurse. Sharing Capt. Guest's interest in aviation, she sponsored Amelia Earhart's trans-Atlantic flight in 1928 and entertained for her in London.

No date has been selected for the wedding.

Miss Belhumeur Engaged to Wed

G. W. U. Graduate Will Be Bride of Cummings' Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Belhumeur have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lucille Belhumeur, to Mr. Howard Taney Boyd, jr., son of Mrs. Boyd and the late Mr. Howard T. Boyd, who was professor of law at Georgetown University.

The wedding will take place in June after the graduation of Mr. Boyd from the Georgetown Law School.

Miss Belhumeur is a graduate of Georgetown University and of the Academy of the Holy Name at Albany, N. Y. Mr. Boyd is a graduate of the Georgetown Preparatory School and Georgetown University. He is serving as secretary to the Attorney General.

Grace Kessler Is Wed To Raymond E. Grant

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Kessler have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Grace Eutoka Kessler, to Mr. Raymond Edward Grant, at the Church of the Nativity Saturday. The Rev. Benedict Hannemann performed the ceremony in the presence of close friends and members of the two families.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Grant left for a motor trip through the South. They will make their home in Washington.

Child Center Holds Open House Today

Mrs. John Boettiger Heads Reception Group.

The National Child Research Center, 329 Highland place, will hold open house this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. John Boettiger, chairman of the executive board of this nursery school, will receive parents and friends of the institution. She will be assisted by Mrs. Herbert L. Willett, Jr., Mrs. Charles Putnam, Mrs. John E. Dalton, Mrs. Smith W. Brookhart, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Capen.

The Center Shop will open today at the school, where parents may find the newest ideas in progressive toys and self-help clothing. This shop is a venture originated by the parents of children attending the nursery school.

Russian Pianist Gives a Recital In Stewart Home

Mme. Kniagevitch's Program Includes Selections by Borodine, Basilevsky.

Mme. Kniagevitch gave a piano recital Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Mary Stewart on Massachusetts avenue.

Mme. Kniagevitch's reminiscences, included many personal sketches of prominent composers whom she knew well, including Tchaikovsky, Scriabin, Satevoff, her professor in the Moscow Conservatoire, Lhevinne and Zilotti, and others.

Among Russian selections which she played were Borodine's Russian "Mourning From Life for the Czar," Russian folk songs arranged by Basilevsky and "Giant's Gate of Kiev," by Moussorgsky.

Mme. Kniagevitch was born in Siberia, of Russian parents, and received her education at the Moscow Conservatoire under the famous Satevoff, who was also the teacher of Scriabin and Joseph Lhevinne. Her father was governor of a Siberian province, an officer of the Horse Guards and chamberlain to the Czar. As a member of a very prominent family, Mme. Kniagevitch's salon was one of the most famous in Russia. Her parents founded the Medical College for Women in Petrograd and the first university for the people of Moscow.

Despite the liberal views of her family, Mme. Kniagevitch was forced to flee Russia during the revolution, which she did by way of Crimea. She crossed the Black Sea in a sailing boat, going to Batoum, Caucasus, where for a year she worked as a translator with the British administration during the British occupation of Batoum province. Later she made her way to France via Constantinople.

YUBAN COFFEE

The winy, rich essence of four of the finest coffees grown.

Pound 45c

Magruder, Inc.

18th and M Sts. N.W.

Phone District 8250. Estab. 1875

ROOMS

The Imperial Council, Order of the Myrtle Shrine will meet in Washington, June 11 to 13, 1935. To provide suitable accommodations for the large number of visitors who will be in attendance, Almas Temple desires to list all available rooms in private homes that can be made available at that time will register same by addressing at once by mail the Shrine House Committee, 1315 K St. N.W.

Luther Honored At Dinner Given By the Saitos

Small Company Includes Members of Diplomatic, Official Sets.

The Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Saito entertained at dinner last night in the embassy, when the guest of honor was the Ambassador of Germany, Herr Hans Luther. The guests included the Ambassador of Spain and Senora de Calderon, the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, the Minister of Canada and Mrs. Herridge, the Attorney General and Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Joseph W. Byrnes, Senator and Mrs. William H. King, Senator Arthur Capper, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Henry L. Roosevelt, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Joseph Taussig, Capt. and Mrs. Wilson Brown, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Simonds and the members of the Japanese Embassy staff.

Nebraska Society's Dance Honors Dern

Wardman Park Hotel Is the Scene of Reception.

The Secretary of War, Mr. George H. Dern, was the honor guest at the reception and dance given last night by the Nebraska State Society at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Officers of the society are Mr. Thomas W. Lanigan, president; Dr. Tracy F. Tyler, treasurer; Mrs. E. E. Danly, recording secretary; Mrs. Jacques Futrelle, Jr., corresponding secretary; Miss Ruth Sheldon, historian; Miss Blanche Wise, "Mr. Homer Gruenther, publicity, and Mr. Charles C. Caffrey, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Fly to CHICAGO and CALIFORNIA

Travel with America's most experienced air line. Most frequent service to Chicago and the middle west. Fly to California and principal Pacific Coast cities via the direct Mid-Continent Route, 3-mile-a-minute twin-engine planes all the way.

UNITED AIR LINES

75,000,000 MILES EXPERIENCE

Tickets: Washington, ME 5656
Hotels: Travel Bureau; Telegraph Office

DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS

Sold mahogany reproductions after original artists hand made in our shops.
J. V. Bryant, Rep. 3301 45th St. N.W.
Main Showroom and Cabinet Shop
924 N. Charles St., Baltimore, Md.

How Are You Going to Look In That New Spring Frock?

With the coming of spring, off will go the heavy coats. The time to get rid of that waistline and get into the new look is now.

Resolve today to visit Washington's smartest and most effective weight-reducing salon.

FREE CONSULTATION

Phone Dist. 3616—Mr. Smith

Body Building—Scientific Reducing—Examination by a Physician

Day Instruction Individual Evening Classes

Ladies Wise—Slenderize!—at EMILE

HEALTH INSTITUTE

1221 Conn. Ave. Lady Attendants

Sloan's Art Galleries

715 Thirteenth Street

Estate Sale

(by Catalogue)

Valuable Household Adornments to be sold at public auction within our galleries

715 13th Street

Washington, D. C.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 6th, 7th and 8th, 1935, at 2 p. m. each day

Embracing in part large Imperial Spanish Rug, large collection of Paintings by well-known Artists, Oriental Rugs in all sizes, Decorative Lamps, Lowestoft and other China, Chinese Objects of Art and Curio, Antique and Modern Mahogany Furniture, Fireplace Brasses, etc.

from the Estate of General Theodore A. Bingham Security Storage Co. and other sources

Terms Cash C. G. Sloan Co., Inc., Auctioneers.

Washington Cathedral

Wisconsin and Massachusetts Avenues and Woodley Road. ASH WEDNESDAY. Holy Communion..... 7:30 a. m. Morning Prayer, Litany and Benediction..... 8:00 a. m. Confirmation Service for St. Alban's School, with address by the Bishop..... 4:00 p. m.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH LAFAYETTE SQUARE

CLERGY: The Rev. OLIVER J. HART, D.D., Rector The Rev. JAMES F. MADISON, Curate ASH WEDNESDAY 8:00 a. m.—Holy Communion. 11:00 a. m.—Morning Prayer and Sermon by the Rector. 4:45 p. m.—Evening Prayer and Address by the Rector. 8:00 p. m.—Informal Discussion on "The Church in the Modern World" (Parish House) by the Rector. VISITORS WELCOME.

GLOVE CLEANING

ALL KINDS OF GLOVE REPAIRING. Long Gloves Cleaned—25c. Black Gloves Retinted—35c. SOUTHERN STELOS CO. 613 12th St. N.W. NAtl. 8442

AUTOGRAPHS, PRINTS AND BOOKS BOUGHT

JAMES F. MEEGAN, Inc. Importers and Bookellers 1201 Conn. Ave. NAtl. 8440.

Rug Beauty Our Duty

Call Mr. Pyle Nat. 3257-3291-2036 Sanitary Carpet & Rug Cleaning Co. 106 Ind. Ave. N.W.

ARNOLD GALLERIES

1306 G St. N.W. Antique Jewelry, Silver, Sheffield Furniture, Mirrors, Brasses, Art Objects, and Wedding Gifts A Specialty.

IS IT worth while to leave your silverware and valuables at home when you are away, when they can be protected and insured in the vaults of the SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY at such little cost? At $1 per month a case valued at $500 or less may be stored and 25c more for each $250 added value. There are special sections for paintings and art objects also, and wine vaults of proper temperature. Then there are individual storage vaults on the first floor and easily accessible for luggage, files, records, etc., at $2.50 to $5 per month. The SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY, 1140 Fifteenth Street, a safe depository for 45 years. District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured. Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

THE SECURITY STORAGE COMPANY

1140 Fifteenth Street, District 4040.

Wedding gifts, silverware, china, glass art objects packed, moved, stored, shipped and insured.

Silver chests and boxes, non-tarnish tissue and other packing material for sale.

Dismissals Hit Low Pay Class, Study Reveals

Woman's Bureau Reports on Survey of Effect of Marriage Clause.

THE LOWEST - PAID women workers in the Government service are bearing the brunt of the operation of section 213 of the economy act, relating to the employment and dismissal of married persons, according to a preliminary study made by the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor at the request of the National League of Women Voters and other women's organizations.

The study made of the operation of section 213 from June 30, 1932, to February 1, 1935, revealed that 80 per cent of the dismissed employees earned less than $2,000 a year, while only 6 per cent of the dismissals came from the higher paid groups. The Women's Bureau investigators also reported that personal officers observed "a general demoralization among employees as a result of the manifest discriminatory effect of the law."

Numbers Affected. Three-fourths of the dismissals were of women, the Women's Bureau study states. In discussing the numbers affected by operation of section 213, the report states:

"Out of 989,973 employees who might have been affected by section 213 of the economy act either directly or indirectly, only 1,803 are reported to have been actually separated through its application. Most of these persons were dismissed, although 490 resigned chiefly to avoid a dismissal of a husband or wife in another establishment. The separations were heaviest in the Treasury Department, the Veterans' Administration and the Commerce Department, although some persons were affected in so many services as to be included in the general morale of employees."

The governmental study reported a smoldering sense of injustice among the lower paid groups as they are thrust under the guillotine of the law, while the higher paid employees in the married persons category are often immune from its hazards."

Selections Explained. Information gathered indicates that only 6 per cent of the separations occurred among employees earning over $2,500, whereas, over 80 per cent of dismissed employees earned less than $2,000 per annum, the report said.

In both departments heavy inroads into the ranks of the lower paid employees have been made by separations from the service under clause 1 of section 213. As emphasized by several personnel officers, the lower paid groups of employees are less able financially to withstand the necessity of carrying on the support of a family on the meager salary which is too often inadequate for the absolute necessities under present living conditions."

The study disclosed that the number of men and women in the executive branch of the Federal service and the District of Columbia service, who are subject to clause 1 of section 213, aggregate 989,974, whereas 1,803, or less than one-half of 1 per cent, are affected by the section, number 88,001.

Dr. Yung Chan, founder of a hospital at Canton, China, will address the Women's Guild of Mount Pleasant Church at 11 o'clock today. He will speak on "The Present Condition in China." On the same program, Tai Jen, poet of note in his native country, will read English translations of his Chinese classics. Both speakers are engaged in research work at the Rockefeller Foundation.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Medical Society of the District of Columbia will hold its monthly meeting at 11 o'clock today in the Medical Society Building, 1718 M street northwest. Mrs. Adolphus B. Bennett, president, will preside. Mrs. Elmer W. Brandes will speak on "Community Resources." Luncheon will be served in the library after the meeting.

Mrs. Walter B. Fry, first vice president of the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers, is in charge of the city-wide card party to be held tonight in the Roosevelt High School, for the benefit of the general fund of the congress. There will be bridge and bingo tables.

The Richard Stoddard Ewell Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Belle Penn, 2216 Nineteenth street northwest. Mrs. Rosa Lee Wood, president, will preside. After the meeting there will be a social hour.

Noted Art Teacher Would Forbid Children to View Masterpieces

AMBITIOUS parents who seek to teach their young children about Raphael, Michelangelo and other great masters are making a mistake, believes Boris Blai, Russian-born sculptor, who is head of the art department of the Oak Lane school of Temple University. No child under 17 should be permitted to look at works of great artists, says Mr. Blai. Youth should be permitted to express itself artistically without the discouraging comparison of its work with that of masters, he points out. "Children shouldn't be permitted to decide for themselves whether they have talent or not," he said. "Nobody can compete with the child. He is the real artist. He doesn't need to go to museums and see the great masters."

The boy or girl forgets when he sees the great masters that there have been many years before the artist painted the picture that is before the public in the

Hostess Role More Exciting Than College to Jane Holt

When Husband, Long Jobless, Finds Work in Another City, Should Wife, Who Must Work to Help Dependent Parents, Risk Resigning Job to Join Him?

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: Mine is one of those problems dealing with a woman's duty to her parents versus her duty to her husband. The circumstances of my case are these: My husband and I have been married five years. We have no children. I am an only child and my husband is an orphan. Both of us come from the Middle West.

My parents, who were farmer folks, sold their property and came to Washington ten years ago so that I could finish my schooling and get a job with the Government, and because my father's health was failing. They bought a little home in the suburbs just outside the District. When I married they urged us to live with them, which we did. It seemed much the best way, since I don't care for housekeeping, and they welcomed my husband just like a son.

My husband had his own business at that time, but the past three years have brought us great reverses. My husband's business failed and my parents lost practically all their savings, and all they have now is the house. My salary is all that has kept us going, and that has done very well. My husband, after many despondent months, made a good business connection on a salary last November. But it meant he was transferred to a big city, several hundred miles from here. He was so happy to be earning again that he accepted it gladly.

Now, the inevitable tug-of-war has set in. He says it looks like his connection is permanent and that he has a good chance for working up. But with things as they are, it seems almost impossible for me to join him. My parents, as I have said, are dependent on my earnings, and it seems folly for me to give up my job, which I would have to do if I joined him. His salary isn't enough to justify taking on the support of all three of us, and my parents, who are both nearing 70, are getting too old to be moved about.

Also, we have been advised it would be almost impossible for them to sell the house. It would have to go at such a sacrifice that it would mean they would have to take a big loss on the money they invested in it ten years ago. I am not sure, either, that I could find a job in the city where he works.

My husband isn't happy there by himself, and I am not happy here without him. He is a very attractive man and I have sense enough to know that I am running a great risk of losing him if I don't watch my step. Yet this isn't a case where I can just pick up and leave my parents. They married late in life, so I was the child of their middle age, and they have always done everything with an idea of promoting my happiness and success.

What should I do, Miss Haworth? What can I do that will be best for all of us? DEERESS.

Risk Is Justified. DEAR DEERESS: It seems to me this is a plain case of "united we stand and divided we fall." I believe you have no choice but to join your husband now that the permanency of his position seems assured. Not to join him now is to withhold that vote of confidence in his abilities which is wife's most effective means of holding and helping her husband.

Even though you have to set up housekeeping in one room, in order to send back an advertisement to the fur trimmer.

Lessons in Sportsmanship. "I was more surprised by his announcement than I was by his election," she said laughingly. "It took trust to calculate a successful leap from a seat in the lower house of the State Legislature to one in the United States Senate. But I'm used to Rush getting what he goes after."

It was in the campaign, Jane said, that she acquired her most valuable lessons in sportsmanship. By election time, she had learned much about taking it on the chin politically.

"It used to kill me almost when I heard Rush's opponents calling him names—such as radical and red," she reminisced. "But I soon found it was all part of the game, and if one weren't thick-skinned enough to take it, one didn't belong in politics. I made up my mind if Rush could laugh it off, I could, too."

When did Rush decide to appoint her his social hostess in Washington? Jane grinned broadly at that one.

"He must have told everyone else I was coming to Washington with him before he took the trouble to inform me," she said. "I saw the fact mentioned in several papers down home, throughout the campaign and afterward. Friends congratulated me warmly while I blushed inwardly over what I thought must be a horrible mistake. Finally, I mustered up courage enough to ask Rush about it."

"Why, of course you're going with me," he said. "I thought you knew

This BUSINESS of LIVING

When Husband, Long Jobless, Finds Work in Another City, Should Wife, Who Must Work to Help Dependent Parents, Risk Resigning Job to Join Him?

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: Mine is one of those problems dealing with a woman's duty to her parents versus her duty to her husband. The circumstances of my case are these: My husband and I have been married five years. We have no children. I am an only child and my husband is an orphan. Both of us come from the Middle West.

My parents, who were farmer folks, sold their property and came to Washington ten years ago so that I could finish my schooling and get a job with the Government, and because my father's health was failing. They bought a little home in the suburbs just outside the District. When I married they urged us to live with them, which we did. It seemed much the best way, since I don't care for housekeeping, and they welcomed my husband just like a son.

My husband had his own business at that time, but the past three years have brought us great reverses. My husband's business failed and my parents lost practically all their savings, and all they have now is the house. My salary is all that has kept us going, and that has done very well. My husband, after many despondent months, made a good business connection on a salary last November. But it meant he was transferred to a big city, several hundred miles from here. He was so happy to be earning again that he accepted it gladly.

Now, the inevitable tug-of-war has set in. He says it looks like his connection is permanent and that he has a good chance for working up. But with things as they are, it seems almost impossible for me to join him. My parents, as I have said, are dependent on my earnings, and it seems folly for me to give up my job, which I would have to do if I joined him. His salary isn't enough to justify taking on the support of all three of us, and my parents, who are both nearing 70, are getting too old to be moved about.

Also, we have been advised it would be almost impossible for them to sell the house. It would have to go at such a sacrifice that it would mean they would have to take a big loss on the money they invested in it ten years ago. I am not sure, either, that I could find a job in the city where he works.

My husband isn't happy there by himself, and I am not happy here without him. He is a very attractive man and I have sense enough to know that I am running a great risk of losing him if I don't watch my step. Yet this isn't a case where I can just pick up and leave my parents. They married late in life, so I was the child of their middle age, and they have always done everything with an idea of promoting my happiness and success.

What should I do, Miss Haworth? What can I do that will be best for all of us? DEERESS.

Risk Is Justified. DEAR DEERESS: It seems to me this is a plain case of "united we stand and divided we fall." I believe you have no choice but to join your husband now that the permanency of his position seems assured. Not to join him now is to withhold that vote of confidence in his abilities which is wife's most effective means of holding and helping her husband.

Even though you have to set up housekeeping in one room, in order to send back an advertisement to the fur trimmer.

Lessons in Sportsmanship. "I was more surprised by his announcement than I was by his election," she said laughingly. "It took trust to calculate a successful leap from a seat in the lower house of the State Legislature to one in the United States Senate. But I'm used to Rush getting what he goes after."

It was in the campaign, Jane said, that she acquired her most valuable lessons in sportsmanship. By election time, she had learned much about taking it on the chin politically.

"It used to kill me almost when I heard Rush's opponents calling him names—such as radical and red," she reminisced. "But I soon found it was all part of the game, and if one weren't thick-skinned enough to take it, one didn't belong in politics. I made up my mind if Rush could laugh it off, I could, too."

When did Rush decide to appoint her his social hostess in Washington? Jane grinned broadly at that one.

"He must have told everyone else I was coming to Washington with him before he took the trouble to inform me," she said. "I saw the fact mentioned in several papers down home, throughout the campaign and afterward. Friends congratulated me warmly while I blushed inwardly over what I thought must be a horrible mistake. Finally, I mustered up courage enough to ask Rush about it."

"Why, of course you're going with me," he said. "I thought you knew

League in Serious Fight To Elect Woman President

Running Mate in 1936 Is First Objective of Organization.

WHEN THE LEAGUE for a Woman President was first formed several weeks ago no one but its members took it seriously. The hope that the President of the United States within a few years would be a woman was not taken seriously except by the organization, but now the league is receiving a certain amount of respectful consideration throughout the nation.

The founder and president, Miss Lillian D. Rock, reports she has received stacks of letters, post cards and telegrams from persons who are interested in having a woman President. The league is starting out in a small way by having as its aim a woman vice president in 1936. All sorts of questions are being propounded to Miss Rock, but she is ready for them. She has an answer for everything. When someone asked her if the husband of a woman president would have an inferiority complex Miss Rock, according to the Associated Press, said:

"Not he will boast of it for the rest of his life, and will be no more ashamed of it than Amelia Earhart's husband was when she achieved that trail-blazing flight."

Housecleaning First Task. Somebody else asked what a woman President would do when she got in the White House.

"Why, she will do what every good woman does," declared Miss Rock. "She will clean house."

Even the league's head modestly admitted, however, that a woman Chief Executive will fail to bring about the millennium.

"Neither men or women want a millennium, but the League for a Woman President and its program seek to change the American attitude from the question 'why?' to 'why not?' was the way Miss Rock put it."

Two Women Suggested. Experience is certainly no barrier to entering the White House, in Miss Rock's opinion.

"There are women who have just as much experience as men in politics, but leaders, statesmen and Presidents are born, not made," Miss Rock declared.

Two women whom she considers born Presidents, or at least Vice Presidents, are Judge Florence E. Allen, of Ohio, a United States Circuit Judge, and Miss Josephine Roche, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

But Judge Allen and Miss Roche are not the first women to be considered for the Presidency. A few years ago, when a magazine of national circulation conducted a poll on women capable of serving the Nation as Chief Executive, two of those who won top rating were Carrie Chapman Catt and Jane Addams.

Miss Rock may also have Mrs. Catt and Miss Addams in mind. When she announced her preference for Judge Allen and Miss Roche, she said:

"But the choice is not limited to them. There are others under consideration."

She declined to name the others as it would spoil the suspense agitating the Nation.

Woman President "Now Living." However, somewhere in the United States today actually lives the first woman President of this country. Miss Rock is sure of it. She has organized the league to pave the way for this first woman Chief Executive, who undoubtedly will come to be known as the Mother of Her Country.

"That the league means business is proved by the fact that it has gone into State organization. Pearl M. Hart, of the Public Defense of Morals Court in Chicago, is active for the league in Illinois. Mrs.

Oliver Stott Gabriel, honorary president of the National Association of Women Lawyers, plans to return soon to her native Oregon to organize the women there.

Miss Rock herself is a lawyer, and is credited with the organization of the National Association of Women Lawyers. She took an active part in the Roosevelt campaign in 1932.

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

JUDGE FLORENCE E. ALLEN, above, is considered first-rate Presidential timber by the league for a woman President.

According to the league, Miss Josephine Roche, above, would make either a splendid Vice President or President of the United States.

Olive Stott Gabriel, honorary president of the National Association of Women Lawyers, plans to return soon to her native Oregon to organize the women there.

Miss Rock herself is a lawyer, and is credited with the organization of the National Association of Women Lawyers. She took an active part in the Roosevelt campaign in 1932.

Wife Shoppers Prefer Curves In Cyprus Isle

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

There still is a place in the world where fat outlines muscles, where stout women have more admirers than bony ones, according to the Spanish newspaper "Ahorra."

"In Cyprus Island," the Madrid paper records, "customs have changed very little. It still is possible and lawful—in that little island, in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, to buy oneself a wife, born from Turkish parents."

"The average price for a slender girl is around $100—while bids for a corpulent one often run as high as $500. Most buyers are Arabs from Palestine. The down payment must be mentioned in the marriage contract. Should the wife be repudiated, the amount may be reimbursed, according to the terms of the convention."

What Today Means

"Fishes." IF MARCH 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. and from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m. from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m.

It will be good judgment not to be too ready to condemn anyone on this date, regardless of how irritating his action might be. Just keep in mind that there are very few men and women who are not confronted by some worrisome problem. Anything that is a strain upon the nerves or purse string is likely to have a detrimental effect upon a person's disposition. Business may present some puzzling problems on this date and those fortunate enough to find their solution probably will profit handsomely.

Social engagements should be kept, unless something of a serious nature interferes, as frivolous excuses may be resented and a strained friendly relationship is likely to result. Married and engaged couples, as well as those anxious to tread the matrimonial path, will save themselves a lot of trouble if, when the question of finances comes up, it is discussed with absolute frankness, avoiding any misrepresentations. Truthfulness in financial matters is of the utmost importance.

If a woman, and March 6 is your birthday, you probably will devote a great deal of time and thought to pleasure. If you will give as much consideration to the serious side of life, or the problem of making money, you are capable of getting splendid results. With your quick brain, as well as energy, there are no limitations to what you can accomplish. Music, dancing, singing, physical culture, as well as teaching, or the stage, are lines of activity in which you should excel if taken up professionally. Married life has a great deal to offer you, both in the way of happiness, as well as protection from hardship.

The child born on March 6, when it arrives at preparatory school age, may require a rather firm rein to guide its steps in the right direction. It may be ready to kick over the traces if allowed to have its own way in trivial as well as important matters.

If a man, and March 6 is your natal day, you should be very successful if you do not allow a spirit of conviviality enter into your business life. Bear in mind that the fellow who slaps you on the back when you are spending money with a lavish hand, usually is the first to criticize you adversely if you get caught in a financial jam. Selling, brokering, manufacturing, as well as engineering, should offer a man like you excellent money making possibilities.

Successful people born on March 6: Thomas L. Winthrop, merchant; Gerrit Smith, philanthropist; Horatio G. Wright, major general and engineer; Halcyon Skinner, inventor; Isaac H. Bromley, journalist and author.

Strictly Speaking

Try These.

1. Is "sals' foot" properly called KAHFS-foot or KAVZ-foot?
2. What is the preferable pronunciation of obelisk?
3. Is dromedary properly called DRUM-ee-day-ry or DROM-ee-day-ry?
4. Pronounce zulebach.

Check Here.

1. KAHFS-foot.
2. O-BAY-sant or o-BEE-sant.
3. DRUM-ee-day-ry is preferable, but DROM-ee-day-ry is also correct.
4. TSVEE-bahk.

A Best Seller!

THE FUR TRIMMED Dressmaker SUIT

$39.75

—An effective loose finger-tip jacket suit with the easy-to-wear, free swinging lines the Parisian designers so heartily indorsed in their Spring showing. The detachable Regency collar of silky wolf is a luxurious note. The material is an exquisite wool crepe—in navy, of course. Sizes 12 to 20.

Kann's SECOND FLOOR

Quilted Linen!

..on a new ROMNEY*

Sheer for a woman $39.75

Linens, vitally new with quilting and pleating, adds life and a pleasant contrast to one of our nicest, newest Romneys! A novelty sheer for a woman, short-sleeved dress and a long-sleeved jacket in Navy with light blue. Navy with white. Black with pink. Sizes 38 to 44.

Jelleff's 1214-1220 F STREET

*Exclusive with Jelleff's in Washington, D. C.

Capital Scores With a Studio Of Hair Design

Coffure Artist Centers His Creations Around the Individual.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

WASHINGTON—Against this time with a studio of hair design. Here you come with your hair problems and depend on it, you'll be pert and chipper as a lark after a brief consultation with the young proprietor.

This gentleman has made a study of hair designing. And unlike others in his line of work, he centers his creation around the individual and tries to create a coiffure simply for a coiffure. In fact, he considers a hairdresser a failure unless it suits your face, your figure and your personality.

How he works, how he manages to twist mere strands of hair into works of art, is impossible to understand. But, needless to say, there's genius in the tips of his fingers, and that genius leads him on to—miracles.

Take Mrs. Jones, for instance, and Mrs. Smith, pretty-ish women, but hopelessly namby-pamby, and devoid of distinction. They've often wailed, "What can we do with our hair? It's a fright!" And so it was. But after they allowed the young artist to study their faces, their types, curl a bit here, snip a bit there, they're changed morally. After all, a woman may or may not be as old as she looks, but she's definitely as smart as her hairdresser.

And that was the case with Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Smith. They lost their commonplace look, took on new distinction and are what you'd call the personification of chic.

You should bear in mind, though, that this young hairdresser is a very frank person. If he doesn't like the way you wear your hair, he'll tell you so—in no uncertain terms.

But if he does—admits it. He takes only a certain number of clients each day and delights in doing especially fine work for them.

His studio is an interesting place. It's a large room with windows looking directly down on Connecticut avenue. There are three platforms inclosed by curtains—drawn or left open as you prefer. On one of these you have your shampoo—with softened water, mind you—on the other you "set" for the artist. And on the other you may wait beneath the dryer, or have a simple hair cut, a neck trim or whatever you happen to need.

Foot Agony Abolished.

You can walk all day and dance all night if you protect your feet with toe ties. You wouldn't think to see a toe tie that it could do so much to alleviate foot agony and finally abolish it entirely.

But one trial will convince you. It relieves you from leg-ache, bunions, heel blisters, and all manner of ills that beset your feet.

The fact that 2,000,000 of them have already been sold attests their value. And the fact that thousands have been sold in Washington recently must make you realize that here's something worth investigating.

Just remember, if you have the kind of feet you'd like to forget—be sure and try a toe-tie!

For Tired Husbands.

The wife who sees her husband come home dead-tired from the office each day is bound to wish there were some remedy for this fatigue. For she's at home all day and when evening comes she would like to go out to play bridge, or for a short drive, perhaps to a movie. But what can she do? Her conscience won't allow her to urge her husband to leave his easy chair, and yet sitting at home every evening is a bore!

But at last a cure, a means to restore his vim, vigor and pep! It comes in a little bottle, and it's a bath oil! But such a bath oil! It's made from Russian pine needles and gives to the bath that invigorating piney scent!

Once the husband has submerged himself in a tub of warm water spiked with a bit of this, he'll be feeling like a spring morn and ready to "do" the town!

Dress and Jacket Ensemble For Town and Sports Wear

Pattern No. 335.

HERE is the sort of dress and jacket ensemble which does equally well for wear in town or for spectator sports occasions. It is smart and simple and becoming to both slender and mature figures.

The sleeveless dress has drop shoulder armholes slightly covering the shoulders. There is in one with the yoke which is finished at the front with gay little bows. The blouse gathers becomingly below the yoke and at the waistline. The collarless jacket has wide lapels and long sleeves in one with a new yoke effect.

The sizes are 14 to 44. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for the ensemble; 3/4 yard of 39-inch for belt and bows.

West, not having a peek in opponents' hands could not very well lead a diamond and chose the fourth best club. South was pleased to find the nine in his own hand winning the trick and immediately tackled the heart suit. The honor lead was covered by West, and after the Ace in dummy won, a heart was returned and the nine finessed.

This trick was taken by West's ten, perfectly satisfactory. West had returned another heart or even a club. However, West decided to try to beat the contract. From the bidding West figured there was a better chance that South held no honor in spades than not holding the Queen of diamonds. With South marked (albeit incorrectly) with the Queen of diamonds and probably the ten as well, West felt a diamond shift would be hopeless, but he might well defer the contract if he found his partner with the King and Queen of spades.

Therefore, West shifted to a low spade and the ten was played from dummy. East decided not to cover and although this play gave the declarer his third spade trick immediately, it did not cost East anything as South would have topped the Queen with the King and then finessed against West's Jack.

South was pleased with the way things were going and decided to play the hand for the maximum. From West's persistent failure to lead a diamond South marked West with the Ace of that suit. He returned a club, and the King and then led a low club, finessing the Jack. He cashed his two hearts, discarding a spade from dummy, and unblocked the club suit by playing the Ace. A low diamond from South was covered by the King in dummy and West had no choice but to take his Ace. All in all South made three spade tricks, a diamond trick, two club tricks and four heart tricks for five-odd and a top on the board.

Copyright, 1935, by Ely Culbertson.

11,500,000 Women Ignore Nazi Aims

Back-to-Home Movement Is Progressing Slowly.

By the Associated Press.

Berlin.—Two years of Nazi preaching that a woman's place is in the home have meant nothing to 11,500,000 gainfully employed German women and a million others who want jobs.

New census figures—announced with the remark that "some progress has been made in efforts to bring them back into typically womanly pursuits"—show that 4,600,000 are engaged in agricultural work, 2,750,000 in industry, 1,310,000 in business, 419,000 in handicrafts, 1,250,000 in domestic service, and about 900,000 in private service.

The semi-official observation is made, however, that experience in industrial countries demonstrates the unreliability of such female employment and that "of course no one can any longer offer such work to women."

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Irving S. Cutler.

Real and Unreal Indigestion.

Fatigue is a common cause of indigestion, particularly in those in middle life or beyond. Emptying of the stomach is delayed and an insufficient amount of blood finds its way to this important structure, the result being impaired nutrition.

There is the bugaboo of the lowering or "dropped" stomach. Even if it is low it is probably functioning just as efficiently as though it were high. It is now known that the normal stomach may assume a wide variety of positions and may behave quite differently at times.

We must learn to respect our digestive apparatus by providing good food properly prepared and in proper balance, and then, with a minimum of mental let it alone. Most intestinal tracts can handle normal amounts of food without assistance, certainly far better than when loaded with some widely heralded corrective.

Copyright, 1935, by The Chicago Tribune. All rights reserved.

Culbertson on Bridge

Playing for Top.

A casual glance at the North and South hands in today's deal would make a three notrump contract appear most difficult to fulfill and probably impossible without good breaks. But after inspecting the East-West holdings, it is easy to see that with all the declarer's finesses working, three-odd can be made five-odd, despite an Ace, one King and three of the Queens held by opponents and no long suit-holding to promote.

North Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

1341.

♠ A 10 9 5

♥ A 7 4

♦ K J 6 3

♣ J 6 4

♠ K 10 6

♥ A J 6

♦ Q 10 8 7

♣ Q 10 8 7

♠ A 9 8 5

♥ K 7

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

♠ K 7

♥ A 9 4

♦ Q 9 5

♣ A 9 4

Finnan Haddie Is Delectable Dish for Lent

Broiled Fish Is Excellent
Substitute for Bacon at Breakfast.

By Dorothea Duncan.

MAKE IT a point to discover finnan haddie. There will be many meatless breakfasts during Lent, and the bacon enthusiasts will set up a howl unless you can substitute a dish that has a quality about it that spells perfection.

Finnan haddie is haddock, but that doesn't sufficiently describe it. The fish is split open, part of the backbone removed, and the head taken off, then lightly salted and smoked. The result is a delectable dish. The odd name is attributed to the Scotch, for this type of curing had its origin around Finfin, a fishing village near Aberdeen, Scotland.

The family will like its finnan haddie broiled for breakfast. Soak the fish in cold water for three-quarters of an hour, then place it in boiling water for 5 minutes. Do not overcook or overboil the fish as it will become soft. Wipe it dry after removing it from the boiling water; rub oil and lemon juice into the fish and broil for 15 minutes. Serve at once with hot butter sauce. This is a dish that will call for much respect.

Your luncheon and dinner menus will be all the more attractive, too, if finnan haddie is served occasionally. The same broiled finnan haddie, when served with grilled tomatoes, makes a fitting dinner dish.

Creamed finnan haddie with tiny new potatoes covered with melted butter and chopped parsley and a green vegetable will please the family, too. Make the creamed fish by the following directions.

Creamed Finnan Haddie.

1 cup flaked finnan haddie, fresh cooked or canned

1 cup medium white sauce

Salt, pepper, paprika

If the whole fish is used, put it into a baking pan, cover with cold water and after soaking for 20 minutes, bring the water to a boil. Reduce the heat and allow it to simmer for one-half hour. Drain, rinse and with a fork separate the fish into flakes. Canned finnan haddie should be steamed. To one cup of fish, add one cup of medium white sauce. Bring to a boil; season with salt, pepper and paprika and a liberal quantity of paprika.

A bit of onion and green pepper, chopped and cooked in butter until partially tender may be added to the cream sauce if a more highly seasoned dish is desired.

You know how popular tuna fish or salmon salad is, especially when served as the main luncheon dish. Try finnan haddie salad some time. It has that certain something that should make the favored tuna and salmon take a back seat this Lenten season. Here is the way to fix it:

Prepare the finnan haddie by soaking and simmering as you do for creaming. When drained, flake the fish and then chill it until cold. To the fish add one-third as much chopped celery and chopped dill pickle as there is fish. Season with lemon juice and mix lightly with mayonnaise dressing. Chill again and serve the salad in crisp lettuce cups. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and sliced, stuffed olives.

Suggested Dinner Menu for Today.

Clear tomato bouillon

Crisp crackers

Scalloped fish

Buttered kale

Glazed carrots

Corn bread and butter

Chocolate tapioca with top milk

Coffee (Milk for children)

Scalloped Fish.

2 cups cooked fish, fresh or canned

1/2 cup mashed potatoes

2 cups milk

2 tablespoons corn starch

2 hard cooked eggs

2 tablespoons butter

Salt and pepper

1 cup bread crumbs

Heat all the milk, except 1/4 cup, in double boiler; add the corn starch stirred with the remaining cold milk; cook 20 minutes, stirring frequently. Add 1 tablespoon butter, rub smooth the egg yolks and add them, and then the whites after they have been passed through a sieve. Flake the fish, add the potatoes and season with salt and pepper. Oil a baking dish, put in a layer of the fish mixture, cover with sauce, and another layer of fish, then more sauce, and so on until all is used. Cover the top with the bread crumbs, add small bits of butter and bake for 15 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees-400 degrees F.).

Dorothea Duncan will be glad to help you with your culinary problems. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, in care of The Washington Post.

Psychological Problem.

Out of all this study and talk, he has reached one or two interesting conclusions. First, that budgeting is not so much a mathematical problem as it is a psychological one. Second, that budgeting is no good unless it can be made fun in the eyes of a depression chore. Third, that budgeting must not be made dependent upon perfection in husband or wife or system. A budget should have plenty of slack. It should be "relaxed." The budget should be such that it works for the family, instead of making everybody work for it.

One of the most unusual and successful budgeting plans which the editor uncovered in his travels is what he calls the "Four Families Plan." It gets its name from the fact that it originated with a group of four families in an Eastern city. They are close friends and the husbands and wives play bridge together every Saturday night.

The trouble with budgets, they decided, is that they are too iron-bound, and too full of don'ts. They seldom allow anything for fun or for foolish expenditures, and they make you think you have committed an unforgivable crime if your books don't balance.

Two Basic Divisions.

So these four families set out to devise a budgeting system that would promise, at least, to get them things they wanted, instead of keeping them from getting such things. For a week they discussed various plans. It was finally agreed that each family would have to do its own budget in its own way, but that they would all stick to two basic divisions, which they proposed to call necessities and rewards.

Necessities get 70 per cent of the total income. Rewards get 30 per cent.

Now here's their definition of the difference between the two classifications—necessities and rewards. "Necessities" include food, clothing, housing, life insurance, income taxes, installment payments, automobile upkeep and all other fixed expenditures. Everything else is a "reward," which is quite a loose classification, but it works. No provision is made for doctors' bills, which come out of rewards.

Copyright, 1935, by The Chicago Tribune. All rights reserved.

THREE MEN AND DIANA

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

Diana Carmichael's grandmother kept a boarding house down at the end of Mason avenue, where the town trailed out into empty lots and railway fences. Diana slept with her grandmother in the back parlor, and papa's cot was shoved under the sink, in the big closet, which had once been a dressing room. Most of "Gram's" lodgers were old persons, thin, shriveled old men who subsisted on pickles. The young working men seldom stayed long and there were the Cogglies, who paid two dollars for the front room. Diana suffered at being poor. She could not dress as the other girls dressed. She longed, too, to go to college. That ambition was so strong that Diana had no thought left for boys.

MISS BENCHLEY liked praise, but she liked to deserve it, too. She sent for Diana and when Liberty Somers left for an Eastern school, gave Diana the white blouse and pleated skirts Liberty had left behind her.

She recommended Diana to Mrs. Sturgess when Benita needed coaching in arithmetic, and Mrs. Sturgess gladly paid Diana for helping Benita.

But even with these helps, commencement loomed menacingly. The dress, the shoes, the flowers for which a $2 charge was made in pale blue ink on every girl's bill—these were bad enough. But besides there was the year-book—$3 a copy.

Diana's picture was all through it, with the dramatic group, the dance group, the senior officers' group, the basket ball group and finally, or rather to begin with, as class president, yet leader and chairman of the school board of governors.

More Money Needed.

She must have a year book! Some of the girls' fathers were giving liberal donations to the year book, but possibly there would be an assessment all round the graduating class to pay for it. And whence would that come?

More than this class always made a gift to the school—a globe, a set of books, a fountain or chair and made a lesser gift to Miss Benchley, of money, at commencement. Miss Benchley, in her speech of acceptance, usually gave the money to the Convalescent Home, but once she had asked the girls "permission" to donate it to the fire sufferers of Clay Park.

Then there were presents for fellow graduates and for loved teachers. These were small—handkerchiefs, compacts, books; the girls agreed that $1 apiece, or two at most, and no more, should be spent on these gifts. But the graduating class alone numbered more than 30, and there was a staff of 20 teachers at Rutheford.

"Gram, you're coming to see me graduate?"

"Not until June."

"No, and this is only March," Diana laughed.

"Yes, I guess I'll have to get there to see you graduate."

"What would you do if you didn't make Lucas, Diana?" her grandmother presently asked her.

"Oh, but I will. You don't know quite how you know," Diana said confidently, "but you do!"

"But suppose you didn't, dear?"

"What would I do? I'd cry all night!"

"Well, you'll cry overnight about something before you get through," Mrs. Chamberlain said. Diana laughed again.

But she was not happy; underneath all the thrill of last months at the beloved school she felt constant uneasiness. If someone would give her $100! If she could be sure of having the right shoes and the right dress!

Father Not Home.

The spring rush on Easter was past, and the girls of Rutheford settled down to weeks of stern studying; nobody wanted to flunk, and everybody was in imminent danger of it.

Diana's father had not been at home for several weeks. She could not help wondering and hoping sometimes that he would return with good news; a job, money, prospects. It seemed improbable, but Diana was naturally optimistic, and she included him in her dreams.

However, some five or six weeks before graduation, he returned with an unusually depressing story; there was no work anywhere; the race track to which he

Celebrities Seen In Gay Parties At Night Clubs

Amelia Earhart Putnam, W. S. Van Dyke Among Those Spied.

By Kay Ware.

It is understood, by grapevine and other after-dark routes, that a place as good as its celebrities. And almost every place in town has, at one time or another, boasted of entertaining the Dorsey Brothers, radio and stage contribution to jazz.

Other celebrities seen at the Shoreham: Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.; W. S. Van Dyke, movie director; Amelia Earhart Putnam, Senators by the dozen on Monday night—celebrating the New Deal—and a large batch of Young Democrats.

Shoreham's floor show: Wilkins and Meyers, dance team, direct from the Junior Mardi Gras ball; Kathleen Howard, song and dance lady formerly featured with Ted Lewis, and NBC's Harmony Sweethearts, Dick Hunnicutt and Polly Harper.

Cocktail hour in the lounge is musically supplied with Barne and orchestra and the Harmony Sweethearts.

Judging from past events, the Bamboo Room is the place to make the bud of romance bloom. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wesley Frame (Rosalind Kress) slipped and star-gazed, remembering the meeting at Lake Placid, the luckiest moment in their lives.

Maybe it's the bamboo trees. Or the romantic singing of Ernestine Hardner and Fenton Froom.

And, too, cigars will be passed for one of Johnny Slaughter's Orchestra. More of this later.

Heigh-Ho cuts loose and describes dance team as "national!" Meeting all things considered, that they probably are. Anyway, Jane and Adam Digitano—no, it has nothing to do with one's fingers—are whirling around Heigh-Ho's floor at a great rate. It's hard to tell whether they are adagio, ballroom or acrobatic dancers—they combine the qualities of each type in grace and smoothness.

Formerly featured at London's Kit Club, the Lido Venice (Paris, Rome, Sidney and Melbourne (Australia), the Orient—and their next appearance may be either New York's Casino de Paree or Ed Wynne's new show.

Tommy, Jimmy and all the little Dorseys slipped and chatted with Morris Kafka yesterday at the Mayflower Lounge. They were here, were talking shop—and what shop! Bob-Crosby, Bing's brother, was there.

It's Dimitri Maityatnikoff, Troika's xylophonist, seems to be hammering with greater glee lately, it's because he has recently become a daddy. The offspring weighs 7½ pounds and shows an ear for music. It is already learning Russian—utters "quite clearly the word 'da,' which means 'yes' in that tongue. The infant should be, by that token, an optimist.

Special list Dr. and Mrs. McPherson Creighton, Senator Walsh enjoying cutlets de Volaille; Dave Apillon and party toasting with vodka.

Gypsy show has a new member, Marion Venable, who dances Mike Mickeloff is playing a modernistic version of "Hearts and Flowers."

Senior Fernando B. Fornaris is impressed with two things. First, the speed with which he flew from Puerto Rico to Washington; second, the excellence of Hi-Hat's champagne. He hadn't been here for 12 years, and thought it suitable to celebrate his arrival.

Said he, referring to his trip: "Sixteen hours—ah, so short, so marvelous. Why, I think I will go back home tomorrow and come home later in the week! (Twenty-two years ago it took him seven days to make a one-way trip.)

Oscar and Fogan served up another bottle of champagne, and grinned. Surely, why not?

Madrilion's passing orchids to the dance team, Scott and Douglas. The orchid is in the form of a new engagement. They were here a couple of weeks ago, and are returning by demand.

Have you heard the new song, "Paradise Lost"? It was written by Madrilion's Peter Borrone—the music by Augustine Borguno. Ray Donahue sings it in appropriate style.

At last Leon Brusloff's found an accordionist. Dick Bailey plays with the band and specializes in songs. He's doing a version of "Turkey in the Straw" this week.

And now the Dorsey Demons and Masked—But Do You Recognize the Smiles?

These masked ladies are the newest attraction of Childs Gingham Club. They won't give their names—some go under assumed ones, in fact. Anyone a friend of yours?

The Moe Baers meet to play indoor baseball outdoors on the Ellipse. Betting is tremendous—the Earle's doorman laid 12 cents on the Habana Haynes.

Those interested in seeing trumpeteers battle fiddlers may congregate at 2 p. m.

Lotus has a line of Glorified Girls on its floor this week. They have beauty and, according to Al Norton, the M. C. brains.

Featured dance team is De Sirio and Regar from Broadway; Henrietta Lorraine kicks high; Delores Lackro and Helen O'Brien do rhythm taps. The chorus has a cowboy number that proves embarrassing to the patron who gets roused, the finale is in the form of a colorful parade.

Judy Ellington continues to please—more than please, as a matter of fact.

Jockey's show: Jackie Edwards, tap dancer; Acrobatic Dancer Virginia Howard, Al Evans with eccentricities and Kitty Simons with blues.

Added attraction is Rudolph Craig, vocalist, better known as "Sugar."

On March 11 the Mayfair Restaurant will open its doors. It's a cafe of all nations—decorated appropriately. Complete story to follow in this column on Friday.

Mrs. Frank Frost to Play At Universalist Church

Substituting for Dr. Albert W. Harned in the first of the season's Lenten "Musical Meditations" at 8 o'clock this afternoon in the Universalist National Memorial Church, Sixteenth and S streets, Mrs. Frank Akers Frost will play the following program:

Prelude (Kathleen Lucke), "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" (Bach); "Meditation" (Kinder), Pastoral from Sonata No. 1 (Gullstrand); Andante from String Quartet (Debussy), "Traume" (Wagner).

The "Musical Meditations" will be continued Wednesday afternoons throughout Lent. Malton Boyce will be at the organ March 13.

SPECIAL LUNCH 50c

Soup, Spaghetti, Choice of Meat or Fish, Freshening Dessert, Coffee, Tea or Milk

RESTAURANT MACINA

1009 E St. N.W. 2nd Floor
Free Parking at 10th and E

PIERRETTE

Conn. Ave. at Que

Try Our Famous PLANTERS PUNCH

Rendezvous at five

608 9th St. N.W.

ACCENT ON YOUTH!

...in this bar moderne, where exhilarating concoctions are sipped in an atmosphere of exotically beauty, festive gaiety and sophisticated company!

CHARM and GAIETY

Rule in this Setting

DANCING to Sidney's Music at the COCKTAIL HOUR and SUPPER

LUNCHEON in the soft strains of harp and violin

For Reservations, Call Teddy or Darnell 3000

LOUNGE MAYFLOWER

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

608 9th St. N.W.

Mercury Tomorrow Dips Below Freezing

Washingtonians got out their galoshes and umbrellas and sloshed through intermittent drizzles yesterday. The Weather Bureau predicted today would be cloudy, and tomorrow, much colder, with the mercury dipping once more below the freezing point.

There will be little change in the temperature today, the Weather Man said last night. Yesterday's maximum was 62 degrees at 3 p. m., and the minimum 39 at 4 a. m. Rainfall totaled .08 of an inch yesterday.

Civilian of Air Corps Held by U. S. as Forger

Earle C. Wood, 40, a civilian employee of the Army Air Corps, was held to the grand jury yesterday under $2,500 bond when arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Furnace on a charge of obtaining about $1,500 by forging and cashing Government checks.

A resident of the 1300 block of Vermont avenue, Wood was arrested several weeks ago by Secret Service agents after he is said to have obtained funds under false pretenses by using the names of several well-known Army pilots.

DANCING

from Russian American cuisine with dinner $1.50 after 6:30 and Saturday "unknown"

DANCING REVUES

through dinner and supper to 10:30 and 11:30

NO COVER

week nights and Sundays Saturday cover, after 10 p. m. $1.10.

1011 Conn. Ave. Reservations NA. 4141

WILLARD HOTEL

PETE MACIAS

Supper Dancing Nightly at the Healy Smart Place

Flora Entertainment, Alto, Main

1826 Connecticut Avenue Telephone RA. 4-4444

THE LOTUS

14th & N. Y. Ave.

Dinner and supper dancing

Shoreham

CONNECTICUT AVENUE AT CALVERT

Dinner Dances 7:45 to 10

Special Dinner $1.75 including 100% tip and 10% gratuity

Supper Dances 10 to 2 a. m.

Special Dinner $1.50 including 100% tip and 10% gratuity

CALL ROBERT ADAMS 9100

DANCING 7:45 to 2

Shoreham

CONNECTICUT AVENUE AT CALVERT

Dinner Dances 7:45 to 10

Special Dinner $1.75 including 100% tip and 10% gratuity

Supper Dances 10 to 2 a. m.

Special Dinner $1.50 including 100% tip and 10% gratuity

CALL ROBERT ADAMS 9100

Broadway

By Ed Sullivan

Water Under the Bridge.

Arrival of the glamorous Claudette Colbert at the New York train sheds recalls the Broadway theatrical season of 1927, when she was drawing $300 a week at the Biltmore Theater in "The Barker."

Names that were later to become household words were, in 1927, not much costlier than $1,000 a dozen. The theater marquees of Broadway were loaded down with an abundance of names that today are engraved deep on the celluloid and sound tracks of Hollywood.

On West Forty-seventh street, in 1927, the Biltmore Theater heralded the presence of Walter Huston, in "The Barker," a drama of the circus midways. Curiously enough, the romance that was worked out on the stage between Lou, the snake charmer, and Chris, was later to be worked out in real life. Lou, the snake charmer, was Claudette Colbert, Chris was Norman Foster. He won her on the stage and off the stage, but today, the romance has come apart at the seams.

At Daly's Theater, on Fifty-second street, unable to secure a Broadway house, the town hoyden, Mae West, was charming small audiences with her version of "The Wicked Age."

Scan the Broadway skyline of 1927, and he's staggered, as I was when I unfolded the records:

The Shubert Theater, on West Forty-fourth, was tenanted by three shows that season. Irene Dunne and Leon Errol played there in support of Marion Harris in "Yours Truly." Next came the "Padlocks of 1927," the Guinan show, with an unknown hooper named George and a succeeding show that was "My Princess," with Donald Meek and Louis Albern.

Billie Burke and Madge Evans were playing in "The Marquise." Ruby Keeler and Bill Frawley were at the Ritz in "Bye, Bye Bonnie." At the Hopkins Theater you could have seen Fredric March, Reta Lugosi and Linda Watkins in "Devil in the Cheese."

At the Klaw, Alison Skipworth was getting laughs as a sex-crazed old lady, described by one of the characters as a "philanthropic louse." The Guild offered Lunt and Fontaine and Edward G. Robinson in "The Brothers Karlov." Roger Pryor and Benjamen Bondi were smothering in "Saturday's Children." In the stage revival of "Trelawney of the Wells" could be found Otto Kruger, Pauline Lord and O. P. Heggie. Philip M. Ly was at the Playhouse in Jan. Cowls "Road to Rome."

It was the lush era of the theater. The moving pictures, not yet forced into artistic bankruptcy by the necessity for performers who could WALK, had not decimated Broadway.

At the Eltinge, unsigned by the Hollywood tycoons, were Sylvia Sydney, Douglas Montgomery, Chester Morris, Jack La Rue, James Rennie and Barbara Bonardess in Sam Shipman's "Crime." Joe E. Brown was slaving at the Liberty in the musical "Twinkle-Twinkle." Una Merkle and Lynn Overman were on the Mansfield stage in "The Gossipy Sex." Wheeler and Woolsey were at the Ziegfeld in "Rio Rita." Jeanne Eagles and Leslie Howard were down town at the Empire in "Her Cardboard Lover." Pat O'Brien had a small part in "Gertie." Edward Arnold was around the corner in "The Jazz Singer."

THAT WAS 1927, B. C. Before Closures . . . At the National, Ann Harding was playing in "Trial of Mary Dugan." Gregory Ratoff and Frank Morgan were laboring in short-lived "Tenth Avenue." Ruth Etting was warbling in the "Follies." James Cagney, Mary Boland, Osgood Perkins were at the Forrest in "Women Go On Forever." and Jeanette MacDonald was a minor member of the cast of "Yes, Yes, Yvette" at the Sam Harris.

Muni Weisenfreund, better known today as Paul Muni, was just attracting stage attention in "Four Walls" at the Jover Golden, Miriam Hopkins was at the Selwyn in "Garden of Eden." Sidney Blackmer and Walter Connolly were teamed in "The Springboard," and Raymond Guilan, now Gene Raymond, was at the Belmont in "Take My

Childs Gingham Club to Have New Luncheon Feature

Entire Floor Entertainment to be Presented at Noon Hour.

There are no horse chestnut trees in bloom along Pennsylvania avenue just now, of course, but that is all that is missing from the fragrance of the blossoms of the Club Gingham Club Restaurant, 1423 Pennsylvania avenue. A new lunch policy came into effect today and the entire floor entertainment of the dinner and supper shows will be presented from 12:30 to 1:30 p. m. This includes the "Stylists" that smart group of entertainers from the Manhattan Music Hall in New York and the Washington Post's debutantes. The purpose of the debutantes will be to surprise you with the fact that they are pretty society girls who can sing.

The table d'hôte lunch prices range from 40 cents. Incidentally the occasion for this new program is the celebration of the Club's First Birthday anniversary from March 6th, inclusive.

Club Habana

Eleven Nightmen Connecticut Ave.

JUST A SUGGESTION

When you say HI-HAT she knows you know. Leave the rest to the scintillating atmosphere, smart entertainment and the choicest food and finest drinks in town.

No Cover Charge at Any Time

HI-HAT COCKTAIL LOUNGE

AMBASSADOR HOTEL

MARYLAND CLUB Gardens

Sip at the beautiful Crystal Bar

and watch Ernest mix your favorite cocktail . . . Dance to Al Barkley's New Yorkers 10 piece orchestra.

where HOSPITALITY Is A Fine Art!

Phone Hillside 0600

Shoreham

CONNECTICUT AVENUE AT CALVERT

Dinner Dances 7:45 to 10

Special Dinner $1.75 including 100% tip and 10% gratuity

Supper Dances 10 to 2 a. m.

Special Dinner $1.50 including 100% tip and 10% gratuity

CALL ROBERT ADAMS 9100

DANCING 7:45 to 2

Shoreham

Advice," Spencer Tracy was getting raves in "Baby Cyclone" at the Henry Miller.

Broadway, that season, was knee-deep in stardust, but we didn't know it. We were too close to the forest to see the trees. In addition to those I've already named, who were on Broadway stages that season—there were Winnie Lightner, Jack Haley, Alice Brady, Harry Bannister, Genevieve Tobin, Skeets Gallagher, Walter Catlett, Minna Gombell, Hugh O'Connell, Ralph Morgan, Louis Calhern, Frank McHugh, Allyn MacMahon, Chic Sale, Sid Silvers, Veree Teasdale—but why go on and break the hearts of every theatrical manager in town.

HAD IT not been for the arrival of Claudette Colbert in this town of ours, I wouldn't have thought to bring up the subject of 1927 on Broadway.

I remember her very distinctly in "The Barker," which starred Walter Huston. Most of the young men of the village made at least one trip to the Biltmore. I'd like to report that all of us went there because of our interest in the fine art of Mr. Huston, but the shapely figure of Miss Colbert also acted as a box office tonic.

Copyright, 1935.

This establishment now under the management of "UNK GRINDER"

The Jockey Club offers you something really different for an evening's entertainment. Give the world the horse laugh, enjoy yourself at this popular rendezvous.

NO COVER CHARGE

Music by Harmon's Harlem Rhythm Boys

Open 12 A. M. to 2 A. M.

Dancing from 9 to 2.

Stained shirts

MONTY POLLET
Vocalist Extraordinary

JOCKEY CLUB
5TH & FLORIDAMENE

DINE and DANCE at

WASHINGTON'S SMARTEST RESTAURANT AND SUPPER CLUB

Cafe LA PAREE

EMORY DAUGHTERY AND HIS ORCHESTRA

3 SHOWS DAILY 100-745-1200AM

featuring MARIE FOWLER & RAY BECK, Vocalist

LUNCHEON, 35c SAT. 40c DINNER, 75c

NEVER A COVER CHARGE

Res. Phone NATIONAL 9133

HALL'S Restaurant and Garden

(Since 1885)

7th and K Sts. S.W.

Lenten Suggestions

SELECTED SALT WATER OYSTERS

FRIED SCALLOPS, TARTAR SAUCE

IMPERIAL AND DEVEILED CRABS

CRAB FLAKES AU GRATIN, SHRIMP NORFOLK STYLE

SEA FOOD PLATTER 75c

Mixed Drinks Ample Parking Space Telephone Sterling 8580

Popular Brands of Beer Open Sundays Frank Hall, Prop.

Childs Gingham Club

RESTAURANT 1423 Penna. Ave. N. W.

Sensational Feature!

★ WASHINGTON'S MASKED DEBUTANTES

Also a floor entertainment direct from New York.

★ THE THREE STYLISTS

★ JIMMIE SANTMEYER and his CASA RITA BAND with Mary Jo Hamilton and Sammie Richardson

PRICES

Luncheon 40c

Dinner 60c

Mammy Night

Sunday 6 P. M. 'Till 2 A. M.

DANCING AND ENTERTAINMENT 3 Times Daily AT LUNCHEON DINNER & SUPPER No Cover Charge

MARYLAND CLUB Gardens

Sip at the beautiful Crystal Bar

and watch Ernest mix your favorite cocktail . . . Dance to Al Barkley's New Yorkers 10 piece orchestra.

where HOSPITALITY Is A Fine Art!

Phone Hillside 0600

Coal Miners Protest Strike Order; Mellon's Daughter at Tax Hearing

+ Day's Events in Pictures +

Johnson Assails 'Pied Pipers,' Mrs. Blair Calls at White House

Associated Press Photo.
Informal conference. Senator McAdoo, left, of California, and Senator Keyes, New Hampshire, discuss a point at the Senate Finance Committee session.

Associated Press Photo.
WILKES-BARRE, PA.—Part of some 4,000 miners who registered "standing vote" in front of courthouse against court order abrogating anthracite coal miners' strike order.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
HOLLYWOOD.—Fancy trimmings in Easter styles. Dixie Lee, film actress (Mrs. Bing Crosby), exhibits a very smart outfit with chic trimmings and catchy gadgets.

Underwood & Underwood.
"Off the Record." Senator Hendrick Shipstead, standing, whispers to Senator John Bankhead as the Senate Agriculture Committee considered proposed land tenant bill.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
OMAHA, NEBR.—Co-eds greet early sun. These Omaha University dancers took advantage of early spring weather to trip blithely about a park.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
PITTSBURGH, PA.—Mrs. Ailsa Mellon Bruce, daughter of Andrew Mellon, who appeared for defense in Government tax probe of Mellon's stock activities.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
NEW YORK.—As Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA head, attacked Senator Long and Father Coughlin in radio speech. He called them "pied pipers."

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
SAN FRANCISCO.—Dynamite-laden barge. Carrying 800 pounds of dynamite, this caisson used to build Golden Gate bridge, broke away and for six hours imperiled navigation before recapture. A pier of the bridge shows in background.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
NEW YORK.—Ivan Boyeff, Soviet representative, who sees U. S.-Soviet trade difficulties due to American foreign policies.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
OKLAHOMA CITY.—Weary of insistent pleas of job hunters, State Senator Nichols turned tables on his "picketers" with his unique warning sign. He wore it while attending Senate sessions.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.
OMAHA.—Classmates of Alyce Jane McHenry, 10, who underwent operation for inverted stomach, follow her progress. The teacher is pointing to drawing Alyce made in the class.

Harris & Ewing.
J. C. Willever, vice president of Western Union, an important witness before Federal Communications Commission on wire consolidation.

Harris & Ewing.
Emily Newell Blair, chairman of NRA Consumers Advisory Board, calls at White House to discuss problems of her new office. She succeeded the late Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey.

★ WE DELIVER

 MEN, HERE'S WHAT MAKES A WHISKY SMOOTH

The 5-Year-Old Base in This Blend is Heavy-Bodied!

AMPLE strength and rich, mellow smoothness. The first taste is switching thousands. Say "Here's Luck" at your liquor store today and you'll see why!

Here's Luck

Buy Several Bottles at This Low Price

$1.35 Full Pint

NEY Distributing CO.
 903 PENNA AVE., N.W.
 NATIONAL 7951 ★ WE DELIVER

SEA FOOD RESTAURANT
418 12th ST. N.W.

By Edward J. Neil.

atches—Jewelry
Good One Year
And Over 2% edgus for Sale
th St. & Pa. Ave.

and three-quarter miles (straightaway). Purses, $800.
On at 5:15 p.m., winner Mrs. M. J. White's br. g. (7), by second, $125.
Time, 2:19 1/2 (track record).
First race
Elizabetta (27)
Best Boy (23)
High Treas. (17)
met Br. f.	g.	%	St.	Wn.	Jockey	Straight
1	1	4	4	2 1/4	1	Torch	2:18
2	1	4	4	2 1/4	2	Maiden	3:00
3	1	4	4	2 1/4	3	Purse	3:48
4	1	4	4	2 1/4	4	Stamford	4:50
5	1	4	4	2 1/4	5	Oxleyford	7:78
6	1	4	4	2 1/4	6	Shelford	16:28
BRASS MONKEY, $130. $3.50. $2.50. SANDRA, $1.50.
Marked improvement, circled final entering stretch. away. SANDRA momentary up very fast, but tired near the back and came with a rush at end. FLOWEN disused up racing MAYAR into defeat, and tired badly.
Best boy—Stone
Best boy—Kenda
Best boy—Kenda

Charm	Kindacorn	Blood Root	Good
Charm Star	Grainier	St. Moritz	New
Cris	Uncumbered	Cristate	Spec

ated Press
Ridgemoor	Show Boy	Potion
Postscript	The Amused	Quidding
Stone Martin	Little Argo	Transblin

Marceline	109	7 Thistle	11
Emmetta	108	8 North's Water	10
Indian Boy	106	9 Hamilton	10
Barney Section	110	10 Luxand	10
High Water	110	11 K'lucky Moon	11
Pomadic	110
Amorenic

allowance claimed.
Weather, clear, track, slow.

Loans of $200 and Over 2%
Unredeemed Pledges for Sale
Take All Buses 11th St. & Pa. Ave.

[illegible]

Charm	Kindacorn	Blood Root	Good
Charm Star	Grainier	St. Moritz	New
Cris	Uncumbered	Cristate	Spec

Handicappers
Lee	Sixth race	Seventh race	Eighth
Real (24)	Postscript (21)	Show Boy (25)	Transit
Real (25)	S. Knight (21)	The Annard (30)	Folton
Real (15)	S. Knight (17)	Lit. Argo (20)	Marengo
tion Post
alors	Stone Martin	The Annard	Marengo
	Roma Knight	Show Boy	Quint
	Mine Careful	Mollie	Yellow
ciated Press
TVS	Ridgmore	Show Boy	Folton
re	Postscript	The Annard	Quint
	Stone Martin	Lit. Argo	Transit

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13</

LOANS HORNING

OFF. WASHINGTON AIRPORT

Diamonds-Watches-Jewelry

All Tickets Good One Year

Loans of $200 and Over 2%

Unredeemed Pledges for Sale

Take All Buses 11th St. & Th. Arc.

	6	5	4	3	2	1st.	Pin.	Jockeys	Straiten
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	Lynch	$2.15
2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	MacFar	2.00
3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	Cumre	2.00
4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	C. Stanford	4.50
5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	O'Malley	6.75
6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	Shelton	16.95

—BRASS MONKEY, $6.30, $3.50, $2.50; KANDRA, $4.20, marked improvement, circled field entering stretch, away. SANDRA moved up very fast, but tired near the bar back and came with a run to end. FLOWERY dis- used up racing MATAR into defeat, and tired badly.

Best bet—Stone Best Non Spin Non Meloria
 Best bet—Kindra

consensus has been compiled by The Post from the selections of handicappers of the turf. The figures show how the selections were

Consensus of Leading Handicappers

Fourth race Up (21) R. R. R. (21) J. Round (12)	Third race Kindacorn (32) Unseen (24) War Pledge (11)	Fifth race Blood root (40) St. Morris (23) Cristate (14)	Sixth race Postscript (21) E. Knight (21) B. Martin (19)	Seventh race Show Boy (28) The Anased (20) Little Argo (20)	Eighth race Transit (28) Polton (20) Marsden (19)
---	---	--	--	---	---

Bennings, Washington Post

Sans Froid Onapito Kindacorn	Cristate Blood Root St. Morris	Saluba New Deal Speedmore	Stone Martin Some Knight Miss Careful	The Anased Show Boy Martin	Marsden Guiding Yellow
---	---	--	--	---	-------------------------------------

Louisville Times, Associated Press

Kindacorn Grainger Unnumbered	Blood Root St. Morris Cristate	Good Harvest New Deal Speedmore	Ridgmore Postscript Stone Martin	Show Boy The Anased Little Argo	Polton Guiding Transbri
--	---	--	---	--	--------------------------------------

FOURTH RACE—Oaklawn course; 8500 claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1 Protector 111 5 Justice B. 1
2 Kinca Minstrel 111 5 Just B. Ideal 1
3 Black Peter 111 5 Buay Grain 1
4 Court 107 1

FIFTH RACE—Oaklawn course; 8500; the Southern Club; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1 Scribe 108 5 Bonnie Marita 1
2 Vote Boy 108 5 Twine Name 1
3 Lord 108 5 Pa C 1
4 Casseler Crane 108 5 Jassie Dear 1
5 Lord 107 5 Pa C 1
6 Dixie 107 5

SIXTH RACE—Oaklawn course; 8500; claiming; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1 Whisking 111 4 Norman D. 1
2 Court 111 4 Fort 1
3 Galop 110 4 Farnit 1
4 North Water 108 5 and one-half miles; Purse, $400; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1 Marceline B. 108 5 Thistle Guy 1
2 Indian Boy 108 5 North Water 1
3 Indian Boy 108 5 North Water 1
4 French Section 116 10 Texano 1
5 French Section 116 10 Texano 1
6 Pommette 110 5 Kucky Moon 1
7 French Section 116 10 Texano 1

Weather, clear; track, slow.

paid, $1,000; claimant, for 4-year-old and unward.
 Jan. 8, 192 (Dudley), ... $2.00 24.20 17.00
 J. L. 197 (New), ... 46.30 13.00
 Wendel, 102 (Kum), ... 3.60
 Publication, Ono, Source Circle, Alton-ment, Paule Alton, De Grange, Wis-
 Threda, Ceresa, Pertinacious also ran.
 Time, 1:47 1-5.

Mount Vernon Checks Miller Five in A. U. Tourney Feature

Losers' Rally Is Futile in Court Duel

First Baptists Defeat Y. M. C. A.; Maryland A. C. Is Victor.

THREE more unlimited teams passed out of the championship picture last night in the unlimited division of the District A. U. basketball tournament under the sponsorship of The Washington Post at Tech High School's gym.

In the most thrilling game of the tournament thus far, Mount Vernon's team beat off a last-minute uprising by Miller Furniture to win, 37 to 36.

First Baptist took a hard-fought contest from Y. M. C. A., 28-22, and Maryland Athletic Club showed surprising strength in turning back Parthen's Comets, 26 to 21.

Instead of winning by a large margin, Mount Vernon's cagers managed to score by the skin of their teeth because the Churchmen started coasting home with five minutes to go and the score reading, 35 to 23, in their favor.

Coasting Almost Costly. This coasting almost proved tragic, as the Miller boys started cracking away with reckless abandon at the hoop from all angles and distances of the spacious Tech court. The result was that with 50 seconds to go, Miller Furniture had pulled up to 35 to 34.

With the timekeeper nervously fingering his whistle, Bill Fry, fast-moving forward, looped in a goal 15 feet from the basket to put Mount Vernon ahead, 37 to 34. Someone fouled Kollus, and the former Business High star threw two free throws. The whistle blew just as Referee Enright tossed up the ball at center.

The game was fought in ding-dong fashion in the first half. Miller Furniture put on steam and shot ahead, 18 to 17, at the turn. Mount Vernon grew stronger in the second period, as Fry, Snyder and Albert popped away for successful goals.

Eastern Five Off For Tournaments

Continued from Page 17.

the ankle injuries of Messrs. Buddy Shaner and Lavelle Dean, however, and top-speed was the order of the afternoon for only a comparatively short time.

Figures compiled by Manager Charlie Dreelin show Eastern has scored an average of 39 points per game in 24 contests. Of the two dozen conflicts, Eastern dropped only one, a 17-16 loss to the Catholic University Freshmen, one to the Navy Plebes, and one to Washington and Lee High.

The latter game was played chiefly by the second team. Coach Guyon was not particularly alarmed by any of the defeats and Eastern was not at full strength in three of them. The chief philosophy is to scorn the importance of all games outside the interhigh series. In fact, the Guyon viewpoint is that "it is better to lose to a team to lose one in a while."

Against as strong opposition as could be raked together in this section, Dean tallied the huge total of 270 points in 23 games for an average of 11.7 points per contest. Guy Edelen, another all-high star, scored an average of 7.1 per game, with 164 points, over 100 points behind his leader. His average was 7.1 points for 23 games. With the exception of 5 out of 6 foul shots, Dean was also the team's best bet from the 15-foot line. In 54 tries, he made good on 30 of them.

Individual scoring for the first 12 men on the squad follows:

Player	Points	Rebounds	Assists
Dean, C.	270	45	12
Edelen, G.	164	35	10
Shelley, F.	145	30	8
Edwards, J.	135	25	7
Holliday, C.	125	20	6
Buchholz, F.	115	15	5
Miller, E.	105	10	4
Edwards, J.	95	10	3
Hebrew, J.	85	10	2
Abernethy, J.	75	10	1

With Buscher Back, Terps See Victory

Strengthened by the return of Bernie Buscher, star forward who has been on the shelf for several weeks with an injured knee, Maryland's dribblers met Johns Hopkins tonight at Ritchie Coliseum in the semi-final game of the season.

With Buscher at his former post, and counting on Waters, Willis and the others to do better than they did against St. John's last Saturday, the Terrapins have an even chance against the Blue Jays. Hopkins lost the first game between the two, played in Baltimore.

Maryland's complete line-up will be Waters and Buscher, forwards; Willis, center; Andorka and Keller, guards.

Thomas and Shively Head W. & L. Matmen

Lexington, Va., March 5 (AP)—Rowland Thomas, of Baltimore, and Glenn Shively, of Chambersburg, Pa., were elected co-captains of Washington and Lee's varsity wrestling team for the next season.

Golden Gloves Sure to Hatch Heavyweight Champ Material

By Paul Gallico.

A Special Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 5.—There is no doubt that some day the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournaments will hatch a heavyweight champion. There is already a formidable contender in Joe Louis, who comes from Detroit. The Golden Gloves thing has grown amazingly. Boys fight annually under the sign of the 14-karat laurels in New York, in Chicago (which extends apparently from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, according to their interpretation), in Cleveland, Detroit and Boston. It is amazing how many big guys are prepared to listen to that siren line—"Hey, you're a great big fellow. You ought to be able to fight!"

Last night at the New York Golden Gloves semifinals, 16 sub-novice heavyweights turned up to begin careers which might take them into strange by-paths. They were 16 of the biggest men I have ever seen under one roof. And they were all as green as dock slugs.

The sub-novice class is confined to young men who have never boxed in ring competition before, and who have an idea they can fight. And as I say, 16 of them showed up for the semifinals. Eight of them shortly discovered that they had been mistaken.

I always wonder what makes a heavyweight decide to take up the career, especially in an amateur way. Heavyweights, you know, are big. Proportionately, a heavyweight accepting a punch on the bugle from another heavyweight is much more pained than a flyweight being rapped by a brother insect.

Now this is the typical success story, the loser getting up off the floor to win and perseverance always succeeds and all that sort of thing, but what I want to know is where these boys get the stuff and what kind of stuff it is that keeps them in there enduring those dreadful sessions of assault and battery.

Copyright, 1935, by the Chicago Tribune. N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

Boettner Heads Frostburg Ball Club

Maryland Players to Offer Strong Team in Interstate League.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE POST.

FROSTBURG, Md., March 5.—Fred W. Boettner was elected president and Russell (Mike) Diehl was reappointed manager for the third consecutive year of the Frostburg Demons of the Interstate Baseball League, it was announced last night.

With the support of city authorities and business men, assured, Frostburg is prepared to organize one of the strongest teams that has represented that city since it entered the Interstate League in 1933. Other officials elected were John W. Keller, former police commissioner, vice president; Earl James, business manager; A. P. Johnson, recording secretary; Herbert Griffith, city treasurer, financial secretary, and J. C. Koegele, treasurer.

The 1934 outfit won the first-half championship race and lost out to Potomac Edison in the postseason series for the league championship. Earl W. Diehl, who piloted the Ellerslie Cardinals to the championship of the Potomac Valley League last season, will lead the Corriaville Hustlers this season, and his first step toward giving the Corgs a winner was the signing of Johnny Mullany, night clerk at the Windward Hotel, to post as starting pitcher and coach of pitchers and catchers.

Five clubs, namely, American Legion, managed by Hubert Radcliffe; Frostburg Demons, Corriaville Hustlers, and Potomac Edison are already in line for the 1935 race of the Interstate League. Guy Buskey will likely be retained as P. E. manager, and Joe Barley, who played for P. E. last year, has been favorably mentioned in connection with the management of the Celanese club. It is understood that the Cumberland F. O. Eagles will retain their franchise. If the Baltimore & Ohio and Centerville are planning to stay in the league, they have failed to inform President Woodward Dyche, but a six-team circuit seems assured.

Melillo in Uniform.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Occa Melillo, the ablest defensive man on the Browns' infield, was in uniform for the first time today as the St. Louis American League Club began its second week of practice.

Fan Who Foretold Cards' Fate In Crucial Games Found Dead

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ASTORIA, N. Y., March 5.—James J. Sheridan, an Albany cigar salesman, once the principal in what was called the strange story in all the history of baseball, was found hanged in the basement of his home today. The coroner gave a verdict of suicide.

On September 9, 1930, Sheridan began sending Gaby Street, Cardinal manager, daily telegrams picking in advance the fate of the Cardinals. His first telegram said "Do not worry, you will lose today, regardless of your pitching choice; you will win the next three."

The Cardinals, in third place, were striving for the lead. On September 9 they lost to the Giants, 2 to 1, then won the next three games. Sheridan telegraphed "Everything O. K. You will win two and lose one." The Cardinals did. Sheridan continued daily telegrams that always called the trick. The Cardinals considered him good luck, but didn't know who this mystery man was. One day the usual telegram did not arrive and the Cards had the blues and lost.

College Cagers To Compete In Tourney

A. A. U. Court Competition to Feature Appearance of Eagle Five.

COLLEGE color will be injected into tonight's District A. A. U. basketball ball championship games under the sponsorship of The Washington Post at Tech High School's gym.

An unlimited team, styled the Eagles of Wesley Heights, which is in reality American University's basketball outfit, will clash with Rinaldi Tailors at 8:30 o'clock in what looms as the feature battle on the program.

While many college and prep school stars will display their wares in the big tournament, the Eagles will be the only college entering an entire varsity team, and indications are that the boys will go far toward the championship.

Two more games also are scheduled. Two 145-pound challengers, Twin Oaks and Ehrlichs Poultry, will meet in the opener at 7:30. In the night finale the Jewish Community Center team will be feared to engage Port Washington, at 9:30.

Three Games Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night Northeast Boys' Club will clash with Port Washington in the 145-pound division. Stewart's Pharmacy will face the Silver Spring Merchants, and Fort Hunt C. C. will take on George's Radio. The latter two are unlimited teams.

Basket Ball Chairman Winfree Johnson announces a gala program for Friday night. Bovoello Plumbers, 130-pound champions, will step into the 145-pound division to meet Agriculture Flashes, and in the same group St. Martin's Boasting Two Tech High stars, will meet Democratic Club of Falls Church.

The Eagles' line-up tonight will be picked from Bob Good, Ed Porter, Ralph Winslow, Herbert Fuchs, Bob Hill, Howard Thompson, Walter Edwards, Robert Taylor, Bill Leith and Stafford Cassell. Rinaldi is banking heavily on such flashes as Haggen, Henny, Canella, Clark, Peruzzi and Campbell.

Jim McNamara, J. C. C. coach, claims he has his best team in years. Jack Fraiman is a former City College of New York star, and Sam Zola, Lester Singman, Milt Gerber, and Ray Brown, and Milton Jacobson are accomplished players. Fort Washington has two aces in Urinak and West.

List of eligibles in the 145-pound class, as announced by Registrar Joe Aronoff, follows:

Agriculture Flashes—Harry Weisel, Dan Kessler, John Ponder, Ed Noble, Bruce Kessler, Ray Brown, Bill Becker, Hayes, Jim Reed, Everett Bratcher, Ben Bohn, Jim Brown, Tom Pollock, Dick Sinclair, Lou Scheele, Angelo Wallace, Michael Cavanaugh, Jim Holloran, Tony Lofano, Andy Vania, George Schmitt, and John Fritzsche.

Young Democratic Club—Lytton Gibson, George Leubahn, Ed Pierce, Clarence Fox, Malcolm Martin, Ray Martin, Homer Herman, Henri Pierce, Frank Good, George Adams, and John Fritzsche.

Northeast Boys Club—Edwin James, George Leubahn, Ed Pierce, Clarence Fox, Malcolm Martin, Ray Martin, Homer Herman, Henri Pierce, Frank Good, George Adams, and John Fritzsche.

Arriving here with the younger Borries was Edward Sullivan, also of Louisville, who is said to be a great athlete, too. Also a three-letter man, he and Borries have teamed together for four years in high school.

Greeting the Kentuckians at the Cockran-Bryan school for the short term was another brilliant high school player, Harold Hansen, of Southern High School, of Philadelphia. Hansen, the largest man ever to prep at Cockran-Bryan, towers over all the students.

West Virginia School Sponsors Mat Tourney

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE POST.

Morgantown, W. Va., March 5.—The board of appeals of the West Virginia High School Athletic Association has approved the holding of an annual State high school wrestling tournament under the auspices of West Virginia University, and the university will inaugurate formally this new high school sport by a tournament to be held in the Field House here in March, 1935.

St. Johns Sophs Win.

Fresh. G. P. P. 108.00. Soph. G. P. P. 108.00. Junior G. P. P. 108.00. Senior G. P. P. 108.00.

Cumberland K. of P. Beat Firemen, 36-23

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE POST.

Cumberland, Md., March 5.—The Cumberland Knights of Pythias scored a 36-23 win over the Goodwill Firemen of Lonaconing in an Interstate Basketball League contest at the State Armory.

The Knights won the season's series from the Goodwill, three games to one.

College Cagers To Compete In Tourney

A. A. U. Court Competition to Feature Appearance of Eagle Five.

COLLEGE color will be injected into tonight's District A. A. U. basketball ball championship games under the sponsorship of The Washington Post at Tech High School's gym.

An unlimited team, styled the Eagles of Wesley Heights, which is in reality American University's basketball outfit, will clash with Rinaldi Tailors at 8:30 o'clock in what looms as the feature battle on the program.

While many college and prep school stars will display their wares in the big tournament, the Eagles will be the only college entering an entire varsity team, and indications are that the boys will go far toward the championship.

Two more games also are scheduled. Two 145-pound challengers, Twin Oaks and Ehrlichs Poultry, will meet in the opener at 7:30. In the night finale the Jewish Community Center team will be feared to engage Port Washington, at 9:30.

Three Games Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night Northeast Boys' Club will clash with Port Washington in the 145-pound division. Stewart's Pharmacy will face the Silver Spring Merchants, and Fort Hunt C. C. will take on George's Radio. The latter two are unlimited teams.

Basket Ball Chairman Winfree Johnson announces a gala program for Friday night. Bovoello Plumbers, 130-pound champions, will step into the 145-pound division to meet Agriculture Flashes, and in the same group St. Martin's Boasting Two Tech High stars, will meet Democratic Club of Falls Church.

The Eagles' line-up tonight will be picked from Bob Good, Ed Porter, Ralph Winslow, Herbert Fuchs, Bob Hill, Howard Thompson, Walter Edwards, Robert Taylor, Bill Leith and Stafford Cassell. Rinaldi is banking heavily on such flashes as Haggen, Henny, Canella, Clark, Peruzzi and Campbell.

Jim McNamara, J. C. C. coach, claims he has his best team in years. Jack Fraiman is a former City College of New York star, and Sam Zola, Lester Singman, Milt Gerber, and Ray Brown, and Milton Jacobson are accomplished players. Fort Washington has two aces in Urinak and West.

List of eligibles in the 145-pound class, as announced by Registrar Joe Aronoff, follows:

Agriculture Flashes—Harry Weisel, Dan Kessler, John Ponder, Ed Noble, Bruce Kessler, Ray Brown, Bill Becker, Hayes, Jim Reed, Everett Bratcher, Ben Bohn, Jim Brown, Tom Pollock, Dick Sinclair, Lou Scheele, Angelo Wallace, Michael Cavanaugh, Jim Holloran, Tony Lofano, Andy Vania, George Schmitt, and John Fritzsche.

Young Democratic Club—Lytton Gibson, George Leubahn, Ed Pierce, Clarence Fox, Malcolm Martin, Ray Martin, Homer Herman, Henri Pierce, Frank Good, George Adams, and John Fritzsche.

Northeast Boys Club—Edwin James, George Leubahn, Ed Pierce, Clarence Fox, Malcolm Martin, Ray Martin, Homer Herman, Henri Pierce, Frank Good, George Adams, and John Fritzsche.

Arriving here with the younger Borries was Edward Sullivan, also of Louisville, who is said to be a great athlete, too. Also a three-letter man, he and Borries have teamed together for four years in high school.

Greeting the Kentuckians at the Cockran-Bryan school for the short term was another brilliant high school player, Harold Hansen, of Southern High School, of Philadelphia. Hansen, the largest man ever to prep at Cockran-Bryan, towers over all the students.

West Virginia School Sponsors Mat Tourney

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE POST.

Morgantown, W. Va., March 5.—The board of appeals of the West Virginia High School Athletic Association has approved the holding of an annual State high school wrestling tournament under the auspices of West Virginia University, and the university will inaugurate formally this new high school sport by a tournament to be held in the Field House here in March, 1935.

St. Johns Sophs Win.

Fresh. G. P. P. 108.00. Soph. G. P. P. 108.00. Junior G. P. P. 108.00. Senior G. P. P. 108.00.

Cumberland K. of P. Beat Firemen, 36-23

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE POST.

Cumberland, Md., March 5.—The Cumberland Knights of Pythias scored a 36-23 win over the Goodwill Firemen of Lonaconing in an Interstate Basketball League contest at the State Armory.

The Knights won the season's series from the Goodwill, three games to one.

Harmony Reigns as Ruth Meets New Leader

Babe Ruth and Bill McKechnie immediately put their heads together when the former Yankee slugger reached the Boston Braves training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., and met his new manager. What's the topic of conversation? That's easy. Baseball as played in the National League.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO. Babe Ruth and Bill McKechnie immediately put their heads together when the former Yankee slugger reached the Boston Braves training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., and met his new manager. What's the topic of conversation? That's easy. Baseball as played in the National League.

Anent Washington's Own Lefty, Virginia Ahead In Bowling Honors

Continued from Page 17.

department, the starting of the presses coming to his ears meant that he might be first out with the papers, so Lefty yelled as he went out the door, "If I think of any other terms, I'll be back."

The door opened a moment later. Lefty's head appeared, and he bellowed, "Walter, put down St. Joseph's and Majestic Radio. I almost forgot them." And he was gone again.

A write-up about Lefty McIntire, the manager says, "No." So Lefty asks the manager of the other team if he would like to have a pitcher. Anything to pitch, that was Lefty's motto. So Lefty's teammates become his foes. He burns them in with that left arm. There is a lot of wild swinging at Lefty's curves. The game is over. Most of the players leave. Two or three substitutes stay to knock out flies and Lefty joins them. The 12 o'clock whistle blows.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Dent Another Glove.

And so Lefty's shoots dent another glove. During the last few innings, Lefty pitches with one eye on the South Elipse diamond. Big game over there. Big crowd. Wonder if they need a pitcher. This opposition over here is too soft. One more strike over on this guy and this game's over. There it goes. A Babe Ruth model bat whiffs the air.

Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty looks toward Diamond No. 1. Looks like a ball game is going to start. Lefty walks toward the field. Two pitchers are warming up. Lefty takes his place beside them. Could he toss a couple? The pitchers don't mind. Lefty heaves a couple of pitches that thunder into the catcher's mitt. The catcher runs over to his man. Lefty takes his place beside them. The lefthanded fellow, who ever he is, has a lot of stuff. Why not ask him to pitch? Would Lefty pitch? Sure.

Lefty a great career as a professional hurler.

The high spot of his career was with Milwaukee in the American Association. He pitched and won, 4 to 3, in 11 innings, in a duel with Lefty Gomez, now with the Yankees. Three days later, Lefty was down at Chesapeake Beach telling his gang about it. He had jumped the club.

Lefty literally burned up the Blue Ridge League and other nearby circuits. He was pitching for Martinsburg a few years back. He had worked a nine-inning game the day before. He had friends in the stands who had driven up from Washington. He was granted permission to pitch the first game of a double-header after much begging. He won. And he pitched the second and won.

Never Had Sore Arm.

What's remarkable is the fact that Lefty never had a sore arm in his life. Had Lefty been imbued with the same desire for money that he had for pitching, he would be in comfortable circumstances now. But Lefty is still the Lefty of old.

He takes great delight in telling of pitching a no-hit, no-run game for some punk team last year and then going over on the opposite diamond and knocking a homer with the bases full for the Washington Lawyers who were playing the Alexandria Lawyers in a picnic game.

Lefty just came in again. "Hey Walter, I forgot the Front Royal All-Stars. St. Mary's Celtics, Pig 'n' Whistle, Bergman's All-Stars, Palace A. C. Ku Klux Klan, Capitol Heights, Smallwood School, New York Avenue Playgrounds, Hoover A. C. Williams All-Stars and Phillips Sausage Co. If I think of any more, I'll call you up."

And Lefty was gone.

7 Teams Will Compete In Dixie Pool Tourney

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE POST.

Durham, N. C., March 5.—Seven teams, totalling about 80 performers, will compete in the fifth annual Southern Conference swimming meet to be held at Duke Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Institutions sending teams to this year's aquatic affair are Duke's hosts and defending champions; Virginia, 1933 champs and tied for second last year; Washington and Lee, tied with the Cavaliers for runner-up honors in 1934; Maryland, N. C. State, Clemson and V. P. I.

4 Cage Teams to Play For Regional Honors

KEYSER, W. Va., March 5.—Eastern West Virginia's four sectional tournament winners—Masontown, Davis, Martinsburg and Keyser—will contest for the championship of region No. 4 next Saturday at Potomac State College gym here.

Post Mortems . . .

Babe Ruth was neither pitcher, first baseman, nor outfielder when he broke into baseball . . . he was water boy for the varsity at St. Mary's Industrial School . . . University of Richmond and George Washington basketball ball teams scored 847 points during the season just ended . . . Jockey G. Watson is listed as 15 years old, but the prevailing opinion is that he is only 13 years of age . . . Claude Rippy, who has sworn off golf umpteen times during the past several years, is practicing as often as possible for the approaching public links tourney . . . he also is seeking the assistant manager's berth at Rock Creek . . . Henry (Popeye) Irving, favorite of local fistic fans, is working in the Department of Commerce . . . Auburn-haired Florence Gordon, ten-pin star of the

Stocks Decline To New Lows For This Year

Volume of Trading Rises in Selling to 899,200 Shares.

New York, March 5.—Stocks snapped out of their recent coma today to meet substantial offerings on a reaction which toppled the leaders 1 to 4 points. Volume was accelerated on the decline, though still not heavy, at 899,200 shares. The Associated Press average for 60 stocks lost 12 points at 363.3, a new 1935 low, and the three divisions went down in the compilation, industrials, rails and utilities. Likewise each made a new bottom for the current year.

Wall Street quarters had varying explanations of the day's declines, but none of them appeared to be advanced with great assurance. Uncertainties regarding the foreign value of the dollar, uneasiness over failure of the Administration and Congress to get together on a coherent program and discouraged selling by "bird holders" were mentioned most often as likely influences.

Celanese was a weak feature in the specialties with a drop of 4 1/2 points, to 24 1/2. Earnings figures for 1934 just made public showed net profit had declined to $3,229,459, compared with $4,553,903 in the previous year. U. S. Smelting led the decline in the mining stocks with a loss of 3 1/2 points, to 116.

Losses of 1 to as much as 2 1/2 points appeared in such trading favorites as U. S. Steel, at 30 1/2; Westinghouse, at 36 1/2; American Tobacco, at 37 1/2; Santa Fe, at 38 1/2; American Can, at 41 1/2; Chrysler, at 33 1/2; General Motors, at 28 1/2; Union Pacific, at 91 1/2; Standard Oil of New Jersey, at 37 1/2; and Union Carbide, at 46.

Import Threat Lowers Grains

Chicago, March 5.—Light but steady selling erased almost two cents from the values of grain futures today. Weakness of stocks coupled with talk of threatened increasing feed grain imports due to the recent drop in foreign currencies contributed to the prevailing bearish sentiment.

Wheat closed 1/4 to 1 1/2 cent lower, May 95 1/2 @ 96, and corn was 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 down; May 82 1/2 @ 83 1/2. Oats lost 1/2 to 1 cent; rye was 1/2 to 1/4 down; and barley was unchanged to 1/4 off. Final prices were near the day's low points.

Persistent liquidation, augmented at times by execution of stop loss orders, forced the market down. Corn took the lead in the decline, reaching the lowest level in more than a month. Ignoring strength in live stock, corn traders were disturbed by the action of stocks and by fears of enlarged importations from Argentina as a result of recent gyrations in exchange rates.

Wheat traders ignored extremely pessimistic crop and weather advices from the Southwest but at the same time were wary of rain in the spring wheat belt, believed beneficial to preparations for seeding.

Futures Price Range
Wheat	Open	High	Low	Close
May	95 1/2	96 1/2	95 1/2	95 1/2
July	91 1/2	92 1/2	91 1/2	91 1/2
September	88 1/2	89 1/2	88 1/2	88 1/2
Corn
May	82 1/2	83 1/2	82 1/2	82 1/2
July	78 1/2	79 1/2	78 1/2	78 1/2
September	75 1/2	76 1/2	75 1/2	75 1/2
Oats
May	40 1/2	41 1/2	40 1/2	40 1/2
July	37 1/2	38 1/2	37 1/2	37 1/2
September	34 1/2	35 1/2	34 1/2	34 1/2
Rye
May	63 1/2	64 1/2	63 1/2	63 1/2
July	60 1/2	61 1/2	60 1/2	60 1/2
September	57 1/2	58 1/2	57 1/2	57 1/2
Barley
May	74 1/2	75 1/2	74 1/2	74 1/2
July	71 1/2	72 1/2	71 1/2	71 1/2
September	68 1/2	69 1/2	68 1/2	68 1/2

CORN—No. 2 mixed, 81 1/2; No. 3 yellow, 83 1/2; No. 4 white, 85 1/2. OATS—No. 2 white, 55 1/2. RYE—No. 2 white, 60 1/2. BARLEY—No. 2 white, 74 1/2. WHEAT—No. 2 hard, 95 1/2; No. 3 red, 93 1/2.

COTTON—March 5 (P)—Cotton was quiet again today and prices held within a narrow range, closing 2 points higher on March, but generally 1 to 5 points lower.

The opening of the market at an advance of 5 points on March, while later months were about unchanged. A little selling in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables was absorbed at the opening, but prices eased later, influenced by the sag of the grain and stock markets.

High. Low. Last.

March..... 12.31 12.25 12.28

May..... 12.39 12.35 12.38

July..... 12.48 12.41 12.42

October..... 12.38 12.31 12.33

December..... 12.43 12.36 12.39

January..... 12.47 12.40 12.43

Securities Averages.

By the United Press.

Ind. RR. Ut. Stks.

Yesterday..... 82.6 30.9 40.9 67.3

Prev. day..... 84.1 32.1 42.6 68.3

Week ago..... 85.3 32.0 43.0 69.0

Month ago..... 85.5 33.5 46.7 70.6

Year ago..... 97.3 50.1 76.9 86.4

Two years ago..... 44.7 24.9 71.8 46.4

1934 high..... 105.0 54.3 90.3 93.8

1934 low..... 76.0 34.1 47.1 66.4

1933 high..... 102.1 52.3 91.7 96.9

1933 low..... 42.3 23.5 61.1 43.9

Bonds.

Ind. RR. Ut. Stks.

Yesterday..... 86.7 77.8 94.5 86.0

Prev. day..... 86.7 78.7 94.6 86.7

Week ago..... 86.7 78.3 94.6 86.3

Month ago..... 86.5 81.9 97.4 86.9

Year ago..... 80.2 86.4 86.7 84.4

Two years ago..... 58.3 57.6 63.6 58.7

1934 high..... 85.9 90.0 86.0 88.1

1934 low..... 72.6 74.1 77.2 74.8

1933 high..... 77.1 84.9 88.5 83.4

1933 low..... 58.3 58.3 63.6 58.3

(1934 average equals 100.)

Copyright, 1935, Standard Statistics Co.

Chapman Diamond Back Terpinin

Harvey's

1109 Connecticut Avenue

Finance, Business, Economics

Improvement in Readjustment Methods Is Encouraging Feature of Conditions Brought About by Necessity of New Structures.

By a Special Correspondent.

New York, March 5.—One interesting by-product of the depression in the field of corporate finance has been the marked improvement in the methods followed by managements to effect voluntary readjustments in their capital structures, particularly bonded debt. A record number of such readjustments have had to be effected during the past few years, owing to the contraction of corporate assets and the virtual prostration of the capital market for all except gilt-edge issues during most of this period. As a result of this experience, lawyers, bankers and others concerned with such operations have been able to improve their efficiency and dispatch in conducting them.

The most common type of voluntary readjustment has been the extension of the maturity of a corporate bond issue. However, there have been many other types. Western Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande have asked bondholders to defer collection of all or part of their interest for a period. The Great Northern Railway has asked holders of one issue of bonds to authorize the extension of the maturity of another, underlying issue, although the indenture required that the latter be paid at maturity and not extended. The Allegheny Corporation has asked one issue of bonds to exchange ten semiannual interest coupons for an equivalent par value of preference stock.

Many corporations have asked preferred stockholders, on whose shares a large sum of unpaid dividends had accumulated, to accept new stock on some basis in full settlement of their dividend rights. In other instances, bondholders have been asked to accept a reduction in their contractual rate of interest, or to place part of all of their claim to interest on a contingent basis, that would be payable only if earned.

Large Stockholders Dictate Readjustment.

The technique that has been perfected, as a result of extended experience, is a relatively simple one. The plan of readjustment is first promulgated, usually in consultation with large holders of the security issue. For example, if a railroad bond issue is involved, leading insurance companies and other major institutional holders may be consulted before the plan is finally published.

After the plan has been completed and made public, it is usual to appoint one or more trust companies as depositaries, and to ask holders to leave their holdings with these trust companies, accepting certificates of deposit in exchange. At this point, the major effort must be made to obtain deposits. As a rule, the greater the sacrifice asked of security holders, the more aggressive the methods that must be followed to obtain assents. In some cases, a corps of solicitors has been hired, who call on all known holders of the issue and seek to induce them to make deposits. These solicitors are, as a rule, former salesmen of the issue.

In other instances, banking firms are retained to secure deposits, and these firms place their salesmen to work in the same way that they would to distribute a new security offering. Formerly, it was common to allow commissions to investment banking houses and brokers that were able to secure deposits. These commissions varied from a small fraction of a point to six points, a study of methods followed in particular readjustment plans in the past indicates.

Dealing With Minority Troublesome Aspect.

The payment of commissions to secure assents is no longer common, however. This results from the fact that the Federal securities act provides that where commissions are paid to obtain deposits, a full registration statement must be prepared just as with a new public offering. Hence, as long as bankers hesitate to incur the civil liabilities imposed by the act, the tendency will be for corporations to organize their own organizations for obtaining assents to voluntary readjustment plans, rather than to pay bankers commissions for doing so.

After sufficient deposits and assents have been received to declare the plan "operative," the problem of dealing with the minority who do not assent remains. This is one of the most troublesome aspects of the whole procedure, especially where the minority shows a disposition to resort to litigation, and to seek the appointment of equity or bankruptcy receivers, which the corporation is seeking to avoid.

Am. Tobacco Net Up $6,683,072 Over Last Year

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 5.—The American Tobacco Co. reports net income in 1934 of $24,084,280 compared with $17,401,208 in the previous year.

After provision for tax contingencies and preferred dividends, there remained a balance of $20,052,298 available for dividends on the common and common P stock, equal to $4.29 a share. In the previous year the company earned around $3 a share on the two classes of common.

The consolidated balance sheet showed cash and marketable securities on hand at the end of the year of $34,639,797 and inventories at cost of $121,612,398. Total current assets were $166,861,801 and current liabilities $93,144,457.

Transactions on N. Y. Bond Market

By the Associated Press.

Total bond sales yesterday, 99,220,000. The following table shows the volume of sales of various issues, by type of issue, for the week ending March 2, 1935, compared with the same week last year, and for the year to date, 1935, compared with the same period last year.

U. S. GOVERNMENT BONDS
(Sales in $100,000 units and 32nds.)	1935	1934	1935	1934
Liberty	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 1st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 2nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 3rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 4th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 5th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 6th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 7th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 8th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 9th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 10th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 11th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 12th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 13th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 14th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 15th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 16th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 17th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 18th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 19th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 20th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 21st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 22nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 23rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 24th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 25th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 26th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 27th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 28th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 29th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 30th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 31st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 32nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 33rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 34th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 35th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 36th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 37th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 38th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 39th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 40th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 41st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 42nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 43rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 44th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 45th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 46th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 47th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 48th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 49th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 50th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 51st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 52nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 53rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 54th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 55th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 56th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 57th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 58th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 59th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 60th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 61st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 62nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 63rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 64th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 65th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 66th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 67th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 68th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 69th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 70th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 71st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 72nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 73rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 74th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 75th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 76th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 77th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 78th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 79th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 80th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 81st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 82nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 83rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 84th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 85th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 86th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 87th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 88th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 89th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 90th 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 91st 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 92nd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1
31st 93rd 4 1/2	103.6	103.1	103.6	103.1

BENNY Him, Too! By J. Carver Pusey

"Cap" Stubbs No-It Didn't By Edwin

Today's Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS.

- Chum
- Bundle of grain
- Genus of the blue grass
- Ancient wine vessel
- Pine china
- Deeply respectful
- Famous soprano
- Amint
- Inintended or voiced
- Small rug
- Male sheep
- Fronson
- Maculose
- Period of time
- Covered with a hard surface
- 33 Sleeps
- 35 Cooking vessel
- 37 Render vocal
- 38 Lasso
- 40 Pinch
- 42 Devoured
- 43 Exclamation
- 44 Tire
- 46 Animal's foot
- 48 Damage
- 51 Brittle
- 53 Wicked
- 56 Cooking in a certain way

DOWN.

- Kind of rubber
- Word of solemn affirmation
- Bathe
- Extend
- Garden implement
- Sea birds
- Stage player
- Irish expletive
- Structures for housing bees
- Greatly
- Distant but visible
- By way of
- Two-pointed
- Jack
- 39 A king of Judah
- 41 One who goes by
- 45 Fowl in Maine
- 47 Moisture
- 49 Aromatic herb
- 50 Garment
- 52 Note the speed of
- 53 Soon
- 54 Old oath
- 55 Night before an event
- 57 Liquor
- 59 Egyptian god

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

CRUTCH PAIRED
AURORA ACTIVE
US DENOTES AT STY ESTES ADE
ELANE EON OPEN
DERAIL THIRST
DIM ELI
SCALPS ELECTS
ERRS PAL DORA
CAM GENOA TAB
UT PENSIVE NO
REMAND SELECT ERECTS ERASES

(Copyright, 1935.)

APPLE MARY

Post Comics on the Air—Sundays, 8:45 a. m.—WMAL

By Martha Orr

THE BUNGE FAMILY

An Invitation

By Harry J. Tuthill

JOE PALOOKA

Hurry, Hurry!

By Ham Fisher

DIXIE DUGAN

That's Two Aunties!

By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel

THE GUMPS

Now on the Radio—Post Comics—WMAL, Sundays, 8:45 a. m.

Coming and Going

DICK TRACY

Walt Mason, Himself

Bygone Thrills.

Oh, for the thrills I used to know when reading books long, long ago, a lusty tale like "Ivanhoe" would stir my blood and I would dream of actions grand, returning from the Holy Land with shoes and turban full of sand, and sacred mud. And I would lie awake and dream of making stricken Pagan scream by some dried up and barren stream, some distant shore; and now I'm bald and old and chill, I take that book and read my fill, and that old fine electric thrill is there no more. Then later on Charles Dickens came and gained an everlasting fame, and there was nothing halt or lame in all he wrote; what novel could such pleasure yield as thrilling "David Copperfield." To me so greatly it appealed it got my goat. And now I take it down and read, but not with old-time zest or speed, I go to sleep, I go to seed, I'm badly bored; the Dickens heroes, freaks and crooks don't grapple me with iron hooks; what is the matter with the books I once adored? The Byron vogue was not decayed when first my youthful taste was made, and I would read him in the shade the whole day long; and as I read I wished to be a pirate on the deep blue sea, equipped with gun and snickertine, severe and strong. When I read Byron now I think that all his work was wasted ink, his soaring poems seem to shrink, the more I read; it's my old head that's in decay; these writers are as great today, as when they issued, brave and gay, their sparkling screed.

Copyright, 1935.

Walt Mason, Himself

WINNIE WINKLE, the Breadwinner

Accident

Point Scored Against Mellon On Stock Deal

Oldest Employee of Family
"Supposes" Tax Loss Was Brothers' Aim.

By the Associated Press.

Pittsburgh, March 5.—Testimony that he "supposed" a sale and repurchase of $4,000 shares of stock through the joint account maintained by Andrew W. Mellon and his brother, R. B. Mellon, was for a "tax loss purpose" was given today before the Tax Appeals Board by Henry A. Phillips, oldest employee of the Mellon family.

The Government, seeking to sustain its $3,069,000 extra tax assessment on A. W. Mellon's income for 1931, contends that the transaction was part of a scheme to defraud the Government.

Mellon's counsel, Frank J. Hogan, contends the sale was legal, because the repurchase was made more than 30 days after the sale.

Tax Loss Called Only Effect.

Cross-examining the white-haired former bookkeeper, Government Counsel Robert H. Jackson asked: "What is the usual brokerage charge on such a sale?"

"It varies," said Phillips.

"Was it 7 1/2 cents a share?" continued Jackson.

"That's what was paid in this instance," was the reply.

"The only effect was a tax loss, then?" asked Jackson.

"That's true."

"Isn't it true that it came about for that purpose?"

"I suppose so," replied Phillips.

In the transaction, the "joint account" sold to the Union Trust Co. $4,000 shares of Western Public Service Co. stock in December, 1931, for $4 a share and repurchased it for $4.07 1/2 a little more than 30 days later.

Denies Knowledge of Contract.

The Mellons reported an $804,000 loss on the sale to Union Trust, one-half of which was claimed by A. W. Mellon.

Phillips denied that to his knowledge there existed any contract between his employers and the Union Trust for a repurchase.

The witness' disclosure came late in the day after two others went on the stand—Howard M. Johnson, secretary to A. W. Mellon, who completed his tenth day of testimony, and Carl R. Korb, vice president of Union Trust, who followed Phillips.

Most of the testimony had to do with stock transactions between Mellon personally, or the joint account maintained by him and his brother, in which the Government made further effort to support its charge the financier and his concerns made numerous "shadow sales" to evade income tax payment.

Kansas' Navy Defies Guns of Legislature

By the Associated Press.

Topeka, Kans., March 5.—The Kansas navy is hard to sink.

Sent down in legislative engagements two years ago and again a week or so back, the navy bobbed up today in the House of Representatives.

The navy is represented by a bill calling for organization of a Kansas naval militia authorized to accept any naval equipment the United States Navy might care to donate.

Introduced early in the session, the bill was beheaded in committee recently. It was reintroduced by the committee on military affairs.

State, Defense In Insull Trial Outline Cases

Jury Hears Rival Versions of $66,000 Alleged Embezzlement.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 5.—A white-collar jury, completed today, heard State and defense versions of the transaction for which the prosecution hopes to convict Samuel Insull of embezzlement.

The white-haired defendant looked on debonairly while both sides made their opening statements about the $66,000 deal.

Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hara declared he would prove that Insull, then chief of a huge power empire, directed removal of the money from the Treasury of Middle West Utilities Co., headed by his brother, Martin Insull, to bolster the latter's market accounts.

He said that pressure from Martin's brokers prompted Samuel to take the first step on February 5, 1932, when he ordered Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of Middle West, to draw a check for $30,000.

O'Hara asserted the transaction was repeated on February 9, 1932, but the amount was raised to $36,000. Samuel Insull, he added, set forth his approval in writing.

Floyd E. Thompson, attorney who successfully defended Samuel Insull in his $100,000,000 mail fraud trial last fall, said the defendant will give the full story of his life and business ventures as his own star witness. He added:

"Samuel Insull will testify and will tell of the transaction as it took place. He will tell you that he borrowed $7,000,000 of his private fortunes in his efforts to save his companies. If he had not aided Martin Insull he would have been faced with the ruin of his rehabilitation program. He did not receive a single dollar of the money."

Quick . . . RESULTS

For POST READERS and ADVERTISERS

The increasing confidence with which Classified Advertisers of Washington are utilizing The Post Classified Columns is reflected in the lineage gains for the first two months of 1935. In January, Post Classified gained 14,026 lines, and in February there was a lineage increase of 28,530. This increase in volume means that more advertisers are getting better results—with speed and economy in The Post.

Your message in The Post Classified Columns is certain to be read by alert, responsive readers who are in the market to buy what you have to sell—to rent an apartment, room or house.

Reproduced below are a few of the hundreds of satisfied Classified Advertisers who have received quick results in The Post at a minimum cost within the past few weeks.

THE ADS

THE COMMENTS

THE DECATUR—2131 Fla. ave. n.w., Apt. 19. Lovely, large room; in cultured home; for refined gentleman.

"Rented the room the second day the ad was published. Am sold on Post Classified Ads."

18TH ST. N.W., 2443, near Col. rd.—Large front room; twin beds; newly decorated; c. h. w.; next to bath.

"Rented the room after one insertion. Highly pleased with the results I obtained."

BUNGALOW—A. m. 1; five rooms, bath and oak floors; concrete basement, furnace, gas water heater and stationary tubs; 15 min. from Capitol; price, $32.50. Phone Capitol Heights 150.

"Rented bungalow after one insertion at the cost of 85 cents."

WILL SUBLET for 2 months 1 rm., kit., porch and semiprivate bath; downtown. DI. 8010. $30.

"Rented apartment after one insertion. I had many calls."

HAMILTON ST. N.W., 1360—Attractively furn. front room, kit., private bath; detached home, unlim. phone; garage opt.

"Received results the first thing in the morning. For quick action I recommend The Post."

BUNGALOW—3 rms., elec., h.-w. h., garage; $15 monthly. Phone Capitol Heights, 24-F-12.

"Rented the bungalow after three days. I had one hundred calls."

SHERMAN, 1101-15, Apt. 701—Completely furn. bed-living rm.; dressing rm.; large kit.; Frigid., radio, phone, gas, elec.

"Rented the apartment after three days."

CHEVROLET—1932 Landau Phaeton, 6 good tires; perfect mechanical condition; $375; easy terms. Billhimer & Palmer (Ford Dealers), 7 Spencer st., Hyattsville, Md. Greenwood 2057.

"Sold after the ad appeared one time."

CHEVROLET—De Luxe Sedan, $270. Perfect condition.

"Sold after one day. Secured results the first thing in the morning."

BUICK—1933 Sedan; repossessed. Auto Sales Corp., 1317 14th St. N.W. North 9080.

"Sold to a Post reader on the coldest day of the year."

BUICK—'34 Sedan; never driven; "left over." Hyattsville Auto & Supply Co., Hyattsville, Md.; GR. 1810.

"Sold the same day the ad was published."

FORD—'33 De Luxe Coach; $335; terms, trade. Billhimer & Palmer (Ford Dealers), 7 Spencer st., Hyattsville, Md.

"Sold after two days to a Post reader."

BRIGHTWOOD—2 young people or couple; excellent meals; $30 ea.; one block to car. Georgia 2797.

"It cost me 48 cents to secure a tenant. Highly pleased with the results I got."

DOWNTOWN, 1125 14TH ST. N.W.—Small, neat room; $3 weekly.

"Rented the same day the ad was published."

P ST. N.W., 1765—Dupont Circle. Two rooms, kitchen-dinette; gas, heat, electricity and phone included.

"For speedy results I recommend The Post."

THE ADS

THE COMMENTS

GA. AVE., 4804—1 or 2 warm front rooms for light housekeeping.

"Rented after one day. Results very satisfactory."

N ST. N.W., 1207—Large, clean, neatly furnished rooms; single or double.

"Ordered ad for seven days. Rented the first day."

2501 QUEENS CHAPEL RD. NE.—3 rms., semi-bath; a. m. i. DE. 0261-J.

"Gave order for a week. Cancelled after three insertions. Rented to a Post reader."

DOWNTOWN
1 large room, kitchen, bath, $30
A. M. COOPER
820 11th st. n.w. NAT. 1332

"I use Post Classified Ads on contract. They secure tenants quickly and economically for me."

ARLINGTON, VA.—$25; 4 rooms, basement; city water; electricity, gas; large lot; garden; chicken house. 621 Jefferson st. Watson, Clarendon 396-J-1.

"A four line ad four times in The Post brought me a tenant."

WILLYS-KNIGHT—1928 Coach, new paint, runs good, private owner, excellent buy for $35. SHep. 3309.

"Sold the car the same day the ad was published."

WOOD—Dry oak or pine, $7.50 per cord. Call Greenwood 2205, night or day.

"Ordered a 'For Sale' ad for seven days. Received so many orders had to cancel ad to catch up on deliveries."

WANTED—Gentleman roommate; twin beds; nicely furn., warm rm., next bath; $15 mo. Apt. 500, 1514 17th st. n.w.

"Secured desirable room-mate for my son after one insertion in The Post."

12TH ST. N.W., 1017—Clean, lovely, single or double rooms; very reasonable.

"I rented four rooms in four days through Post Ads."

14TH ST. N.W., 1125—Small, neat room; near bath; reasonable; hot-water heat.

"Gave order for seven days. Rented the room the first day the ad appeared."

BRIGHTWOOD COURTS, 5320 8th st. n.w., 3 rooms, large kitchen and bath, double exposure, newly decorated; Frigidaire on house current; available Feb. 1; $43.50.

"Rented the apartment after three days."

PETWORTH—BARGAIN—$50
3912 5th st. n.w., 8 rooms and bath, semidet.; nice condition. Available Feb. 18. Nat. 3365.
WASHINGTON REALTY CO., INC.

"Rented after second insertion. Always get splendid results in The Post."

COLUMBIA RD. N.W., 1748—Atrac. front rm.; also large rm. for 2; near bath; reas.

"Rented the second day the ad was published."

P ST. N.W., 2012—4 rooms and bath; very reasonable. Call North 9864.

"Rented both rooms after one day's advertising."

EUCLID ST. N.W., 1208—Large front room, semiprivate bath; suitable 2 girls; board optional; convenient location.

"Rented after one day's advertising."

EXCEPTIONAL OPENING
For experienced salesman to sell new and used Fords; also other popular makes used cars. Here is an opportunity for the right man to get in on the ground floor with a live organization and make real money. It will pay you to investigate our proposition. Call Sunday between 10 a. m.-4 p. m.

"Secured two able experienced salesmen after one day's advertising."

BILLHIMER & PALMER
Ford Dealers
7 Spencer St., Hyattsville, Md.

The Knit-Tex Coat $30

Weightless Warmth

- Soft and luxurious to the touch, Knit-Tex provides snug weightless warmth when the air is nippy.
- Knit-Tex can take a pounding but still retain its smart lines.
- The 1935 Knit-Tex styles give you something unusual and subtle in color-blending and pattern-harmony.

(Take the Showsters to the Men's Shop—Second Floor.)

THE HECHT CO.

POST CLASSIFIED ADS
PHONE NATIONAL 4200